SENATE CHIEFS FALL IN LINE ON TAX INCREASES

Watson Shifts Position to Join With Smoot After Seeing Hoover.

ONLY QUESTION NOW, WHAT LEVY TO RAISE

Indiana Leader Accepted as Reflecting President's View on Subject.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Increased Federal taxation seemed certain yesterday. Capitol Hill concluded that President Hoover would recommend the raising of more revenue in order to offset a prospective $2,000,000,000 Treasury deficit, and it was generally agreed that the next Congress would enact some kind of tax revision legislation.

The only question was as to what class or classes of taxpayers would be called on to shoulder the burden.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is now putting the finishing touches to a new taxation plan, and will submit it to President Hoover this week.

In the last few months the Secretary has been studying a half-dozen or more proposals for bringing in additional revenue. He has considered a selective sales tax, a higher tax on large incomes, a revival of wartime nuisance taxes, a special tax on automobiles and radios, a higher estate tax, a gift tax and lowering of some of the exemptions in the income tax law so as to exact returns from more individuals.

Hoover Convinces Watson.

Two men who ordinarily speak for the administration at the Capitol—Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana and Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah—yesterday came out for increased taxation.

In the case of Senator Watson, Republican leader in the upper House, this represented an about-face. Until yesterday he had vigorously opposed all suggestions of tax revision.

Senator Watson shifted his position after a conference with President Hoover at the White House. The two men talked over the tax problem for three hours.

"It appears that some tax increase legislation is inescapable," Senator Watson said afterward at the Capitol.

Other members naturally concluded that Senator Watson was reflecting the President's view of the tax question.

Senator Reed Smoot, who is chairman of the finance committee which handles revenue measures in the Senate, agreed with Senator Watson.

"It is quite evident that there will have to be further taxation," he said.

Borah Would Levy on Rich.

Senator William E. Borah (Republican), of Idaho, likewise agreed that the Federal Government would have to have more revenue in order to cope with the towering Treasury deficit.

"It seems certain that we will have to increase taxes," Borah said. "In fact that has been apparent for a year. I assume we shall increase the rate on the higher income brackets and on the estate taxes."

Borah's fellow Progressives, who will hold the balance of power in the next Congress, feel as he does that the rich should carry the burden of increased taxation.

Senators Watson and Smoot said yesterday that they favored a sales tax on certain commodities, but both expressed doubt that Congress would approve such a tax.

The impression prevailed at the Capitol that President Hoover, in his annual message on the state of the Union, would make a definite recommendation for the raising of additional revenue.

Reed Suggestion Scored.

With a presidential election coming next year, predictions have been freely made that neither of the major parties would dare suggest a tax increase. Treasury officials, however, made up their minds some time ago that there had to be additional revenue in order to offset the tremendous deficit.

When Senator David A. Reed (Republican) of Pennsylvania, came out

Homesickness Blamed as Baltimore Veteran Is Denied Leave.

Homesickness apparently became unbearable for George Roe, 61-year-old veteran, last night, and he ended his life in a leap from a third-story window at the Soldiers Home Hospital.

The man had been at the hospital two weeks for mental observation, police were told by hospital attendants. He had begged to go to his home in Baltimore several times and last week was given a leave of absence. An attendant passed by his room last night and Roe made a plea to be allowed to return to Baltimore, it is said, but the man did not pay much attention to him.

A short time later George Clark, telephone operator in another wing of the building, saw the form of a man outlined against a third-floor window ledge. Clark shouted for him to stand back but the man leaped, crashing to the ground below. Dr. William Moore, of the hospital staff, pronounced Roe dead. He is survived by his wife, in Baltimore.

FOR TAX BOOST

WORLD-KNOWN NAMES LISTED IN TAX CHARGE

Sums Mentioned so Huge Deficit Would Be Cut If Collected.

The Federal Government, it was learned by The Washington Post last night, is in possession of evidence which, if substantiated, will demonstrate a wholesale evasion of income-tax returns on the part of nationally known individuals and corporations.

According to information turned over to the Internal Revenue Bureau by a former employe of a prominent New York accounting house at the suggestion of Representative Wright Patman, of Texas, the men and corporations under investigation withheld millions in income taxes over a period of three years.

Some of the men and corporations under scrutiny of Revenue Bureau agents are internationally known, and many are of national renown. Agents of the bureau, it is reported, are now in New York investigating documentary evidence turned over by the accountant.

Hundreds of Millions Involved.

Certain members of Congress are familiar with the evidence in the alleged fraudulent income-tax returns; but Representative Patman, to whom the accountant first presented the evidence, was the only one who would consent to be quoted.

"I admit that I have been talked to by individuals who are interested in getting the Bureau of Internal Revenue to levy additional assessments amounting to several hundred millions of dollars against millionaires and wealthy corporations which have made fraudulent income tax returns," said Representative Patman.

"I am informed that these individuals have made complaints to the Internal Revenue Bureau, naming individuals and corporations that are guilty of such evasions. If the charges are true, it will considerably

G.O.P. Votes Today On Ackerman Seat

Four Out as Choices to Oppose Democrat on December 1.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The Republican candidate for the congressional seat made vacant by the death of Representative Ernest R. Ackerman, Republican, of Plainfield, will be selected from among four aspirants at a special primary election tomorrow.

Democratic voters also will ballot for their nominee, but merely as a formality, since Percy H. Stewart, of Plainfield, is the only contender for that party's position on the ballot at a special election to be held on December 1 to fill Mr. Ackerman's unexpired term. The election may influence the complexion of the House of Representatives when it convenes on December 7.

The Republicans are Donald H. McLean, of Elizabeth; John E. Nicol, of Plainfield; Kenneth C. Hand, of Roselle, and Wesley A. Stanger, of Cranford. The district gave Representative Ackerman a plurality of 32,000 last year, but at the State election on November 4, A. Karry Moore, Democratic governor-elect, carried it by a plurality of 11,000 votes.

TROOPS RECALL IS IMPOSSIBLE, SAYS JAPANESE

Evacuation of His Men Would Bring Chaos, Shigeru Avers.

CHINESE ARE BOMBED SOUTH OF ANGANCHI

Only Two Foreigners, Both From Britain, Remain in Tsitsihar.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Mukden, Manchuria, Nov. 16.—Asserting that chaos would follow immediate evacuation of Manchuria by the Japanese, Lieut. Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japan's supreme manchurian commander, said today that if fighting broke out again his troop line might be established as far north as Tsitsihar, stronghold of the Chinese forces.

In the event of a major engagement with Gen Mah Chan-Shan on the Nonni, the Japanese general said, the momentum of the movement may carry his men as far as the fortress city.

What happens on the Nonni, Gen. Honjo said, depends entirely on the army of Gen. Mah, "now confronting the Japanese in a menacing manner."

"In Europe," he continued, "they seem to think that conditions in Manchuria are similar to the conditions in Europe and that if the Japanese army withdrew some Chinese authority would immediately replace it.

Declared Impossible.

"That is entirely untrue. Evacuation today is not only impracticable, it is impossible."

Although the League of Nations called on Japan to complete evacuation by today, and that call was not obeyed, Japan meant no disrespect to the league, Gen. Honjo said.

"We are not obstructing the league's objectives, or attempting to lower its prestige," he asserted, "but we must do what necessity dictates to protect Japanese lives, rights and interests in this part of the world."

"We have no direct proof that Mah Chan-Shan is getting Russian assistance, but there is much reliable evidence that indirect aid is reaching him from Russian quarters.

Quantities of Arms.

"Quantities of arms of Russian manufacture are reaching his army and he also has antiaircraft guns and machine guns such as he never had before."

Gen. Honjo said the Japanese forces in Manchuria total 13,400. His strength in the Nonni area is being kept secret, but on the basis of his figures it would appear to be about 3,000.

Tokyo, Tuesday, Nov. 17 (A.P.).—Gen. Mah Chan-Shan moved his front line of Manchurian troops facing Japanese forces up within 10 miles of Tahsing today, the Japanese war office said.

Both sides were patrolling the "no man's land" between them, the statement added.

A squadron of Japanese scout planes left the Tachiarai military airdrome on the Island of Kyushu this morning for Mukden, by way of Seoul. A squadron of bombing planes also started from other airdromes in Japan and Korea.

Compromises Unacceptable.

Several unofficial compromise plans for settlement of the Manchurian strife with China had been presented to the Japanese from various sources, it was authoritatively said, but none was acceptable.

It was emphasized that Tokyo had spoken the last word, which was "a simple, fair proposition, and therefore left little room for compromise."

"China's face can not be saved," the statement said.

London, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—A Tsitsihar dispatch to the London Daily Mail says two Japanese airplanes dropped about 30 bombs today over the Chinese lines in Manchuria, south of Anganchi. Little damage was caused by the bombing.

Two Japanese airplanes also flew over Tsitsihar at noon, the dispatch added, but withdrew when Chinese fired at them.

The situation at Tsitsihar was described as extremely tense.

BRITAIN OPENS ECONOMIC WAR TO SAVE TRADE

PLANNED BILL BEARS ON AMERICAN GOODS

Turkey Also Hits at U. S.; Snowden Elevated to House of Lords.

London, Nov. 16 (U.P.).—The British government today inaugurated an economic war in defense of its industry.

It announced the intention to create a tariff striking directly at the manufactured products of other nations.

It put its "greatest salesman," the Prince of Wales, on the air in a patriotic broadcast with a plea to the people to "buy British."

The prince's speech, following significantly on the heels of an announcement in the House of Commons by Sir Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, outlining the proposed tariff measure, marked the beginning of Great Britain's greatest peacetime publicity in behalf of empire trade.

Appeals to Housewives.

"The Nation," said the prince, "can not allow British skill and craftsmanship to rust and tarnish through lack of use * * * I back my appeal not only as a consumer, but as a farmer and breeder of England and Canada, as master of the fishing fleets, anxious that the arduous labors of our fishermen shall be justly rewarded."

To the housewives of England, the prince appealed to "make your first choice from home products, and your second choice, from products of the empire."

"This rule," he said, "I ask you to follow in your purchases, whether they are great or small. It implies no lack of friendship for any foreign nation or for the whole world, to see the fortunes of this country solidly established."

The board of trade will have the power to impose tariffs as high as 100 per cent ad valorem on certain manufactured articles, Runciman announced, to prolonged cheering from the Conservatives, who have long been committed to the principle of protectionism.

American Products.

The bill, applying only to "class three of the monthly trade returns," will be introduced in Parliament immediately, Runciman said, and it is hoped that by rushing it through the necessary stages, the measure will be ready for the king's assent on Friday.

"Class three" distinctly affects articles of American manufacture. It does not apply to raw materials, but deals chiefly with such manufactured or partly manufactured products as pottery, glass, iron and steel, cutlery, hardware, scientific instruments, typewriters, articles made of silk, chemicals, leather goods, paper, vehicles and articles of rubber.

Nearly all of these classifications are to be found in normal British imports from the United States.

It was indicated that duty on all of these articles will not immediately be imposed, and that it is even possible that no duty may be placed on some of the articles.

Cites Excessive Dumping.

The Board of Trade will be empowered "from time to time" to establish such tariffs as are recommended by a committee.

Agricultural duties will not be imposed, Runciman said. The empowering act will be effective for six months.

Noah Beery, Lost In Snow, Rescued

Film Star and Two Friends Found in Hills Cabin in California.

Palmdale, Calif., Nov. 16 (U.P.).—Noah Beery, motion picture actor, was rescued from a snowbound cabin in the hills east of here tonight after he had been marooned for two days.

Beery and his companions, O. G. Norris, superintendent of the Paradise Mountain resort, and A. L. Hendricks, real estate agent, had been missing since Sunday morning.

Searching parties spent the day hunting for the men, and found them in an isloated cabin, surrounded by deep snowbanks, 12 miles from the resort. With the help of the rescue party and horses, Beery and his companions made their way back to the lodge.

Einstein Soon to Sail For Studies in America

Berlin, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Prof. Albert Einstein will go to the United States soon to resume his studies at Mount Wilson Observatory, Frau Einstein said in a telephone conversation today. She refused additional information.

It was previously announced that the scientist would spend the winter in Europe and not make a second trip to America.

GRANDI REACHES WASHINGTON UNDER HEAVY GUARD FOR HIS CONFERENCE WITH PRESIDENT

BORAH AMONG THOSE MEETING STATESMAN

Marines and Secret Agents Throng Station as Stimson Greets Visitors.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Dino Grandi, Mussolini's minister of foreign affairs, arrived here late yesterday afternoon with his wife, Signora Grandi, for a three-day series of conferences with President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson with the design of furthering the entente between nations for economic recovery and international peace. The Grandi visit is another incident in the new school of "personal diplomacy" which French Premier Laval's recent American trip made popular.

Immediately upon his arrival in the United States the Italian statesman came direct to Washington to offer to President Hoover the compliments of King Victor Emmanuel and Mussolini. He and Signora Grandi were presented to President and Mrs. Hoover shortly after their arrival at Union Station by Secretary of State Stimson, who had made the acquaintance of the 38-year-old diplomat at the London conference last year.

Signor Grandi declared after the White House visit, "We are most grateful for kindness shown to us by this cordial reception on our very first arrival in Washington."

Air Trip Here Abandoned.

The Grandi visit became ice-bound shortly before the arrival of his steamship, the Conte Grande, off Quarantine yesterday morning. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had been scheduled to fly Signor Grandi and his party here from New York aboard the crack new air liner of the Pan-American Airways, but the trip had to be abandoned at the last moment on account of the fog which wrapped the entire Atlantic seaboard and made not only flying, but even shipping movements in New York Harbor, exceedingly hazardous.

A special train of the Pennsylvania Railroad made the 220-mile trip from New York to Washington in 229 minutes. Signor Grandi did not make a triumphal entry to New York, with the usual salutes of ticker tape and Broadway cheers, as he desired to come to present his compliments to President Hoover first. This will take place when he goes to New York on Friday.

The arrival of the Grandi train in Washington was preceded by a special pilot locomotive, which is an honor usually reserved for the President when he travels. A cordon of Marines, under command of Maj. S. Smith Lee, from the Marine Barracks; a squad of detectives from police headquarters under Inspector Frank S. W. Burke, and scores of State and Justice Departments special agents patroled Union Station. There was no disturbance of any kind, however, and the sympathy of the crowd which greeted Grandi and his wife was exceedingly cordial. Hearty handclapping, cheers and a few scattered "vivas" were heard.

Welcome at Union Station.

As soon as Grandi's train entered Union Station shortly before 6 o'clock, Secretary and Mrs. Stimson and Italian Ambassador and Signora de Martino came forward to greet him. Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, jr., had gone to New York to meet the Grandis and he assisted in the introductions of the other officials of the State Department and the President's secretary, Lawrence S. Richey.

The shifting program for receiving the Grandis had first provided for their arrival in Washington by train. This was changed for the more spectacular plan of having Col. Lindbergh fly them to Washington. At the last minute, the airplane trip was canceled and the welcoming arrangements that had been so carefully planned by Charles Lee Cook, the State Department attache in charge of the arrangements, were again rearranged.

When Signor Grandi stepped off the train with Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, jr., and Warren Delano Robins immediately behind him, the other members of the official greeting party were waiting

DEMOCRATS DIFFER ON DELEGATE ISSUE

Davis Plan to Continue Old Convention Basis Is Hit and Championed.

(Associated Press.)

Champoins and opponents, at least two of whom would "fight" or "insist" upon their convictions, appeared yesterday in scattered comment on John W. Davis' view that delegates to the 1931 Democratic national convention be chosen on the basis of the present Congress rather than according to the new reapportionment.

Of the 37 members of the party's national committee who spoke, 15 agreed with him and 8 were in opposition. Three said it was immaterial to them. Eleven declined to speak and the others could not be reached.

Chairman John J. Raskob withheld comment since the matter will come before the January committee meeting. In making public the Davis interpretation of a delegate resolution passed by the 1928 convention Democratic headquarters emphasized that final decision rested with the committee.

Horatio J. Abbott, committeeman from Michigan, which would gain eight delegates if selection was under the new reapportionment, said:

"I surely shall protest the ruling of Mr. Davis. It is my opinion the meeting of the national committee will thrash out the matter. Michigan is entitled to 38 delegates and we shall insist upon that representation."

Richard F. Mitchell, representing Iowa, which would lose four delegates if the new reapportionment were followed, was equally emphatic in support of Mr. Oavis.

"Our present State organization is based on the old apportionment," he said, "and since the new one does not become effective until March, 1933, I can not see how they can properly change the convention delegations before that time. I intend to fight for the old delegation."

Virtually all of those who made favorable comment on the Davis view were in States which stand to lose delegates should the new reapportionment be the basis for the make-up of the 1932 convention, while virtually all those who opposed his opinion represent their party in States which would gain.

Eleven States would gain delegates on the basis of the new reapportionment and 21 States would have the size of their representation reduced.

Of the committee members voicing comment, whose State delegations would not be affected by the method of procedure, three indorsed the Davis opinion and three opposed it. Seven withheld comment.

Dr. James H. Moyle, Utah, said, while his State was not concerned, "Mr. Davis' ideas are generally good

Five Reds Nabbed In Dynamite Theft

Plot to Blow Up 20 Barges Called Opening of War on Capitalism.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Five men, one of whom police said admitted participation in theft of explosives to be used in blowing up twenty barges moored at Port Redding, N. J., were arrested today.

Police also seized a quantity of dynamite, percussion caps and fuses and quoted one of the prisoners, William Hoyle, of Wappinger Falls, N. Y., as saying an explosion aboard a barge on election day was the opening of "a communistic war on capitalism."

The other four, who described themselves as Thomas Bunker, Joseph Riley, Jack Sordenburg and William Treidger, denied any knowledge of the stolen explosives or the alleged plot to blow up the barges. Police said all except Bunker admitted being members of the Communist party.

Statement of Grandi On Purpose of Visit

Dino Grandi, visiting Italian statesman, last night issued the following statement after his late arrival had prevented his scheduled conference with the press:

"I have come from the White House, where Signora Grandi and I have had the honor to be introduced to President and Mrs. Hoover. We are, of course, most grateful for the kindness shown to us by this cordial reception on our very first arrival in Washington.

"I hardly need to say all the interest I attach to the conversations I am going to have with your Chief Executive and with the Secretary of State, Mr. Stimson.

"President Hoover's initiative of last June has marked the opening of

PITTS IS SENTENCED TO ONE MORE YEAR

Government Prepares to Cite Others Involved in Contempt Charges.

G. Bryan Pitts, former head of the F. H. Smith Co., now serving a fourteen year sentence, was given another jolt yesterday when Justice F. D Letts in Criminal Court, No. 2, found him guilty of criminal contempt of court and sentenced him to an additional year and a day behind bars.

Justice Letts had hardly pronounced sentence when the Government counsel, Nugent Dodds, Assistant Attorney General, asked if any others were to be cited by the judge. Informed that the court would suggest that any others who might be cited should be cited by the Government in the proper way, Mr. Dodds quickly announced that other "citations" would be placed before the court shortly.

It had been expected that on the evidence adduced at Pitts' hearing, Justice Letts might cite others for aiding and abetting in the criminal contempt. That expectation brought about one of the most crowded courtrooms in years. Half an hour before the convening of court the entire room was packed, the aisles were crowded, and scores hung about the judge's bench.

The doors were closed and only those who had some sort of credentials got past a cordon of deputy marshals. The protection that has been accorded Pitts throughout the hearing was noticeable in court, for many members of the detective bureau were to be seen in the crowd. It was explained that this protection was for Pitts' sake, the intimation

ANTI-FASCISTS OPEN ATTACKS ON GRANDI

Hoover Declines to Receive Montrose; Meeting Raps Mussolini's Party.

Foes of Fascism gathered yesterday in a local hotel to perfect plans for the organization Friday at Typographical Temple, of a permanent international committee to combat the Fascist philosophy of government.

At about the same time that Signor Grandi reached the Capital, a group of anti-Fascists, claiming to be a committee representing anti-Fascist organizations with a reputed collective membership of 350,000, issued a statement attacking Fascism and Signor Grandi.

Warren C. Montross, of New York, a trade union organizer and head of the committee, when told yesterday that President Hoover would not receive him, replied that in any event there would be no demonstration against Signor Grandi.

"I have informed the Department of Justice where it can reach me in case some individual attempts a demonstration," Mr. Montross said. "Our purpose is not to make a demonstration, but to attempt to effect a permanent organization."

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President in 1928, telegraphed the following message to the committee: "I hope the Grandi visit will be

Search for Launch With 8 Is Fruitless

Students and Teachers Missing in Thick Fog Since Sunday.

Bivalve, N. J., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—In a thick fog Coast Guardsmen and others searched tonight for five Millville High School youths and three of their teachers, missing since yesterday in a 26-foot motor launch built by the father of one of the boys.

Those in the boat when it left yesterday for a pleasure trip down the Maurice River to Delaware Bay were: Miss Isabelle McCaughey, 25, Philadelphia; Miss Alma Moyer, 26, Kulpmont, Pa.; Miss Hannah Ewan, 21, of Millville; Irwin Ewan, 18-year-old brother of Miss Ewan; Marshall Roe, 18, and his two brothers, Kenneth, 15, and Harwood, 17, of Dorchester; Harper Chance, 16, skipper of the boat.

Harry Chance, Port Norris boat builder and father of Harper, returned to his home tonight after a tour of the bay and reported that he found no trace of the launch. He said he was still hopeful the launch was anchored in some secluded spot and would be found as soon as the fog lifted.

Heads of 15 Job Agencies Face License Arrest Today

Warrants will be served today on proprietors of 15 of Washington's 40 licensed employment agencies as the result of a drive instituted by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride. The operators will be charged with violation of the licensing act in failing to keep the license in a conspicuous place.

Names of the proprietors and agencies involved were withheld last night by Thomas F. Cameron, assistant corporation counsel, who has been in charge of the campaign. He said that bonds of from $100 to $300 will be asked as the arrests are made and that the Police Court will be asked to revoke the licenses of all proprietors adjudged guilty.

Four policemen, two white and two colored, have been conducting a survey of all employment agencies in the District during the past ten days. The inspections were authorized by the District Commissioners.

An even more extensive drive to prevent some of the agencies from misleading and often robbing the unemployed will be conducted by the corporation counsel's office as soon as the present cases are disposed of.

A thorough check of all books and records of the agencies will be made to ascertain how many jobs have been provided clients from whom fees have been collected. While the United

Parents of Closet Victim Are Indicted for Cruelty

Parents of Edith Riley were indicted by the District grand jury yesterday for alleged violation of Section 814 of the District code, which relates to cruelty to children.

The father, Harry N. Riley, and the stepmother, Elsie M. Riley, are at liberty on bonds they put up after they had been given a preliminary hearing in Police Court last week.

No action to fix a trial date can be taken until the couple has been arraigned formally on the indictment. They will be brought into court Friday for that process, and if no dilatory motions are filed the trial may be held early in December.

Meantime, Edith is at Gallinger Hospital, where physicians and psychiatrists are carefully watching and prescribing for her. She is picking up weight at about a pound a day, but because she only weighed 38 pounds when taken to the hospital ten day ago, she has a long way to go to measure up to the standard of the average girl of her age.

The indictment charges that the Rileys "feloniously tortured, cruelly beat, abused and otherwise maltreated" the child. The indictment stated that Edith is 12 years old.

The child was rescued November 6 from a closet by detectives where she

GRANDI PARTY CUTS NEW YORK LANDING

Heavily Guarded, Statesman Is Rushed From Vessel to Capital Train.

New York, Nov. 17 (A.P.).—Dino Grandi, premier Mussolini's traveling proxy, came into a haze-bound harbor today and was whisked from the liner Conte Grande to Jersey City, where a special train sped him to Washington.

Bad flying weather canceled a plan to have Col. Charles A. Lindbergh fly the foreign minister to the Capital in the Caribbean Clipper, 45-passenger flying boat. Carefully guarded, the Grandi party cut a corner around New York City proper, where anti-Fascists had threatened to hold demonstrations.

Smiling broadly, with his teeth gleaming above the famous "purple" beard, Signor Grandi said the conversations he would have with President Hoover and Secretary Stimson "will prove useful for the general understanding which is so necessary to the world recovery." He said he came "to bring the Italian contribution to the work of international cooperation."

Police Boats on Guard.

Asked whether the one-year naval holiday proposed by Italy would aid the cause of disarmament by assisting toward general reduction in the future, he said:

"I certainly hope so."

"I had hoped to have the great privilege of being piloted by Col. Lindbergh to Washington on the Caribbean Clipper," he said, adding that to him Lindbergh was "a symbol of your youth, your courage, your dynamic energy."

Dozens of tugs and cutters clustered around his liner as it came into the bay. Three New York City police boats kept watch, and a Coast Guard speedster, which carried machine guns, darted here and there. Planes zoomed overhead, among them being the seaplane of Ugo D'Annunzio, son of Italy's warrior-poet.

With Signora Grandi by his side, wearing a chic green coat, brown hat and orchids, the foreign minister posed for innumerable photographs, spoke a prepared address for the newsreels, and then, when informed that a machine had broken down midway in the talk, he shrugged his shoulders amiably and said it all over again.

Signora Grandi, an attractive woman, as youthful as her husband, said she wants to see old masters in the Metropolitan Museum when she returns to New York. She revealed that she came with three trunks full of clothes, and that for her first formal appearance at the White House would select a form-fitting silk gown.

She plans to get some books for her two children here, and hopes to send her little son, Franco, to school in this country some time.

Official Welcome Friday.

An "official" welcome to Signor Grandi will be held next Friday, William F. Deegan, chairman of the committee, announced tonight. Following New York's reception, Signor Grandi will go to Philadelphia, returning here November 23 and remaining until November 27.

The city tug Macom will pick up Signor Grandi and his official party at Jersey City Friday morning, returning with them about 8:45, when the foreign minister will be escorted up Broadway to City Hall by a guard of honor composed of mounted policemen and the police department band.

Mayor Walker will welcome the Italian statesman there and present Signor Grandi with the medal of the City of New York.

a period of intensified diplomatic activity. The President's proposal for one year postponement of intergovernmental debts sounded throughout the world as a call to action, warning the governments and the nations of the urgent necessity of facing the situation with a united effort of cooperation. The timely call of your President was duly answered and from that time the responsible men of every country have been putting their heads together to find the best way out of the difficulties of the moment.

"Secretary Stimson's visit to Rome at the beginning of July was most welcome. To be in personal touch with him at that very moment was for us a most fortunate circumstance. We considered it also a great good fortune that Mr. Stimson was able to be present at the meetings which took place immediately afterward in Paris and London between the representatives of the countries chiefly concerned in the application of the Hoover plan.

"There is no doubt that personal contacts between the men who are in charge of the foreign policies of their countries are a most useful contributoin to a better understanding among the nations.

"As I had the opportunity to say before, we have followed the visit of M. Laval to Washington with the heartiest sympathy. In this visit Italy has seen, indeed, a very encouraging sign of the work for general cooperation which is essential to the consolidation of peace and the restoration of prosperity.

"In a moment like the present one feels strongly that the good of each is the good of all and that the misfortune of one can never be the fortune of the other. The interests of the nations are linked together. In coming here to pay my respects to your President and to bring a message of friendship from the Italian to the American people I feel that I represent one of the links of the chain.

"The scope of my visit here is to offer the Italian contribution to the common work for the common good."

GRANDI ARRIVES IN CAPITAL FOR TALKS WITH PRESIDENT

for them. In addition to the entire staff of the Italian Embassy, Secretary and Mrs. Stimson, Lawrence Richey, the President's secretary; Capt. Charles R. Train, the naval aid; Lieut. Col. Campbell B. Hodges, the military aid, and Assistant Secretaries of State Wilbur J. Carr, Francis White, James G. Rogers and H. H. Bundy, Brig. Gen. Edward T. Colling, commanding the Eighteenth Brigade; Admiral Butler, of the Washington Navy Yard, and Pierre de L. Boal, chief of the division of western European affairs, of the State Department, were also present.

The Italian Ambassador accompanied Signor Grandi and the Signora, while he presented all the members of the Italian Embassy here to them. Then the group slowly walked down the station platform, Secretary Stimson walking with Grandi in animated conversation and Signora Grandi and Mrs. Stimson behind. A blind train had been drawn up on the track adjacent to prevent any incidents.

The entire party passed through the file of marines who were rigidly at attention and then proceeded to the port-cochere of the President's entrance, where the cameras and newsreel men had gathered. Calcium lights burned brightly and the flashes boomed, while Grandi chatted with Secretary Stimson.

The Italian Minister is a well-built man, handsome, with a short-purplish beard that was originally grown to hide his youth and which gave him an air of maturity. He was a picture of what the well-dressed man will wear, his frock coat and light gray trousers hidden under a traveling overcoat. He wore a top hat and fawn spats. He has none of the animation and movement that is sometimes associated with Latins.

Signora Grandi Beautiful.

Signora Grandi is a beautiful woman, with a dark Madonnalike face and an air of graciousness and distinction. She wore a dark green traveling coat and close-fitting brown turban. She seemed to be impressed chiefly with the beauty of the scene and marveled to the wife of the Italian Ambassador and Mrs. Stimson on the picture presented by the Capitol, outlined in white against a deep, dark blue sky, where the first outlines of a crescent moon were already visible.

Three bands were waiting for the arrival of the Italian party and when Signor Grandi came in sight, they burst into the strains of the "Marcia Reale," the Italian national anthem. The Fascist hymn, "Giovinezza," which Toscanini refused to play at a concert in Italy, was not heard. The band of the British cruiser Delhi joined with the Army and Navy bands in the salute.

A squad of eighteen motorcycle policemen cleared traffic for the Grandi party, which proceeded up Pennsylvania avenue to the Treasury Building, where the motorcade turned into the White House. Here Signor and Signora Grandi met the President and Mrs. Hoover for the first time. The visit lasted almost 35 minutes. Only the Italian minister, his wife, the Ambassador and Signora de Martino, Secretary and Mrs. Stimson and Warren Delano Robbins, chief of the division of protocol of the State Department, accompanied the President's secretary, Lawrence Richey, and the military and naval aids to the White House. The rest of the Grandi party went to the Mayflower Hotel.

Informal White House Call.

The White House visit was more an informal call than an official event. After the formalities of introductions had been made in the blue room, the President took his guests to the red room, where every one sat down and chatted informally. Grandi speaks excellent English and he and President Hoover at once began talking. Signora Grandi is rather unfamiliar with English, but she conversed with Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. Stimson in French.

Signor Grandi's first official act was to express to President Hoover the greetings of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy and of the Italian head of the state, Signor Mussolini.

The President, Secretary Stimson, and the Italian foreign minister only lightly touched upon the subject of their future conversations. A more extended conversation will be arranged when the Italian statesman is the guest of honor at the White House dinner tomorrow night.

When the Grandis left the White House the minister himself faced the array of cameras and flares with a pleasant smile and stood with Mrs. Stimson, Secretary Stimson, and Signora Grandi while more photographs were taken. His motor-cycle escort whisked him off to Woodley, the home of Secretary Stimson, where the couple will be house guests until Wednesday, when they move to the Mayflower Hotel for the remainder of their visit.

Immediately following his visit to the White House Signor Grandi, through Signor Guido Rocco, who has the rank of counselor of legation and will supervise the press relations of the Grandi visit, made public his first statement to the press. He remarked on the interest with which the Italian government had followed the recent visit of French Premier Laval to the United States and then expressed the intention of the Italian government to associate itself in any work of international reconstruction "to the common work for the common good."

He mentioned the proposal of President Hoover of last June, which he hailed as a "call to action, warning the governments and the nations of the urgent necessity of facing the situation with a united effort of cooperation." He then declared:

"Secretary Stimson's visit to Rome at the beginnnig of July was most welcome. To be in personal touch with him at that very moment was for us a most fortunate cirmumstance. We considered it also a great good fortune that Mr. Stimson was able to be present at the meeting which took place immediately afterward in Paris between the representatives of the countries chiefly concerned in the application of the Hoover plan. There is no doubt that personal contacts between the men who are in charge of the foreign policy of their countries are a most useful contribution to a better understanding among the nations."

Stimson Host at Dinner.

Last night Secretary Stimson was the host at an informal dinner party to which he had invited some of those who knew the Italian Foreign Minister when he was head of the Italian delegation to the London disarmament conference last year. These included Senator and Mrs. Davis Aiken Reed, Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, Warren Delano Robbins and Mrs. Robbins, who had known the Grandis when Mr. Robbins was Counsellor of the American Embassy in Rome for three years; Mr. and Mrs. Allen T. Klots, and the chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, Senator William E. Borah, and Mrs. Borah, Senator Reed and Secretary Adams were official delegates to the disarmament conference.

The presence of Senator Borah was regarded as especially significant as it may indicate that out of the Hoover-Grandi conversations may come some important international step in regard to disarmament or reparations on both of which subjects the chairman of the foreign relations committee and Signor Grandi see eye to eye.

Following the dinner, Senator Borah, smiling, remarked, "I like Grandi very much."

Around an open fire in the palatial home of the Secretary, which Mrs. Stimson had decorated with several Italian objects d'art from their visit to Italy last summer, the statesmen present had their first contact with the real issues of the Grandi visit. After dinner the women left Secretary Stimson and Signor Grandi the center of an animated group which included Senator Borah and other men. The warming influence of the fireplace, the cordiality and personal realtionship of two old friends, which the meeting between the Italian foreign minister and his American colleague typified, augured well for the auspicious outcome of the Grandi visit.

Tells of Results in Berlin.

Last night the Italian foreign minister explained to the influential members of the Senate present and to the Secertary of State the results of his recent visit to Berlin. His conversations with Chancellor Bruening emphasized the necessity of a reorganization in the modalities of reparations and war debts. He gave the American statesmen present at Woodley a striking picture of the lamentable consequences which would follow unless Germany is able to secure some alleviation of her obligations under the Young plan and under the Versailles Treaty. Signor Garndi is the author of the "twelve months armament holiday" which was adopted almost universally November 1 by all of the countries t will be represented at the Geneva disarmament conference in February. He and Senator Borah lengthily discussed the possibility of applying this initiative as a means of securing important disarmament relief for other countries as well as the United States and Italy.

Full Program Arranged For Grandi's First Day

Signor Grandi has a busy program for his first full day in Washington today. He will go to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier with Italian Ambassador De Martino to place a wreath this morning and will then call on Chief Justice Hughes. Vice President Curtis is out of town but is expected to return before the departure of Signor Grandi.

At noon, the Italian Minister will call on Secretary Stimson and shortly after will receive the press at the State Department in his first press conference. He speaks fluent English. He will have luncheon with Signora Grandi at the Italian Embassy.

In the afternoon the visitor will be the guest of the Overseas Writers and in the evening will be the guest of honor at Secretary of State Stimson's dinner at the Pan-American Union.

ANTI-FASCISTS OPEN ATTACKS ON GRANDI

the occasion of a more effective presentation of the dangers of fascism in Italy and America and its danger to liberty, justice, and peace, and especially to hope. There should be a dominant sentiment against further loans to finance Mussolini's fascism."

Another telegram, from Dr. Charles Fama, anti-Fascist leader, said, "The philosophy of fascism is the antithesis of our philosophy of government."

Mr. Montross issued the following statement at the conclusion of a meeting of the anti-Fascist committee:

"The response that the work of our committee has received from organizations and from the press indicates that there is a body of public opinion behind us which is determined that Fascism shall not succeed in this country. Telegrams received from trade unions, church organizations, civic and liberal bodies heartily indorse the work we are doing.

"We have presented our case before the people of America and before the representatives of the people. A recitation of a list of crimes of which the Fascist regime is guilty has been presented. We feel that acts of the Fascist regime abroad must be judged in the light of their acts at home.

"Without regard to the merits of the case of Countess Cathcart, who was barred from the United States on the charges of moral turpitude, the background from which Signor Grandi received his present position is so revolting as to warrant his exclusion from this or any free nation."

NATIONAL AD GROUP MEETS IN CAPITAL

Publicity Leaders Propose Plans to Revive Trade; Election Today.

A suggestion that newspapers should adopt a stronger stand in their relations with local advertisers was contined in an address yesterday by Thomas L. L. Ryan, president of Pedlar & Ryan, Inc., at the opening of the twenty-second annual convention of the Association of National Advertisers in the Wardman Park Hotel.

Pointing out that "publishers have made millionaires out of a great many advertisers," Mr. Ryan declared that department stores are dependent upon newspapers to a much greater extent than newapapers are dependent upon department stores, "and yet it generally is the newspaper that backs down" when any argument develops over advertising rates or concessions.

The suggestion that publishers revise their rate schedules to reduce the number of different rates was made by Mr. Ryan, who recommended that the situation might be clarified if an average were struck and the same rate applied both to national advertisers and local stores. This, he pointed out, might mean higher rates for the stores, but it would mean a decrease for national advertisers, and should result in more national advertising for the publisher.

In a discussion of advertisement-testing, Stuart D. Cowan, president of Cowan & Dengler, Inc., reviewed the results of many years spent in testing and selling the powers of advertising from every angle, and declared that these tests showed primarily that no advertising will sell a poor product.

Confidence Is Urged.

Restoration of confidence and business through creation of a Nation-wide organization to overcome and eliminate fear was a remedy for depressed business conditions recommended at the morning session by Carl Byoir, publisher of the Havana Post.

He declared that because of its wealth the United States has no need to worry about business, and its principal objective should be to eliminate fear and thus stimulate confidence.

Virgil Jordan, New York economist, speaking at the same session, declared that the United States is bored with depression, and is ready to "snap out of it" at the slightest sign.

The progress of advertising since 1921 was reviewed by E. St. Elmo Lewis, first president of the association, who declared that there have been many changes, but that in his opinion "the large increase in the number of men who have written books on the subject of marketing, sales, merchandising and advertising is the most significant thing that has happened."

Artificial Circulation Scored.

Lee H. Bristol, president of the A. N. A., criticized those publishers who seek to build up artificial circulation in order to pave the way for higher rates and declared that "we need the publishers even as they need us, but we need most those publishers who have conducted the circulation business on methods and policies that are sound and honest, that deliver to us circulation that is wanted, and not forced beyond the economic limits of demand or desire."

being that threats had been made on his life.

The hearing was not held until the afternoon, a postponement having been unexpectedly granted at 10 o'clock in the morning when the matter was scheduled to come up. At that time Dozier De Vane, counsel for Pitts, asked that a continuance until the afternoon session be granted, and Justice Letts agreed.

Attorney De Vane noted an appeal in court as sentence was pronounced.

In a brief statement preceding the sentencing, Justice Letts said that the "dignity and defiance and disregard" for the court by the introduction of spurious documents was "flagrant."

Pitts refused to say anything when he was given the usual query as to what he had to say before sentence. Mr. De Vane suggested that the court take into consideration the fact that Pitts had made no defense, and that Pitts was under indictment in a case that hinged upon the same indictments.

20,000 Irishmen Are Armed And Waiting for Rebellion

Defying Death Penalties Farm Boys Gather Secretly in Southern Mountains to Prepare Blow Against England for Complete Independence.

By W. G. QUISENBERRY.

(Copyright, 1931, by the United Press.)

Somewhere in the Wicklow Mountains, southern Ireland (by courier to Dublin), Nov. 16 (U.P.).—Tonight, by dim lantern light in a secluded ravine, I watched a secret drill by a newly-formed squadron of the Irish Republican army, preparing for a rebellion they feel certain is coming.

Undeterred by the threat of death and other drastic penalties provided by the new public security act, these bands of peasant youths, poorly clad but imbued with a spirit of revolt, were preparing themselves to strike against what they vaguely term "England."

The "army" boys were not more than 15 or 16 years old. But, poorly armed and ill-equipped as they are, they are ready, with unbelievable fervor, to strike a blow for complete Irish independence.

Their leaders claim there are 20,000 of them under arms. There may be.. I had no time for statistics. But I was given permission to watch their drills after my request had gone through a dozen mysterious sources and finally up to the commander in chief.

I waited in Dublin for two days without a word of response to my request. Then, without any suggestion as to my destination, and while a thick fog was settling over the city and shrouding my hotel in gloom, a mysterious personage appeared, called me to the door and said briefly, "Come with me."

He led me to a closed automobile, and in two minutes away we went. On the way he pledged me not to reveal the names of any places to which I might be taken, or of any persons whom I should recognize on the journey.

For three hours we drove about, in a seemingly aimless quest. My guide spoke no more than half a dozen words. The car wound through narrow roads and up steep hills, and finally stoppped beside a lonely shack.

We alighted and walked perhaps a quarter of a mile along a little used footpath before we descended into a valley where, in the distance, I could see gathered about a hundred men.

The plot on which they stood was small, and dimly lighted by several lanterns. My guide stopped suddenly and remarked that it was "perhaps best that a stranger be not seen by the men because it might excite their suspicion."

From the distance it appeared that the men were undertaking a military drill, but in ragged fashion, for they bore no weapons that I could see.

I was informed, however, that all the ammunition caches of the "Republican army" are now heavily guarded, and that the men before me were already expert in the use of machine guns and hand grenades.

Men's Lives at Stake.

As we came nearer, it seemed that the soldiers were practiced in the usual form of combat drilling and I was told that their drillmasters were men who had acquired experience in the days of the great rebellion.

On the present occasion, I was told, they were being reviewed by the "commander in chief" whom I judged to be one of a group watching the proceedings closely from a position a little to one side of the troops.

The night was cold and damp. The squad leaders kept the men repeating, time after time, the formations they were learning, and perhaps the briskness of their movements kept them warm.

Fog occasionally blotted out the scene below us, and it occurred to me that the rebels could not have chosen a better time to escape detection. I turned to my guide.

"How many men do you drill at a time as a general rule?" I asked.

Commander in Chief Appears.

"We often drill many more than this," he replied, "but we have to be more cautious these days. President Cosgrave's edicts haven't frightened our men, but it is necessary to protect them from his tribunal, which has the power to sentence them to death. They'll drill only an hour tonight."

I watched their movements for fifteen minues, then my guide and I retraced our footsteps to a farmer's hut, where we were ushered inside to sit by a welcome fire, for a few moments. The guide spoke always in a low undertone.

The owner of the little shanty went outside and there was a silence for a few moments. Then, a moment later, the guide excused himself and left the hut, to return with a man to whom he introduced me. The newcomer was the commander-in-chief of the Irish Republican army.

The commander-in-chief said that he had received my request for an interview and that he was glad to comply with it.

WORLD-KNOWN MEN INVOLVED IN CHARGES OF TAX EVASIONS

lessen the deficit and will be a factor to be considered when the question of increased taxes is discussed."

Neither a confirmation nor a denial that such information is in the hands of the Bureau of Internal Revenue was forthcoming from officials of the bureau. Commissioner of Internal Revenue Burnet and Elmer L. Irey, chief of the bureau's intelligence unit, said it is the policy of the bureau not to discuss investigations until indictments are returned. Besides, they said, it is against the law to discuss such an investigation.

The mainspring of the investigation is the accountant, who was formerly employed by a New York accounting house. While employed by the firm, he told Representative Patman, he learned that many of the large corporations keep duplicate sets of books, one set as a basis for income tax returns and the other for use in reporting earnings to stockholders. wide differences exist between the two sets of records, he told Mr. Patman.

While so employed, this accountant made duplicates of records of the firm's wealthy clients, listing all accretions to their income. Then he checked these figures against the sums the firm's clients paid to the Government in income taxes.

Having satisfied himself that large-scale evasion was being practiced, the auditor took his evidence to Representative Patman, a foe of the secret tax returns system, who turned it over to a private investigator. "The investigator," says Representative Patman, "reported that there seemed to be justification of the charges and I advised that the evidence be presented to the Bureau of Internal Revenue."

Substantially, the story told by the auditor, whose identity is shrouded in secrecy, is that in addition to duplicate systems of books kept by wealthy clients, many recent mergers were arranged to cover up profits and to avoid payment of Federal taxes. Several such mergers immediately followed the stock market crash of 1929 and, the auditor said, were put through hastily to conceal accumulated profits from stockholders as well as from the Government.

In one specific instance of allegedly fradulent dealing with the Government, a certain stock issue, it is charged, was purchased for approximately $10 a share and part of the issue was resold to the public at $20 a share to establish a fictitious value on the books of the sponsoring corporation.

The fictitious value so created, the auditor said, was used by the sponsoring corporation to strengthen its balance sheet so that its stock could be sold to the public at prices far above actual value. No Federal taxes were paid on the transactions, it is reported, although the sponsors realized huge profits through the sale of their securities to the public upon the fictitious showing of earnings.

If, as a result of this evidence, the Government convicts the alleged offenders, the auditor may collect as high as 10 per cent of the sum which is recovered in back taxes. How much he would get lies within discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Signora Grandi Calls Rome But Children Are Asleep

Donna Antonietta Grandi, the wife of the Italian minister of foreign affairs, thought of her two little children in Italy the first thing when she arrived at Woodley, the palatial home of Secretary and Mrs. Stimson, last night. She called her home in Rome on the transatlantic telephone, but as it was already past midnight she could not talk to her little Franco, 4, and her daughter, Simonetta, who is 5½ years old. However, she will talk to them today at 1 p. m.

The children were asleep, but she was assured of their welfare by her mother, who is staying with them and with the children's nurse.

The wife of the Italian statesman was a gracious figure in the ceremonies at Union Station. She is a beautiful woman of the Roman type of beauty, younger by seven years than her very youthful 36-year-old husband. She was smartly dressed in a green traveling coat, trimmed with brown fur and buttoned high about her neck. Her chic toque was of close-fitting brown felt and was decorated with a perky little brown feather. She speaks English imperfectly, but chatted animatedly with Mrs. Stimson when she began talking to her in French.

During the visit to the White House she talked for more than 25 minutes with Mrs. Hoover in French. Mrs. Stimson and Signora de Martino were also present.

Signora Grandi symbolizes the virtues of the Italian mother. She and her husband live only for their children. She was speaking with Signora de Martino shortly after her arrival yesterday and said:

"I liked to look at the big waves and I was not the least bit seasick, but I do miss the children."

Minister Grandi once declared himself:

"We live the life of a patriarchal family. Our little family lives together and plays together. My wife and I like outdoor sports, skiing, walking and so forth, but we do them together and almost always with the children."

BRIAND RULES ARMS TRUCE IS IN EFFECT

League Announcement Says 50 Nations Have Joined Grandi Proposal.

Geneva, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—A one-year truce in armament construction, dating from Nov. 1, went into international effect today on the authority of Chairman Aristide Briand of the League Council.

An announcement from the league secretariat under M. Briand's signature said that some 50 governments had declared their willingness to accept, and consequently the truce had become an established fact.

A number of governments made their acceptance conditional on reciprocity, it was pointed out, and such reciprocity had been achieved. Many replies were said to have contained interpretations and observations but all appeared to be in keeping with the spirit of the league's resolution.

The leading powers participating are the United States, France, Italy, Germany, Japan, Great Britain and Russia. Others are Argentina, Uruguay, Peru, Finland, Bolivia, Belgium, Denmark, Chile and Poland.

The league assembly adopted a resolution at its final meeting Sept. 29, calling on the governments invited to the 1932 disarmament conference to "give proof of their desire to a successful issue of efforts to insure and organize peace and to refrain from any measure involving an increase in armaments."

The truce originally was advocated by Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy in the form of a "gentlemen's agreement" to suspend virtually all arms building on land and sea and in the air for one year as a gesture of faith in the forthcoming conference.

The fact that the truce has been made effective is interpreted here as an optimistic augury for the success of the arms meeting in February and as counteracting to some extent the warlike situation existing in the Far East.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 108

IN this era of the "talkies" and the saxophone the sight of this ancient amusement palace will no doubt inspire many wistful memories in the minds of oldtimers who denied themselves the delights of candy and "Deadwood Dick" dime thrillers for many weeks, so that they might have the price of admission to the "Cyclorama" Amusement Emporium, which once stood where now the Department of Commerce Building rears its stately facades.

When this picture was taken the current attraction was the portrayal of a series of oil paintings depicting the Second Battle of Bull Run, where the Blue and the Gray were locked in mortal conflict a little over 65 years ago. As the crowd milled around the paintings, a leather-lunged lecturer recounted the glories of the battle in which the stars and bars of the Confederacy emerged triumphant. As the canvases were done in flaming colors it did not strain one's imagination to visualize the crash and thunder of the guns or the groans of the wounded and dying. At intervals the exhibit was changed to give place to an equally exciting attraction.

However, after a few years the ever fickle and tempermental public turned their attention to other attractions and after a few sporadic efforts on the part of the producers to recapture the interest of the populace the "Cyclorama" was relegated to the ghostly limbo of forgotten vaudeville acts and dance tunes.

LEAGUE AGAIN TRIES TO END ORIENT ROW

Dawes Nearby as Council Seeks Solution of Manchurian Problem.

Paris, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—After a three-week recess the League of Nations Council returned today to the Manchurian problem—the hardest test the league ever has faced—and found Japan still tenaciously clinging to the position she has maintained from the outset.

The council met for twenty minutes in public session and then adjourned to carry on the labors of peace by private negotiations, in which Ambassador Charles G. Dawes played an important part.

Gen. Dawes did not sit at the formal meeting, but it was understood the American Government might soon authorize him, under the provisions of the Briand-Kellogg peace pact, to take his place with the other negotiators.

Tonight, after talking by telephone with Washington, Gen. Dawes conferred with Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and later he received Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japan's representative at the league.

Meet on "Evacuation" Day.

The council met on the day that Japan, under the terms of the resolution adopted October 24, should have completed the evacuation of Manchuria. The fact that the Tokyo government had disregarded the league's request was passed over lightly.

The meeting took place in the historic Salle des Horologes (clock room) of the French foreign office and the negotiators were seated around the horseshoe table at which the Briand-Kellogg pact was signed.

Discussions of a "compromise plan," which observers insisted on calling the "Dawes plan for Manchuria," were carried on in private tonight.

The plan probably has mixed parentage and is far from definite in form. It was authoritatively learned that its tentative outline goes like this:

(1) Direct negotiations between Japan and China on the first four of Japan's "fundamental points," which are: Mutual repudiation of aggressive conduct and policy; respect for China's territorial integrity; suppression of all organized movements interfering with freedom of trade and stirring up international hatred; effective protection throughout Manchuria of all peaceful pursuits undertaken by Japanese subjects.

(2) Completion of evacuation shall not depend on these direct negotiations.

Validity of Existing Treaties.

(3) Direct negotiations on the fifth "fundamental point"—recognition by China of the validity of existing treaties with Japan—shall begin after, and only after, evacuation has been completed.

(4) All these activities shall be carried on as in pursuance of the council resolution, thereby leaving the problem still in the hands of the league.

It is understood China is ready to support a proposal for supervision by an international commission of Chinese measures of security as evacuation is completed. This includes China's willingness even to pay the expenses of such a commission.

The absence of Gen. Dawes from the council meeting caused some uneasiness, and there was some difficulty in keeping him informed of the council's progress.

No American diplomatic representative was present, but the secretariat sent all documents to Gen. Dawes at his hotel. Contact therefore was much less intimate than at the recent session when Prentiss G. Gilbert sat at the council table backed by four council officers acquainted with the league's routine.

No New Threat Arises.

The terse language of "Charlie" Dawes yesterday described to Secretary Stimson a League of Nations council session which left the thorny Manchurian problem much as it was.

It was indicated, however, that while no particular progress had been made toward solving Sino-Japanese difficulties, no new threat to a settlement by compromise had arisen at the Paris meeting.

Dawes, Ambassador to Britain and America's special representative at the league meeting, talked with the Secretary of State over the transatlantic telephone recently installed in his offices.

JAPAN'S EVACUATION CALLED IMPOSSIBLE

vent disquieting incidents and to prevent any outbreak that might further complicate the Manchurian crisis.

Posting of additional police squads at strategic points in the city was followed by orders to the guards to prevent any molestation of Japanese residents at all costs. The Japanese section, however, is nervous and tense.

Backing up the police are approximately 15,000 Chinese Eastern Railway guards, all heavily armed, now patroling the railroad zones within and near Harbin.

Chief of Police Wang Jen-Hwa declared today he was determined to maintain order, and added, significantly, that "thus far" he always has been successful in holding down trouble.

Held Not Operative.

Tokyo, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The Japanese Government declared in a note to China tonight that the League of Nations resolution of October 24, which called on Japan to evacuate Manchuria by today, was not operative because it was not adopted unanimously.

The resolution was passed by a vote of thirteen to one, Japan's representative being its only opponent.

Tonight's Japanese note, a reply to China's note of November 4, reiterated the original Tokyo policy without modification. It declared peace would continue to be jeopardized until China "recognizes the sanctity of treaties and abandons her policy of utilizing antiforeign agitation to obtain her objects."

(Copyright, 1931, by the United Press.)

Mukden, Nov. 16 (U.P.).—With the return of "Mr. Henry Pu-Yi," former "boy emperor of China," to Darien today, the dream of a new Manchurian empire with Pu-Yi on its throne collapsed.

The scheme, which had the backing of the Japanese, seriously troubled the peace and serenity of Pu-Yi's uncle, Prince Kung, who said today he was worried over the youth's welfare, and that he wished only for success and strength of a Manchurian republic.

Prince Kung denied, diplomatically, that Mr. Pu-Yi had visited him, and appeared extremely sorrowful over the events that removed the former emperor from his close seclusion at Tientsin to the scene of international hurly-burly at Mukden.

"I, myself, renounced the title," Prince Kung said, "and I am now working only for the welfare of my Manchurian homeland, as a humble citizen.

"The Japanese attempted to persuade me to head the restoration, but I refused. Pu-Yi, unfortunately, is younger and weaker, and therefore I am extremely worried."

McLean Enjoined In Divorce Action

Post Publisher Tells Court in Latvia He Will Wed Rose Douras.

A temporary injunction restraining Edward B. McLean, publisher of The Washington Post, from seeking a divorce in Latvia, or, pending further order of the court, in any other foreign country, was signed yesterday by Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat in the District Supreme Court.

Demurrers filed by Mr. McLean's attorneys, opposing Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean's suit to oust her husband as cotrustee with the American Security & Trust Co. of the estate of his father, the late John R. McLean, was overruled by the court. Mr. McLean's counsel were given 20 days in which to reply.

The restraining injunction was issued on petition of Mrs. McLean. There will be a hearing on the temporary order, Wednesday, November 25.

Paris, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Edward B. McLean, Washington, D. C., publisher, who has filed a divorce action at Riga, Latvia, has deposited with the court there a formal statement that he intends to marry Miss Rose Douras, said to be a sister of Marion Davies, motion picture actress, it was reported by persons close to Mr. McLean today.

SENATE CHIEFS FALL IN LINE ON HOOVER TAX RAISE PLANS

several weeks ago for a general sales tax, it was generally believed that he was sending up a trial balloon for Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon.

There was a terrific reaction to the Reed proposal. The American Federation of Labor was especially vociferous, characterizing the sales tax as a blow at the poor. The suggestion of Representative Isaac Bacharach (Republican) of New Jersey, was received with much more enthusiasm. He would place a sales tax only on luxuries. At the same time, he would boost the tax on incomes above $100,000, increase the inheritance tax and restore the gift tax.

Even the Progressives hailed the Bacharach plan.

Garner Maintains Silence.

The Democrats, who, for the most part, realize that there must be additional taxes, are determined that the Republicans shall take the initiative in the matter.

Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, prospective Speaker of the next House, maintained a discreet silence yesterday.

The only Democrat who would talk was Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, who said it was manifestly bad business to continue short-term bond issues in the face of two successive deficits. He said he favored boosting rates on incomes above $100,000, increasing the inheritance tax, and restoring the gift tax to prevent wealthy persons from evading the inheritance tax.

Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, advocated a revival of certain "nuisance" taxes. He would place a tax on bank checks, playing cards, and on all soft drinks costing more than 10 cents.

Norris and Couzens Agree.

Senator George W. Norris (Republican Progressive), of Nebraska, proposed an increased inheritance tax, with a gift tax added, "to make the big fellow bear all the burden."

Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, indorsed the Norris plan. However, he would add a sales tax on luxuries.

Representative Fiorello LaGuardia (Republican), of New York, said he understood that leading House Democrats are in favor of the plan he outlined some weeks ago, calling for increased income and inheritance taxes and for taxes on radios, automobiles and other luxuries.

Senator Watson, in the statement he issued after his talk with President Hoover, said:

"There will be a Treasury deficit of $2,000,000,000 this year. The Treasury does not feel like taking care of so large a deficit through a bond issue. Of course, it will be necessary to sell some bonds to meet the situation, as I doubt if it is possible to raise $2,000,000,000 at this time by the issuance of long-term bonds.

Believes in Sales Tax.

"The Treasury is going over the situation with the greatest care. I do not think any final conclusions have been reached yet. But the Secretary of the Treasury does not want to enter into a bond issue of so large an amount as the $2,000,000,000.

"The President would rather avoid tax legislation if it were possible, which is quite natural, but can tax legislation be avoided with so heavy a deficit? So, although I am personally sorry for it, it seems that some tax legislation will be necessary.

"Personally, I have believed and still believe in a sales tax, but I do not think there is any chance for a sales tax being passed by Congress. We might enact legislation for an excise tax of some kind, an excise tax on most articles but with exemptions on such articles as food and the cheaper kinds of clothing. But I do not think that it is possible to pass a sales tax."

Excise Levy Considered.

An excise tax would be levied at the factory. A sales tax would be placed on a commodity after it reached the retailer.

Senator Watson said that he understood that the Treasury is now trying to determine just how much revenue can be raised by a tax on the higher incomes. It was his understanding, he said, that no conclusion had yet been reached.

"Of course," said the Republican leader, "if a man invests money and makes a profit and the Government takes all of the profit away, that man is not going to continue to engage in that sort of business. And so the Government has got to avoid taxing beyond a practicable limit."

Concerning inheritance and estate taxes, Senator Watson said that he thought all taxes such as these should be collected by the States and that income taxes should be collected by the Federal Government.

Smoot Is Undecided.

Senator Smoot, after saying that further taxation was essential, said he had not made up his mind as to just what taxes should be increased or what additional taxes should be levied.

"In the first place," he said, "I would like to see our appropriations cut to the bone and if that can be done, it will have a bearing on the form of increased taxation.

"In letters and telegrams I am receiving, the subject of the sales tax is being considered by people who in the past were opposed to it. It may be possible to secure passage of a sales tax, but I am not yet prepared to say that the Senate would agree to it.

"It is the easiest and surest way of raising our revenue, and, in my opinion, a small tax on ultimate sales would be absorbed by the seller of the goods rather than being passed on to the consumer. That is, in more than half the cases, a tax of one-half of one per cent or one per cent on ultimate sales would not be imposed on the ultimate consumer.

Fess Insists on Balance.

"If the income tax is amended no doubt the greater incomes will have to bear most of the burden."

Senator Simeon D. Fess (Republican) of Ohio, made his views known in a letter to a constituent.

"The budget must be balanced," he wrote, "even if we are compelled to take drastic measures such as was done in England."

He expressed the opinion that the Government would have to resort to an increased inheritance tax and also an increased tax on larger incomes. He said he opposed a sales tax because it was inequitable and would place an undue burden on the poor.

Steak From Wood Likely; Plank Steak, So to Speak

By JOHN J. DALY

MODERN man has dazzled the world with his inventions, but they are as nothing to what the future holds.

No doubting Thomas can obstruct progress by saying, "Everything is done that can be done." While man has "conquered" time and space, the earth, the air and the sea, the truth is that the new civilization is just getting started.

Now comes Dr. Friedrich Bergius, the Berlin chemist, winner of the Nobel award for chemistry, with an improvement on old methods. He has a plan to convert wood into an edible food, his first objective being a plank steak.

It probably will be done. The good professor, now that he has the money to carry on his experiments, needs only time and patience—for which no one yet has invented substitutes. Emerging one day from his laboratories, the world will stand by dazzled when the conquering chemist brings out a sizzling sirloin steak, made from a slab of cedar, a hamburger cut from the limb of the ham tree, a round steak from a log, or wieners chipped from a dogwood.

* * * *

THE effect of this chemical change on the products of nature will be startling and far-reaching, changing the habits and modes of living for mankind in all parts of the world. Instead of raising cattle, most of the ranchers will become foresters. Texas longhorns will disappear from the range and cowboys take to the hills, their lariats left behind them. The Argentine no longer will specialize in beef and the American Forestry Association will devote its leaflets to recipes for extracting porterhouse from California redwood, and filet mignon sawed from the loin of an oak.

Carpenters will become butchers and the Chicago stockyards will no longer spread their aromas upon the lake-shore air. Meat packers will be eligible for membership in the ancient order, Woodmen of the World.

Life, in all its ramifications, will become simplified, in more ways than one. Transformation of a pine log into the equivalent of a juicy T-bone steak, by the magic of chemistry, will spur on other inventions so that synthetic meals may be spread and served at any time or place. A hungry man might easily make himself a tasty sandwich out of a cigar-box top and, in a pinch, make doughnuts out of doorknobs.

* * * *

WITH no need of putting in rush orders at the corner delicatessen when guests unexpectedly arrive at the dinner hour, all the modern housewife need do is to have the maid break up a packing box or throw a few extra sticks of kindling wood on the broiler—for chops.

Will wonders never cease? Certainly, the old declamation will have to be rewritten:

Woodman, spare that tree!
Touch not a single bough!
In youth it nurtured me
With plenty of good chow.

Should dad come home with a ravenous appetite and call out of turn for his favorite foodstuff, the order given by mother will be quite clear and simple:

"Johnnie, run out to the woodpile and bring in a log. Papa wants a steak."

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS ASSAIL AND DEFEND DAVIS PROPOSAL

and I feel sure he is right in whatever he said."

"I agree with Mr. Davis for the reason that many States have not yet redistricted in accordance with the new apportionment, Rhode Island among them," said Patrick H. Quinn, of Rhode Island.

John T. G. Crawford, Florida, said he disagreed with Davis because a precedent set by the 1908 convention at Denver gave the States double representation at the 1912 convention for their representation in the Congress selected under the 1910 apportionment.

Dr. Clarence Gunter, Arizona, said he agreed with Davis "at present."

J. Nelson Kelly, North Dakota, said he had no opinion "of worth" because "I understand the selection will have to be on the reapportionment basis."

Among others who commented were: S. M. Pickett, Nevada; John M. Callahan, Wisconsin; Mrs. C. G. Ryan, Nebraska; W. W. Howes, Huron, S. Dak., all of whom favored the Davis proposal, and Scott Ferris, Oklahoma; Isidore B. Dockweiler, California; Michael Igoe, Illinois; R. H. Hanna, New Mexico, and Scott Bullitt, Washington, all of whom were against the Davis proposal.

Norman E. Mack, New York, said a few delegates more or less made no difference. J. Bruce Kremer, Montana, said personal opinion should be withheld. Arthur Mullen, Nebraska, said the matter was unimportant.

JOB AGENCY HEADS FACE ARREST TODAY

States Supreme Court has held that a municipality has no authority to say what fee shall be charged by employment agencies. District officials believe that a more strict check will insure fairer dealings with unemployed.

Among the cases turned up by the investigation are the charging of a nurse $15 merely to register for a job, and the rough treatment accorded an elderly woman who had paid $2 to register, but who had been assigned no job.

Cold facts on a key principle

"High quality in a restaurant's food is one thing—sustained high quality is what really does it." Frank H. White, of New York's celebrated Whyte's Restaurants, told us, explaining how Whyte's holds a special clientele of important business men from all the big cities of the East. And since Whyte's has long been customers of ours, he added, "Insistence on purity—purity in everything that goes onto the table—is one of the key principles of a policy of sustained high quality. The four-times filtered ice you make is right in line with that principle."

DEMOCRATS AGREE UPON HOUSE PLANS

Will Distribute Posts Geographically; G. O. P. Split on Speaker.

(Associated Press.)

Democratic leaders harmonized on a solution of their House committee chairmanship problems yesterday as the Republicans played discordant tunes on their speakership choice.

In the Democratic arrangement, important legislative posts will be distributed geographically, if the party organizes the House.

Meanwhile, Representative Snell (Republican), New York, and Representative Tilson (Republican), Connecticut, floor leader in the last House, are still actively contending for their party's speakership nomination.

Outlook of Democrats.

With indications that Representative Garner, of Texas, will be the next speaker, the Democrats expect the South to retain the chairmanship of major committees where party representatives hold ranking places through seniority. The States north of the Mason-Dixon Line, however, are to get sufficient recognition to keep them in a good humor.

Looking toward a united front in the next campaign, the compromise is being made through the voluntarily personal sacrifices of several Democrats.

With the Democrats united behind Garner for Speaker, the contest to succeed him as party leader has grown keener. Representative McDuffie, of Alabama, the party whip in the last Congress, returned yesterday and his friends began an active campaign for his election to the post.

Rainey Is Supported.

The Alabama delegation, which indorsed him last spring, contends that since the Democrats maintained their strength in the South during thirteen years of Republican domination in the North, it is nothing but proper for the leadership to go to Dixie.

Midwestern and Northern Democrats are forming behind Representative Rainey, of Illinois. They argue that with the speakership and many of the major committee chairmanships going South, their sections should be awarded the leadership.

Representative Byrns, of Tennessee; Rankin, of Mississippi, and Crisp, of Georgia, also are contenders.

Representative Garner said yesterday an agreement made last year by party chieftains to give the party organizing the House a working majority in each committee would be continued.

Treatment Fails to End Eight Days' Hiccoughing

Mansfield, Ohio, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Ira A. King, Mansfield garage operator, showed little change today as an attack of hiccoughs that started eight days ago continued unabated despite rare medical treatment.

Hundreds of telegrams, telephone calls and letters suggesting methods of curing the hiccoughs were received by his family, but none of the methods thus far used has affected the ailment.

Hoover Speeds Up Writing Of Message to Congress

President Carefully Edits and Revises Each Section and Will Wait Until Last Minute to Pen Ideas on Some Subjects.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday penned part of his annual message to Congress—a document of painstaking writing and rewriting in which will be fused facts from many sources.

With only a few weeks remaining in which to turn out a finished work, the President is following a regular writing routine. Part of his material was gathered during the last three months. Some, upon shifting subjects, will be collected at the last minute.

As is his custom, Mr. Hoover is writing much of the message in long hand. As one section is finished he edits it, changing a word or thought here and there, before handing it to a stenographer.

She returns it typed with abnormally wide spaces between the lines. Those who watch the Chief Executive write have reported that in so important a statement he edits and revises with such thoroughness that a much different document is laid before him when it is again retyped.

One of the President's secretaries said this process often is repeated sometimes with three, and again with five different rewritings. Many times Mr. Hoover will change a word or sentence after a statement is set up in type.

Parts of his present annual message, however, can be dictated directly to a stenographer. He now has before him reports from many members of his Cabinet with thoughts prepared especially for inclusion in the forthcoming document. Sections of these statements can be inserted directly into what eventually will be a printed pamphlet laid before members of the House and Senate.

Hoover Relative Waives Hearing

Change in Plans to Fight Rum Case Charge Is Indicated.

Santa Monica, Calif., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—A change in his previously announced plans to fight a charge of possessing a gunnysack filled with liquor was indicated today by C. Van Ness Leavitt, 57, brother-in-law of President Hoover, who waived a jury hearing before Police Judge C. A. M. Spencer. The trial date was set for November 24.

C. R. Dailey, Santa Monica grocer, facing the same charge, asked a jury trial. He will be tried December 7. Leavitt, shortly after his arrest, announced he would demand a jury trial, but changed his plans through his attorney who waived the jury when Dailey and Leavitt appeared in court today.

Leavitt, a retired plumbing contractor and husband of Mary Hoover Leavitt, and Dailey were arrested November 9 by Thomas Carr, Santa Monica policeman and liquor crusader. Leavitt, the officer said, left Dailey's store carrying a gunnysack containing liquor when Carr entered the store to frighten Dailey, once convicted of bootlegging.

Western Pacific's President Resigns

Harry A. Adams Retires After Four Years at Age of 63.

San Francisco, Calif., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Harry Adams, president of the Western Pacific Railroad Co., resigned today. His resignation was announced at a meeting of the board of directors. He said he "is retiring to private life." He will leave the office December 31. He will be succeeded by Charles Elsey, executive vice president of the company for 24 years.

Adams resigned as vice president of the Union Pacific in 1926 to come to San Francisco to live. He was induced a year later to accept the presidency of the Western Pacific despite his retirement.

When he relinquishes his office he will have served four years and nine months as president. He is 63.

Parley on Seaway Pushes Pact Plan

U. S. and Canada Expect St. Lawrence Project to Take Time.

(Associated Press.)

Canadian and American diplomatic representatives conferred again yesterday at the State Department over the proposed St. Lawrence River seaway. Minister W. D. Herridge was closeted with Assistant Secretary James G. Rogers and other officials for more than an hour.

Other than to say that the negotiations begun Saturday looking to formulation of a treaty covering the project were carried forward, they made no announcement concerning the meeting.

However, Secretary Stimson said the process of negotiations probably would take considerable time. Chairman Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee, which passes upon treaties, said he would be "agreeably surprised" if the Senate was asked to ratify a pact before June.

Ruth Judd's Trial Is Set for Dec. 15

Alleged Trunk Slayer of 2 Women Enters Plea of Not Guilty.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Over the objections of her attorneys the trial date of Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, alleged "trunk murderer" of Mrs. Agnes LeRoi and Hedvig Samuelson, today was set for December 15. Mrs. Judd pleaded not guilty to murder charges.

Judge Howard Speakman granted her attorneys 10 days in which to change her plea after Herman Lewkowits stipulated Mrs. Judd be granted the privilege of filing a demurrer or any dilatory plea or to change the plea of not guilty to one of guilty.

Lewkowits protested setting the trial date as early as December 15, claiming he could not be prepared for trial for a month and a half or two months. The same date was set for trial of both murder charges, although the State announced previously they will be tried separately.

Mrs. Judd confessed slaying her two best friends in Phoenix and sending their bodies to Los Angeles in trunks.

GLASSFORD TO MEET MEN AT ROLL CALLS

New Superintendent's First Public Appearance Is at Grandi's Arrival.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford made his first public appearance as superintendent of police at the arrival last night of Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, and today he will begin a study of workings of the department.

Gen. Glassford plans to make acquaintance of his men at the various precincts by visiting them at roll calls. Then he will spend time studying the problems of various special groups, including the homicide, automobile, narcotic and vice squads.

In addition the new chief of police intends to acquaint himself with functions of the Women's Bureau, Traffic Bureau and the work of headquarters detectives, so that he may have a better understanding of police problems.

Early yesterday Gen. Glassford took the oath of office at the District Building. It was administered by Daniel E. Garges, secretary to the Board of Commissioners. Many floral tributes were received as he entered the board room to be sworn in, most of them from civic organizations and personal friends.

After the ceremonies, Gen. Glassford met ranking officers of his command and then went into a conference with Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby.

The conference is reported to have involved personal changes which result from retirements of Inspector William S. Shelby and Louis J. Stoll, and the proposed realignment of duties in the Detective Bureau.

A demand for strict enforcement of the traffic regulation regarding parking abreast was Gen. Glassford's first special order yesterday when he assumed office.

"Observation indicates that this regulation is being persistently violated by both passenger and commercial vehicles—especially commercial vehicles. A strict enforcement of this regulation must be had," the order read.

PRINCE OF WALES ACTIVE IN BRITAIN'S ECONOMIC WAR

ident said the bill was aimed "to preserve some of our foreign purchasing capacity." He predicted that "unless great efforts are made inside and outside of industry, next year will be one of the worst in the history of British industry."

"The only permanent way of restoring the trade balance," he continued, "is by expanding exports instead of curtailing imports, but the two things are not compatible. * * * We should be foolish to copy the fiscal policy of the United States."

Runciman also told the House that in anticipation abroad that the Government would establish a protective tariff, the past few weeks have seen excessive dumping by foreign manufacturers on the British market.

The first two classes of trade, including food, drink and tobacco, and raw materials, will not be affected.

Snowden Is Elevated.

London, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Philip Snowden, a poor man's son whom misfortune fashioned as a champion of the people, was created a viscount by King George today and elevated to the House of Lords.

A quarter of a century in the House of Commons and two terms as watchdog of the people's purse in the chancellorship of the exchequer were climaxed by the announcement that he had been made a peer so he might hold the office of Lord Privy Seal in the National Government.

While Mr. Snowden was recovering from a slight illness, it was suggested in some quarters tonight that the man who at one time was known as the Socialist of Socialists might decline the peerage. On the other hand, no one could recall that he had ever declared himself as opposed to all such honors.

His elevation also will bring into the peerage his wife, the former Ethel Annakin, whom he married in 1905, and who by her writings, musical attainments and social gifts is a personality in her own right.

Action by Turkey.

When Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's Labor Government resigned last August Mr. Snowden was one of four Labor ministers who took office in the National Government. As chancellor of the exchequer, he forced through Parliament a drastic budget that entailed sweeping economies and reductions in the dole. At the time of the general election he announced he would not be a candidate on account of the state of his health.

Istanbul, Turkey, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Almost paralyzing foreign trade in Turkey, the government issued a decree today drastically limiting the importation of 1,000 articles.

America was among the nations hard hit, and diplomatic protests are expected from many countries. No consideration was given to merchandise now in customs or en route.

Quotas effective today limit the importation of such American articles as automobiles, motion picture films, camera films, automobile tires and radios. Comparatively small amounts of these articles will be permitted to enter the country during November and December, and new quotas will be fixed for succeeding months.

Grange Will Meet In North Carolina

Taber Is Elected National Master of Group for Fourth Time.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The National Grange in convention here today voted to hold its next meeting in North Carolina. Louis J. Taber, of Columbus, Ohio, was reelected national master for a fourth term.

Choice of convention State resulted from a plea by W. Kerr Scott, Haw River, N. C., master of his State's organization. The delegates were on the verge of awarding the convention to Washington, to be held in conjunction with the bicentennial celebration when Scott addressed the convention.

He said the South was the birthplace of the grange and that the grange owes it to the South "to come home for its next convention." Delegates said there had never been a National Grange convention in the South during the 65 years' history of the organization.

NEW SITE FOR CASE OF POWERS SOUGHT

Counsel Contends Fair Trial in Harrison County Is Impossible.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Contending his client could not possibly get a fair trial here because the minds of Harrison County people are "poisoned" against him, counsel for Harry F. Powers, accused as the killer of Quiet Dell, today asked for a change of venue.

A few hours later, the Harrison County Court designated the Moore Opera House as the site of the trial, which is to begin December 7.

J. Ed Law, the portly mail order Romeo's attorney, in asking a change of venue, protested against holding the trial in a theater because the present courthouse "is not large enough to accommodate the large crowd of spectators, and excitement seekers."

Cites Numerous Reasons.

"Such a place," he said, "will rob the trial of the dignity of a court proceeding and all the sanctity that should prevail in a court of justice."

Law cited numerous reasons to bear out his contention that an impartial trial would be impossible for Powers here.

Circulation of a pamphlet, entitled "Love Secrets of Bluebeard," containing the "famous unprintable letter," articles in magazines of the detective class and a song, entitled "The Crime of Quiet Dell," tended to prejudice the entire community against Powers, Law said.

Refers to Vicious Mob.

He referred to the "vicious mob" which threatened Powers when he was confined to the county jail here and said prejudicial matter circulated throughout the county had made the residents hate Powers and view him in the light of a fiend.

Law charged that after Powers' arrest for the slaying of Mrs. Dorothy Presley Lemke, Northboro, Mass., and Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher, Park Ridge, Ill., widow and her three children, he was beaten and mauled by police until he signed a confession, "the contents of which he did not fully comprehend." Powers has since repudiated the confession.

Law said that while Powers was being subjected to what he termed the "third degree," he was told he would be "thrown out of the window to the angry mob" if he did not confess.

Judge John C. Southern took the petition for a change of venue under advisement.

England Is Selling Big R-100 for Junk

Agitation Against Dirigible in British Air Force Leads to Disposal.

London, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The dirigible R-100, which has been virtually a museum piece since the R-101 was wrecked over France October 5, 1930, is being sold for junk, the air minister announced today. The R-100 cost more than $2,000,000. What she is bringing was not disclosed.

The dirigible made only one notable flight—from England to Canada in the summer of 1930, and she encountered considerable difficulty with storms.

Ever since the R-101 disaster, in which almost 50 persons were killed, there has been agitation against the use of dirigibles in the air force. Several times the question came up in the House of Commons.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Chauncey M. Depew, jr., son of the late United States senator and a railroad magnate, left a gross estate of $6,144,291 and a net of $4,973,557 when he died January 26 last, according to a transfer tax appraisal filed today.

Yale University received one-third of the residue, and the remaining two-thirds go to four cousins, the only other legatees mentioned. According to the appraisal, $3,329,813 of the estate is nontaxable, having been previously taxed as the estate of the elder Depew. The principal asset was securities appraised at $2,519,639.

Game Warden Hurt In Motorboat Blast

Slight Burns Caused by Gasoline Explosion From Backfire.

Burns received by Wilfred A. Chesser, assistant game warden of the Washington District, yesterday afternoon when the boat he was starting backfired and ignited a can of gasoline, proved not to be serious, and he was dismissed from Emergency Hospital after being given first-aid treatment.

Mr. Chesser experienced a narrow escape as flames swept the stern of the craft after a loud explosion. The accident occurred in front of the Harbor Precinct Police Station and immediate aid was given by the fire boat.

The damaged boat is a 38-foot cabin cruiser, used by the Biological Survey, and is operated under direction of the Department of Agriculture. Mr. Chesser was burned about the hands and face.

Bureau Director Urges More Court Officials

Courts of the District of Columbia are inadequately staffed with probation clerks and officers to handle the hundreds of cases annually given to them for consideration, and an adequate sum of money should be appropriated for the enlargement of this branch of the courts, J. E. Dayton, director of the Bureau of Rehabilitation, urged at a meeting of the Monday Evening Club last night at Willard Hotel.

Other speakers were Joel R. Moore, supervisor of probation, Bureau of Prisons, who gave an address on probation progress and Austin H. MacCormick, assistant director, Bureau of Prisons, who talked on the education of adult offenders. Sanford Bates, director, Federal Bureau of Prisons, was chairman.

SOFT COAL LEADERS SEEK SLUMP'S CURE

World Session Creates Body to Report on Remedy Suggestions.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The third international conference on bituminous coal took its initial step tonight toward evolving a plan for rescuing the giant industry from the depressed economic state into which it has fallen. A resolution was introduced and passed in closing minutes of the session instructing Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology and chairman of the conference, to name a committee which will receive recommendations as to means of securing an agency for bringing about the economic coordination of the coal industry.

The committee to be named tomorrow by Dr. Baker will report to the full conference on Thursday.

From the trend of today's discussions, during which a dozen speakers described the effects of the 45 per cent decrease in bituminous coal production during the last twelve years, there appeared to be little doubt that the recommendations to be presented to the committee will be both numerous and widely divergent in their scope.

Several speakers, chief of whom was Dr. W. T. Thom, jr., of Princeton University, prescribed a proration compact among the coal producing States as a remedy for the ills of the industry.

Dr. Thom's plan, he said, is modeled strictly after the compact now in effect among the major oil States.

WELCOME TO SIGNOR GRANDI.

Americans look with great disfavor upon political demonstrations in this country for or against foreign governments. The hot passions of Italians, for and against fascism, are not shared by American citizens. Naturalized citizens of Italian birth who so far forget their obligations to this country as to engage in the domestic controversies of Italy are subject to the rebuke of all good American citizens. Italians who have not been naturalized can best show their fitness for citizenship by dropping all political connections with the old country and devoting themselves whole-heartedly to the affairs of their adopted country.

Making all allowance for the rigorous policy of fascism, which will tolerate no rival in directing the destiny of Italy, the fact remains that Italy was saved from communism by the stout-hearted patriots who won Italy's victory in the World War. They rose when it appeared that their sacrifices were to be turned into the dead-sea fruit of communism. The genius of Benito Mussolini, rallying to his cause such splendid young men as Dino Grandi, consolidated the spirit of Italy against communism, destroyed that noxious growth and established under King Victor Emmanuel a new and virile world power.

Signor Grandi and his charming wife are now visiting Washington, where they are most welcome. The object of Signor Grandi's visit is to contribute to world welfare by removing any obstacles that may be in the way of cooperation by Italy and the United States in promoting economic adjustments, reduction of armaments and international confidence. It is a mission which the United States welcomes and which it will endeavor to make entirely successful.

THE POLICE DEPARTMENT.

The Police Department of Washington enters upon a new era by the installation of Gen. Pelham D. Glassford as superintendent. He begins his duties with the advantage of a splendid record as a soldier and with the best wishes of the people of the National Capital. He is welcomed also by members of the force, who have learned to know and admire him.

The trial of certain officers charged with third degree methods is now in progress. Whatever the outcome of these trials, it is a certainty that a new spirit pervades the police force, and that Superintendent Glassford will improve discipline while rewarding merit.

Washington has set an example to the rest of the country in its prompt and thorough measures to remedy abuses due to the third degree. Throughout the Nation people have been awakened to the reality of this abuse and they are now asking not only that guilty policemen be punished but that steps be taken to abolish the practice.

Attempts to stop the use of third degree methods through legislation are futile. The very persons who control the enforcement of law are the ones to be restrained in this case. Therefore, if they are convinced of the value or justice of the illegal methods, they can hardly be expected to prosecute each other for employing them.

The third degree can be abolished only by putting something better in its place. In discussing this problem, Zecharia Chafee, jr., of the Harvard Law School, states that the solution must come from within police departments. The third degree is largely a local problem and must be solved separately in each community. To be effective any regulations must have the sympathy of the police who function under them. Capable officials can build up a tradition of efficient, law-abiding methods and make their subordinates want to use them.

Special statutes against the third degree, like the Kentucky "antisweating act," have not resulted in a single prosecution. Similar legislation exists in many States where third degree methods are known to be employed. Prosecutions of the police are hard to obtain in such cases, not only because of the intimidation of witnesses, but because jurors are inclined to be lenient, under the impression that the police were trying to protect society even if they did use illegal means. The solution, therefore, must be sought in those communities where the third degree has been supplanted by a better method.

ATTACKING THE FARMER.

The Democratic assault upon the Smoot-Hawley act is beginning to take shape. The party has at its command all the sophistry that can be mustered by two former members of the Tariff Commission. Senator Costigan, of Colorado, and Representative David J. Lewis, of Maryland, have begun to revive the ancient free trade arguments that the American people have turned their backs upon for a century.

Representative Lewis calls upon President Hoover to advise repeal of the Smoot-Hawley act on the ground that it might influence Great Britain against a protective policy. Britain is determined to correct an adverse balance of trade. In effect Mr. Lewis suggests that the American market be opened to that country in an effort to induce Parliament not to build up the British home market. As a matter of fact, the proposed increase in the British tariff probably will not seriously affect American exports to that country, which are chiefly raw materials. Under any circumstances Britain must have raw materials for her factories, and it is highly improbable that Parliament would put a duty upon such imports. It appears that the United States is asked to open up its enormous market merely to save England the inconvenience of balancing her trade by sound economic adjustments.

Senator Costigan wants to revive the old Fordney-McCumber act of 1922 on the pretense that it would be a friendly act toward the farmer. It would be enlightening for the senator to glance at the reports of the Department of Commerce, which show that during the year ended last July 1 the American people spent $1,163,059,000 less than during the previous year, when the Fordney-McCumber act was in effect, on foreign agricultural products. Part of this decline in the value of agricultural imports is due to lower prices. But in general the farmers can attribute their greater hold upon the American market to the tariff act of 1930.

Changes in industrial rates effected by the Smoot-Hawley act were very slight. Virtually all of the major increases were on agricultural products and articles manufactured from agricultural raw materials. An immense new market within the 48 States was reserved for American farmers. A better balance between industrial production and agriculture was established. Now, under the guise of withdrawing "tariff favors" and aiding export farmers, Senator Costigan comes forth with a naive scheme to repeal the agricultural tariff.

The American farmer and the millions of wage earners who are fearful of losing their jobs if the only available market for American industry is opened to all the world will pay little attention to these two former "fact-finders" who are now peddling partisan propaganda.

TILSON FOR SPEAKER.

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, was unanimously chosen floor leader by the Republicans of the House last March when Speaker Longworth was nominated for another term. The lamented death of Mr. Longworth makes it necessary for the Republicans to nominate a candidate for Speaker. Mr. Tilson gives notice that the Republicans will fight to the last ditch to retain control of the House. He suggests that the present Democratic majority may disappear when the hour comes for electing a Speaker.

Party solidarity requires that the Republicans should not quarrel over a candidate for Speaker. They can well afford to take a hint from the Democrats, who seem to be united behind John N. Garner. It may be, however, that a Democratic split may develop, notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Garner was nominated for Speaker. It behooves the Republicans to avoid a split, in order that they may take advantage of a possible split among their opponents.

The promotion of the Republican floor leader to the Speakership is the normal course for the Republicans to pursue. Mr. Tilson has already qualified by serving as floor leader. His unanimous election for that place testifies to his hold upon his party colleagues. The Republican conference to be held on November 30 would invite embarrassing complications and a severe handicap during the forthcoming session if it should set aside its floor leader and nominate another for Speaker. It would be a blow at Mr. Tilson which is not only undeserved but which would be most unfair to him and the party. His leadership in the next House, if he is to be minority leader, should be reinforced by the demonstration of united party support, which can only be manifested under present circumstances by nominating him for Speaker. If the Republicans should lose, they will have shown their confidence in Mr. Tilson; and if they should win, they will have in Speaker Tilson the proper successor to Mr. Longworth.

Mr. Snell, whose chairmanship of the committee on rules proved his great ability, is in a position where he can contribute to the Republican cause by foregoing his ambition to become Speaker. He violates no law by becoming Mr. Tilson's rival, but nevertheless the Republican members of the House, when they unanimously elected Mr. Tilson as their leader on the floor, placed him next to Speaker Longworth as their captain. He can not now be deprived of the nomination for the Speakership without damage to his leadership if he should be called upon to fight the party's battles on the minority side.

Party solidarity and the encouragement that is given by rewarding successful leadership require that House Republicans shall nominate John Q. Tilson for Speaker. Then, whether he should win or lose against a Democrat, he will be fortified for the great struggle that is impending.

FAVORING THE SOUTH.

If John W. Davis' interpretation of the resolution dealing with the allotment of delegates to the Democratic national convention is accepted, it will mean another victory for the South. The resolution provides that "the number of delegates for each State shall be twice the number of senators and representatives in the Congress." Mr. Davis interprets it to mean the Congress that will be in session when the delegates are chosen. Since representation in the Seventy-second Congress is based on the census of 1910, all of the States that have experienced unusual growth in the last 21 years would be denied equitable representation.

Most of the States that would lose delegates under the new apportionment are in the South. Hence, if the delegates are elected on the basis of existing congressional representation, the South will have a greater voting strength in the convention than it will have in the election. Presidential electors will be chosen on the basis of the new apportionment.

Mr. Davis' opinion is based on a strict interpretation of the language used by the last convention. Yet it is somewhat inconsistent to choose delegates to the convention according to the old apportionment when the party's strength in voting for a President and Vice President will be measured by the new apportionment. The South might impose its will upon the convention and yet be unable to deliver the necessary votes to support its platform or candidate in the final balloting. Since the Democratic party in the South is dry and the Northern wing is wet, the distribution of delegates may have a far-reaching effect upon the 1932 platform and campaign.

Eleven seats in the House were lost to Democratic States of the South in the reapportionment of 1930. The losing States are Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, Tennessee and Virginia. Four other Southern States, Texas, Oklahoma, North Carolina and Florida, gained six seats, making a net loss of five for the Democratic South. It is apparent then that Mr. Davis' plan would allow the South to retain ten more votes in the convention than its population justifies.

It is not yet clear what effect the decision might have on candidates, except that a Southerner would have a considerable advantage under the Davis interpretation. Two votes in the home States of both Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Newton D. Baker are at stake.

Perhaps the most important result of Mr. Davis' formula, if it is accepted, will be an increase in the antagonism between the Southern and Northern wings of the party. Northern Democrats are already protesting against the prospective allotment of a large percentage of committee chairmanships in the House to Southerners under the seniority rule. If the Southern States are again favored, the Democratic harmony program will have hard sledding.

MOUNTAIN GOATS

By DR. VERNON BAILEY, in Nature Magazine.

Long before Glacier Park was thought of as a park I watched an old goat and her young kid on a little shelf near the Sexton Glacier on the side of Going-to-the-Sun Mountain. The kid was lying down and the mother standing close against the sheer cliff at one side of the great glacier front.

Suddenly a mighty roar took my attention from the bear track I was following and fixed it on a cloud of ice spray rising from below the glacier as tons of ice broke loose and thundered down the sides of the mountain in a roaring avalanche. It shook the ground where I was, half a mile away, but the old goat, at the very edge of the ice-smoke, paid no attention and the kid did not get up. Who could but envy the even temper of their nerves?

Mountain goats are good climbers, strong and not afraid, but any experienced mountaineer can go where they can. From below it often looks impossible, but I have followed many of their trails up cliffs that from below looked like castle walls and always found foot room and a way to get from shelf to shelf. The great advantage of these high cliff shelves to the goat is that no carnivore dares to attack them there.

They have many enemies, chief among which are man, coyotes, wolves, bears, wildcats and eagles. In national parks, where man is now the protector instead of the destroyer of mountain goats, the prowling coyote and the more powerful timber wolf still get a few when they come down at night to feed in the alpine meadows.

Grizzly bears have been found feeding on goat carcasses at timber-line in early spring, but possibly only as scavengers rather than killers. Occasionally mountain lion and Canada lynx tracks are found up close to the goat ledges, and it is a fair assumption that these big cats sometimes feast on the animals as they do on mountain sheep and deer at lower levels.

Of necessity the goats must come down from the high rocks, where they spend the day, to feed at night in the little green meadows, and here lies their danger. Perhaps they would stay in these meadows if not alarmed, but at the first sign of an enemy they rush to the cliffs and are soon again on safe ground.

Eagles are known to kill, carry off and eat the young kids before they are large enough to defend themselves, although the mother goats are generally able to protect their young against such attacks.

Low-browed and stolid as the mother goat may appear, her watchfulness, care and affection for her young are just as evident as the finer and more demonstrative mother love in the higher types of the animal kingdom.

To see a mother goat climbing the steep chimney cracks of the Garden Wall above Iceberg Lake, scrambling across sliding talus, leaping from shelf to shelf up what appeared to be a sheer cliff, and followed by a wobbly-legged kid only a week old, has thrilled me with wonder and admiration.

THE BUSY LIFE.

The busy life is happier far
Than that of idleness and ease;
Though sweet the joys of comfort are,
They swiftly lose their power to please.
A goal to gain; a task to do;
Some useful purpose while we live,
Whether the skies be gray or blue,
Hold thrills that nothing else can give.

For what has comfort to bestow
To equal that high sense of pride
Of those who suffer many a blow
Refusing to be thrust aside?
Beset by all the odds of doubt,
And fearing much but braving all,
Men choose to work their problems out
And earn their glory, great or small.

And what has pleasure to compare
With that delight of doing things,
That sense of satisfaction rare
Which every hard achievement brings?
Though weariness may cause a sigh
And heavy may the burdens be,
When the dark days have all gone by
The sweeter is the victory.

A Prayer for the Nation.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

GOD of our fathers, hear our prayer for this Nation and its people.

Our people are hungry in the midst of abundance. Though we live at peace with all the world, our hearts are filled with doubts and fears. We walk blindly, in dread of disaster, and there is none to lead us.

The gods we trusted have failed us in our time of need. They give us neither peace of mind nor courage to endure.

We have been false to Thee, and our folly has found us out.

Because Thy bounty enriched us, we grew great in our own esteem and felt no need of Thee. We blamed Thee only for our misfortunes and took credit to ourselves for all that was good. In the abundance of our good fortune, we forget humility and gratitude.

Because men of science discovered and harnessed a few of Thy multitude of laws, we said to ourselves: "How great and wonderful is man! Who is God that men should worship Him?" We were awed by the little knowledge of men, and the worship of science became our religion.

Because cunning and artful men mocked Thee and ridiculed Thy followers, we feared their scorn and coveted their good opinion. We sacrificed Thy approval to gain theirs, and boasted of our courage because we dared blaspheme the author of the universe.

Pride of wealth and pride of knowledge caused us to forsake Thee, and now our sins have found us out.

Once again we follow the immemorial way of repentance and turn to Thee when all else fails.

An humble and a contrite heart, O Lord, Thou wilt not despise.

Teach us to find the way back to Thee.

Help Thou our unbelief. Help us once more to have faith that all things work together for good to them that love and fear Thee. Help us once more to be God's men, unashamed and unafraid. Amen.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Studying Rail Relief.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

Whether the President will offer any suggestions for relief of the railroads apparently depends on the outcome of the negotiations now under way between railway executives and members of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The executives are understood to be none too friendly to the proposal that money from the pool to be created by surcharges on certain nonagriculaural products be given to weak but solvent roads for use in meeting obligations to bondholders. The railway men's position is that the money advanced to the weak roads should be in the form of loans and not as gifts—a very sound position, it would seem.

But it has been indicated at the White House if an agreement is not reached between the commission and the railroad executives on the plan proposed by the commission, the President may seek to evolve some other plan. Mr. Hoover is represented as being much concerned over the railroads' plight, particularly because such a large number of savings banks have invested their funds in railroad bonds, and if the interest on the bonds be not paid by the railroads, the bonds will be removed from the lists of approved securities in which savings banks in many States are permitted to invest.

Mr. Hoover sees a direct connection between the railroad and the banking situations, therefore, and is hopeful that by strengthening the credit of the roads the threat of loss to savings banks may be averted.

What Could Be More Simple!

Boston Globe.

Members of the House ways and means committee are arriving in Washington for conferences on methods of raising money to meet the national deficit. Why not cancel it?

Mr. Norris' Manifesto.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

It was scarcely necessary for Senator Norris to announce his program for the coming session of Congress and next year's presidential campaign. It was assumed that he would be "agin" the administration at every point and oppose Mr. Hoover for reelection. The formula for arriving at the Nebraskan's attitude toward virtually any legislative or administrative proposal is simple. Is Mr. Hoover for it? Then Mr. Norris is against it. His antipathy extends even to the field of foreign relations. He states that he will oppose any suggestion emanating from the administration as a result of the Hoover-Laval conferences, no matter what it may be. And he will support Gov. Roosevelt or any other "progressive" Democrat who is nominated for President. In 1928 he supported Mr. Smith. In 1924 he declined to join the La Follette third party, but he gave Mr. Coolidge no support.

Government in Business.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Arthur Sears Henning, noted correspondent, affirms that there is "an ever-mounting cry of protest emanating from business men against the invasion of their respecitve fields of private business by the Federal government."

Everywhere, says Mr. Henning, whether among grain traders, livestock commission men, cotton, poultry, wool or dairy products dealers, the cry is going up, "The Government is taking the bread out of our mouths by organizing financing agencies to compete with us."

They claim that the Government loans these competing agencies money at 1 and 2 per cent, while they must pay five and six for the money they borrow, and that in this proceeding the Government loses millions of dollars.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Writer Asserts That Tammany Corruption in New York Prevents Fair Elections and Defeats Popular Will.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A Mr. Dixon objects to your editorial, "Tammany Wins," upon the astounding ground that it was a "wee bit biased and unfair." On the contrary, the editorial in question could have gone much farther and still kept within the range of truth. It was mild, considering the facts as they exist, according to people who constantly take part in New York City campaigns.

Exclusive of Tammany Hall adherents, it seems generally agreed by New Yorkers that there has not been an honest or fair election held in New York in many years. Workers of other parties find by actual experience that Tammany Hall gangsters are invariably active in every election to intimidate, insult, browbeat, bluff and beat unmercifully members of the opposition parties when the latter's adherents use their constitutional rights to see that their supporters get to the polls and actually have their votes counted for someone else than Tammany candidates. This, however, is very difficult to do, they find, and is usually impossible except in scattered precincts.

Some of these gangsters it is further declared, specialize in friendly contests as to which can cast the largest number of votes election day in the various precincts. A "good" worker should cast at least 25 votes if he operates under different registration "names," and in various neighboring precincts, it is understood. Some like to use the names of prominent movie stars who actually vote in California, but their gangster "doubles" prefer to vote in New York. Others have access to graveyard lists or hotel registers.

If the United States Marines would be allocated to supervise elections in New York City with the same enthusiasm with which they have been used to insure fair elections in Nicaragua, Porto Rico, Cuba and other South and Central American countries, the writer ventures the prediction that Tammany Hall would never win another election. It is unquestionably a minority organization, because if it really represented a majority of the people of New York City there would be no necessity for it to descend to the despicable and illegal and unconstitutional prostitution of the American ballot box in order to gain its nefarious ends.

By such methods does Tammany Hall inflict its will upon the people of New York. Why can not our National Government insure fair elections in the United States? Does not our Constitution guarantee to each State a republican form of government? Has the Republican party lost all of its backbone that it tolerates such conditions? Or has there been a secret conspiracy entered into by both parties in New York State by which crime is winked at in New York City, in return for which Tammany Hall promises not to spread its influence upstate, so that Republicans may win outside of New York City? If this is the case, then both machines should be "scrapped" by patriotic citizens everywhere.

Even the voting machines do not correct the rotten system in New York City. The gangs actually have the temerity to follow free-born American citizens into the voting booths, and thus commit a rape on the entire American system of voting. This condition has become intolerable, and if the Republican party can not remedy these conditions the Socialist party will!

Wonderful Results Obtained by Using the Imagination.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Have you had cause to know what a force imagination is in life? I have.

Sunday night as I was undressing to retire, two small white buttons fell from my shirt to the floor. I picked both up and laid them on the dresser. I had a slight headache; so before I went to bed I laid out two aspirin tablets to be taken later if the pain did not subside.

I laid down. The ache increased. I could not sleep. I got up in the dark and swallowed the two "tablets" and crawled in bed. The pain vanished. I slept; and I never knew until the next morning, when I looked on the dresser, that I had "taken" the two buttons instead of the tablets. PETE McGEE.

Christmas Is Rapidly Approaching. Hopes Gifts Will Be Distributed Among Deserving Poor.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It won't be very long before advertisements will contain such reminders as, "Do your Christmas shopping early" and "Only — more shopping days till Christmas."

State, War and Navy Building Is a Thing of Beauty, but It Is in Need of a Thorough Cleaning.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The architectural aspect of the State, War and Navy Building presents a beautiful spectacle to visitors who come to Washington. When observed closely one notices its beauty and graceful lines. At present the stone is a very dirty gray color. The Fire Department gives the building a yearly washing but this does not remove the dirt and grime. What it really needs is a good sand blasting, and then it would present a magnificent appearance. HORTON MINIMIZES TENNESSEE'S DEBT

Proposes That State Issue $10,000,000 in Bonds to Help Situation.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Declaring "the amount of debt we owe is a bagatelle compared to the great wealth of this State," Gov. Henry H. Horton called upon the legislature in extraordinary session today to preserve Tennessee's credit and borrow its way out of a financial hole.

Pointing to an anticipated deficit of $12,000,000 for the biennuium ending June 30, 1933, which he attributed to legislative appropriations in excess of revenue, the governor recommended issuance of $10,000,000 in bonds to tide the State over until the regular session in January, 1933.

He also suggested the maximum interest rate on $14,000,000 of notes soon to mature be raised from 5 to 6 per cent in order to make them attractive to bidders. A $5,000,000 issue maturing in two weeks, he said, failed of renewal recently, and, unless it could be sold, the State would default.

The $10,000,000 of deficit bonds also would bear up to 6 per cent.

Senator Scott Fitzhugh introduced a resolution which was unanimously adopted, calling for detailed information on the State's financial condition and how the borrowed money would be expended.

He pointed out that two years ago a special session was called to remedy a $5,000,000 deficit and now the members were here again to take care of one double that amount. "There's one thing certain and that's this," he said, "this state can go on forever on the basis of accumulating a deficit and then calling the legislature to extra session to issue bonds at a high rate of interest to take care of it. We can't go on forever doing that. It just can't be done."

STONE ASKS FIGHT ON FARM AID FOES

Defends Board and Declares Cooperative Plan Returns Money to Growers.

Chicago, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Chairman James C. Stone of the Federal Farm Board called today upon farmers and farm organizations to unite in combating the opponents of Government aid for agriculture.

Addressing the Association of Land Grant Colleges' annual meeting, Chairman Stone defended the board's operations and said the principles of cooperative marketing it supported "put more money back into the pockets of the producers."

"The Farm Board has developed, through the cooperatives, central sales agencies," Mr. Stone said. "We know there need to be many changes. Cooperative marketing has many of the defects of business, but it is the best thing yet devised to improve the old system that was wholly unfair."

Buy as Cheap as Possible.

The independent grain trader, Chairman Stone said, bought grain as cheap as he could, while cooperatives buy as close to the market as possible and disburse all profits above operating expenses to the producers.

The American farmer, he said, stands "highest in the world in producing, and lowest in marketing power.

"Four concerns buy 95 per cent of the tobacco crop and they can tell me, or any planter, what I'll get for my tobacco crop three years from now. This knocks out the arguments of critics of cooperatives and the Farm Board that the only reason for farmers organizing is to defeat the laws of supply and demand."

The price of certain packs of cigarettes, Chairman Stone said, has remained at 15 cents a pack for several years, while in the last two years, the price of the raw tobacco crop has fluctuated 200 per cent.

200,000,000 Pounds Yearly.

Previous to the Farm Board's entry in wool cooperatives, Chairman Stone said, the average cooperative volume was around 200,000,000 pounds a year. In the board's first year of operation, he added, 131,000,000 pounds were handled through cooperatives.

Discussing Government in business, Chairman Stone said critics against the Farm Board were themselves concealing aid they were receiving from the Government, adding that the Farm Board's entry into the cooperative and stabilization field was the first direct governmental aid to agriculture.

Of the $500,000,000 appropriated by Congress for the board, the chairman said $350,000,000 had been loaned out to 105 cooperatives with a combined membership of 1,100,000. The volume of trading of these cooperatives amounted in one year alone, Chairman Stone said, to $3,500,000,000.

Shop Early Drive Plan Formulated

Elaborate Campaign Will Be Put Under Way This Saturday.

Under the slogan of "Uncle Sam Says: Buy Now, Mail Early," the Washington Merchants and Manufacturers Association is planning a Christmas campaign for early shopping and mailing that is expected to reach every resident of the Capital.

The campaign will begin Saturday and will continue through December 15. Store fronts will be decorated and 400 metal signs in five colors, bearing the mail early slogan, will be carried on the front of 400 street cars throughout the period of the campaign.

The Postoffice Department will cooperate by sending 5,000 letters to school teachers on the value of early shopping and mailing, which will be read to more than 70,000 children. Al Smith-Roosevelt Parley Tomorrow Has Secret Topic

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith will go to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's town house here Wednesday for luncheon with the man he helped elect as his successor, but what they will discuss only the governor knows.

The Democratic standard bearer of 1928 said today the suggestion had been Roosevelt's and he (Smith) had no idea what they were going to talk about.

The governor, who is seen by many as a probable candidate for the 1932 Democratic nomination, said in Albany the subject would not be politics or the executive budget, but he did not say what it would be.

"Mr. Roosevelt has invited me to have luncheon with him at his New York house on Wednesday," Smith said. No one has told me of any particular subject to be discussed and all I know is that I have accepted the invitation."

The governor sought to minimize the importance that has been attached to the meeting in some quarters and denied it would be a highly significant political session.

"Never in the twenty years of my friendship with Alfred E. Smith," he said, "have I ever held a secret conference with him. I see him often when I am in New York and he frequently runs in to see me. This will be just one of those times."

When he was told of a report that he intended to ask his predecessor's advice in paring to the bone the executive budget now being made up in order to meet anticipated decreases in State revenue, the governor said he did not contemplate discussing the budget.

The luncheon will be the first meeting since the November 3 election of the pair who have held the gubernatorial chair at Albany between them for six terms. Last month Smith did some campaigning against the State reforestation amendment approved by the governor. After the election, Gov. Roosevelt laughed away a suggestion that the voters' approval of the amendment was a personal victory for him over Smith.

SMOOT SAYS TRADE IS STARTING REVIVAL

Senator Returns to Capital, Optimistic for Prosperity at Early Date.

(Associated Press.)

Optimistic in the traditional Western manner, Reed Smoot, dean of the Senate in point of service, returned from Utah yesterday confident that the business "worst had passed." Counselling a restoration of confidence, Senator Smoot said, "Business from now on will be on the upgrade."

"I trust that the buyer's strike is near the end," he said. "Millions of people with their incomes but slightly reduced have ceased to purchase any commodities except those absolutely necessary.

"The present appalling condition is world-wide, and the basis of it is the aftermath of the World War. As soon as confidence is restored, America will again be prosperous and every country will resume its ordinary business activity."

He expressed approval of the economic legislative proposals advanced by President Hoover at the bipartisan conferences with congressional leaders.

A brief history of the Mount Pleasant branch of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be given by Mrs. Lindley D. Clark, of Baltimore, first acting president of the organization. Mrs. W. H. Wadleigh, newly elected president of the District of Columbia Woman's Christian Temperance Union, will also appear.

HOOVER AIDS REVIVE EDUCATIONAL FIGHT

Group Recommends Creation of Cabinet Post; New Bill Promised.

(Associated Press.)

The recommendation to President Hoover by his advisory committee on education for creation of a Department of Education yesterday revived agitation over that long-discussed project.

Announcement by Chairman Reed, of the last House education committee, that he would reintroduce his bill to create such a department was followed by a statement from Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, former member of the Senate education committee, opposing it.

Senator Bingham at the same time praised that part of the report recommending that the Federal Government maintain a hands-off policy in state educational affairs. He contended a department would "constantly reach out for more and more power, and interfere more and more with the sacred rights of communities to say what kind of education they wanted their children to have."

A bound copy of the report was transmitted formally to the President yesterday by Dr. Charles R. Mann, chairman of the committee.

SUBURBS FAVORED FOR RELIEF SHARE

Interfederation Conference Would Allocate Gifts of U. S. Workers.

Outside communities should get the benefit of contributions made by their residents under the President's plan, whereby all Government employes shall voluntarily give three day's salary for unemployment relief, it was decided in a resolution adopted last night at the meeting of the interfederation conference at the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The conference, which is composed of delegates from the Federation of Citizens Associations, the Arlington County Civic Federation and the Montgomery County Civic Federation, went on record in favor of proportionately allocating the funds according to the residence of the donors, believing it unequitable that suburban residents' contributions be used in the District of Columbia.

However, the resolution included a clause in which county Federal workers would be allowed to designate their contributions to go to Washington relief if they so wish. Chairman A. B. Barber, of Montgomery County, appointed Frederic P. Lee, chairman of a committee, to bring the action to the attention of Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission and chairman of the President's committee.

In another resolution adopted, a committee was appointed to "study and report on the problem which will be raised by the proposed prohibition of parking in the general Mall area with special reference to facilities available to citizens traveling between their homes and this area."

BRIDGE TO BE BUILT ACROSS SLIGO CREEK

Maryland to Ask Bids Soon on $75,000 Project in Takoma Park, Md.

The Maryland State Roads Commission plans to ask for bids on a three-span concrete bridge costing in the neighborhood of $75,000 to be constructed across Sligo Creek on Carroll avenue, near the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital, in Takoma Park, Md., the Takoma Park Town Council was notified last night at its meeting in the Takoma Fire House and Community Hall.

The bridge will replace the present narrow steel bridge which has been the scene of a number of accidents. Bids will be advertised for within a week or two, the council was informed. The bridge will require about eight months to complete.

The council decided to reject bids received on the paving of Hodges lane and Holly avenue and to postpone the work until spring. It approved an assessment rate of $1.40 a running foot for new sidewalks.

Clifford R. Whyte, engineer of bridges for the District of Columbia, presented plans for the Fern street underpass and explained the project, while Harry B. Shaw, county engineer, explained provisions for carrying off drainage water. The county plans to pipe the drainage water for a distance of 250 feet so that it will not affect houses below the Eastern avenue drainage.

Hose Used to Beat Girl Held Harmless

Charge of Assault Slated In Hyattsville Police Court Tomorrow.

The hose used to beat Mary Scott, 17 years old, of Colmar Manor, Md., was a small, harmless one, according to Attorney Bird H. Dolby, who was retained by the girl's stepmother, Mrs. Hattie Scott, after Mary swore out a warrant against the older woman.

The charge of assault will be tried in Hyattsville police court tomorrow, and meantime Mary is continuing her studies at Hyattsville High School. Since having her stepmother arrested last Friday, the child has been living with Judge Retta D. Morris, of Hyattsville, who issued the warrant against Mrs. Scott.

Mr. Dolby said the hose was used only once, when the child was impertinent to her stepmother. The girl's father and younger sister, Katherine, are said to be ready to testify that Mary's punishment was never excessive.

6 INDICTED BY JURY IN FAIRFAX COUNTY

Dry Law Violators Sentenced on Guilty Pleas; Ballot Charge Ignored.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

November term of the Fairfax County Circuit Court was opened yesterday and a special grand jury was summoned to hear six presentments by the Commonwealth's attorney.

Members of the grand jury summoned by Judge Walter T. McCarthy were B. H. Swart, W. S. Leads, Wilmer T. Ralston, John W. Preston, James Adams, Thomas P. Chapman, jr., W. R. Meneefee, Samuel W. Sisson and Howard J. Lowe.

The county electoral board also reported to the grand jury on the alleged similarity between sample ballots distributed prior to the general election on November 3, and the official ballots. It was alleged that both the sample and the official ballots were printed by the same firm. The grand jury chose to ignore the charge, as it did not return a report to the court.

Six indictments were returned by the jury as follows: Leonard Burke, for manufacturing liquor and possession of a still; C. L. Forsythe, for destroying evidence on a prohibition count; Roger Lobett, on a charge to commit murder, and other indictment charging housebreaking; Robert Morris, on a charge of felonious assault, and an indictment against Buck Raines, alias Berford Raines, for a similar offense.

Burke Pleads Guilty.

Leonard Burke pleaded guilty to the charge of possession of a still, but when it was testified that the still was new and in a crate the charge of manufacturing was dismissed. The other indictments were continued until the next term of court. Roger Lovett, 17 years old, who attempted to shoot Sheriff E. P. Kirby about two weeks ago, is still in the Alexandria Hospital.

The persons pleading guilty to the charges against them and being sentenced by the court were: James Foster, driving while drunk, was fined $100 and costs and given 30 days in jail. The jail sentence was suspended during good behavior; Eugene Garbe, possession and transportation, $50 and costs and 30 days in jail; the jail sentence was suspended; Harry H. McColter, possession and transportation, $50 and costs and 30 days in jail. The jail sentence was suspended.

James Miller, driving while drunk, $100 and costs and 30 days in jail; Walter Brooks, transportation and possession and driving while drunk, $150 and costs and 30 days in jail.

Wright Is Sentenced.

George Vernon Wright, driving while drunk, was fined $100 and costs and given 30 days in jail; the jail sentence was suspended during good behavior. A capias was ordered issued for Charles Dove, charged with possession of liquor, who failed to make his appearance yesterday.

In the cases continued from the September term of court W. W. Sutphin charged with possession of liquor pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs and one month in jail. The jail sentence was suepended during good behavior; William T. Smith and Wheatley Lightener, charged with similar offenses, entered pleas of guilty and received similar sentences.

It was reported to the court that Walter Bayliss, of Alexandria, who has been held in the Fairfax Jail on a charge of manslaughter growing out of an automobile accident on the Washington-Richmond highway last month near Accotink, had been found insane by doctors F. M. Brooks and Ford Swetman, of Fairfax, and Dr. Clyde Brooks, of Alexandria. Judge McCarthy ordered him sent to the State Hospital for Insane.

Hyattsville To Finish Paving Madison Avenue

The Hyattsville town council last night decided to complete paving of Madison avenue to New Cut road, a distance of about 121 feet. There was no opposition to the project, which will consist of a concrete roadway and curbing.

The council also considered the repair of Wells avenue within the limit of the town, after receiving notice from Edmonston citizens that they planned to pave the part of the street within their limits.

FIRES in stores, factories and other commercial buildings are followed by dead months. Trade stops—customers go elsewhere for goods—expenses pile up while the building is being replaced or repaired. What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"SCORPIO."

IF November 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to noon; from 5 p. m. to 6:50 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:10 p. m. The danger periods are from 3 p. m. to 4:15 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 8:45 p. m.

Harmonious influences are in force on November 17, and there will be a drawing together with accompanying peace and happiness of those who have reached a state of armed neutrality. Business programs will be balked by a temporary sort of stalemate, which will cause tantalizing delays.

Children born on November 17 will have warm, sympathetic natures, and will be creatures of decided emotions. They will scatter their affection freely and will love with intensity. They will not have much vital stamina, and should lead lives of moderation and heed common sense health laws.

Born on November 17, you have very remarkable powers of self-control, and it is not often that you give way to your emotions. You are credited with being cold and indignant, for you rarely outwardly demonstrate any feelings of affection or display any indication of enthusiasm. Your seeming attitude of taking everything for granted is annoying to your associates. If you are not guilty of ingratitude, you are guilty of thoughtlessness and selfishness. If you were a little more chummy with people, you would find their response repaying for any efforts made on your part. If you were more audible and less secretive about your personal affairs, views and feelings, you would not be such an enigma to the rest of the world.

You have grit and backbone, and you shoulder your burdens and crosses without a murmur. Although you are proud of being so self-sustained, you are sometimes extremely lonely and wish that you could get nearer to your fellow beings. You would like to be loved, as well as respected. You would like to throw aside your dignity, and to learn how to be a playfellow with your companions. Some great sorrow, or great love, may alter your entire being, so that you are able to express, and no longer suppress, your most human emotions. You are an efficient being, and you have it in you to become a lovable one.

Successful people born on November 17:

Tom Taggart, politician and hotel proprietor.

Giuseppe Campanani, operatic bartytone.

Frank Arthur Vanderlip, banker.
Betty Bascom, film star.
Grace Abbott, social worker.
Valentine Mott, surgeon.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

I AM planning to plant some berry-bearing shrubs because I want them to lend a note of color to my garden in winter and because I want to provide some food for the birds. Will you please give me a list that you feel can be taken care of by an amateur without a gardener?

MRS. CARL R. T.

Some of the shrubs whose berries are most attractive are barberries, dogwoods, cotoneasters, eleagnus, euonymus and ilex in both deciduous and evergreen varieties, the privets and bush honeysuckles, sumacs, viburnums and symphoricarpus.

My delphiniums were about ruined this summer with some form of blight. Will this disease prove fatal?

MRS. CLARENCE G.

No; but this fall you must carefully cut away all dead stalks and clean all dead foliage from the crowns of the plants. When this has been done, cover the plants with coal ashes, and before growth starts in the spring spray the roots with Bordeaux mixture. Do this immediately after you remove the ashes in early April.

The last few seasons I have lost several tubers during the winter. They start decaying about the first of the year and when planting-out time comes are of no further use. What can be done to prevent this condition?

IDA F. P.

Better frequently examine the tubers, and where you find one that is beginning to decay cut out the bad spots and sprinkle the incision with sulphur.

Is it too late to divide Japanese irises?

JULIA McM. B.

Japanese irises should be divided every three or four years. The work should be done after they have finished flowering. It is too late to do the work this fall. When you do it next season, be sure to lift the crowns carefully and separate them with a sharp knife, then set them deeper than you would the bearded varieties.

Where could boxwood bushes which are planted in tubs be stored, and when should they be taken inside? When indoors, is it necessary to give them water?

HANNAH H. P.

Store them in a dark, cool, well-ventilated place that is frostproof. It will be necessary to water then only occasionally. They should be indoors after the 1st of December.

Do you think it is advisable to attempt to start scillas in a window box? I am so anxious to have some of these lovely blue flowers for late winter. I have a very sunny window for them.

MRS JAMES F. T.

Scillas should do very well in a window box. Use a rich soil, placing the bulbs about 2 inches below the surface. Plunge the box in ashes or in a cold frame until you are sure there has been a definite root development and you see some top growth has started. Then bring the box into the house and bring the plants along in a higher temperature.

What causes a begonia to rot off at the root? My plants frequently do this and I have several friends whose begonias do the same thing.

MRS. THOMAS G. R.

When a begonia rots off at the root it is usually a case of too much water. When such a malady develops, immediately try setting the plant in a sunnier place and giving it less water.

Jane Enterprets the Mode

Black velvet, ocre lace and a youthful rose moire bow are three of the best reasons in the world to covet this afternoon frock. (Courtesy of Ardanse, Paris.)

New York, Nov. 16.

ALTHOUGH evening wraps just must be long these days, there are plenty of other uses for short jackets in the busy and fashionable woman's day, especially when she goes in for some sport. Sometimes these jackets are purely decorative, and sometimes they fulfill some special mission for a particular sport or pursuit.

For instance, women in many other countries beside England are taking up hunting as a sport, and wear for this hunting a regulation shooting costume, consisting of a short, divided skirt or a regular skirt cut wide for freedom, a boyish, tailored blouse of thin flannel or heavy washable crepe, and a jacket with pockets—a belted, Norfolk jacket, my deahs! And, of course, the plainest of felt hats, snug fitting and not too tilted, complete the picture.

These suits are of heavy tweeds in green or brown mixtures, and the jackets are warmly interlined, for hunting is a sport that goes forward in any weather, no matter how cold or damp, and the lovely lady has to be prepared for any contingency.

Patou shows an interesting variation of the regulation hunting costume—a grey tweed trouser-skirt and short cape, a white jersey jacket blouse with a standing wing collar, a little bow tie of bright green patent leather, matching a wide belt.

But on the other hand, Schiaparelli's bellhop jackets, with their many buttons replaced by S-shaped clips, can't be called anything but decorative! Not that they need any further excuse for existence than their saucy smartness!

The combination of black velvet and lace is a delightful one for formal afternoons, and many of the newer frocks are playing interesting variations on this theme. I have sketched an interesting example of this for you today from the house of Ardanse. The frock itself is of black chiffon velvet, with pointed collar and odd cuffs of pointe de Venise lace, tinted a rich ocre. And then, giving a gay little touch, there's a big bow of rose moire run through the front point of the collar.

• • • •

It is much smarter to use beige or eggshell or ocre lace with black velvet this year than plain white, as these off shades add the proper "antiquity" to this gracious style.

• • • •

'N' I illustrated the way the collar formed a little epaulet gadgets all by itself because it's such a demurely clever way.

• • • •

Now that we're indoors a lot, why not brighten up that indoors with clever little house-furnishing tricks which may be so easily made in our leisure moments? So-o-o-o let's send the stamped, self-addressed envelope off to the Dare department of The Post right this minute, and get this week's illustrated leaflet that tells how ever so many little tricky gadgets may be made. The sooner the better, too, my deahs, for this leaflet will give you priceless Christmas gift ideas!

Au revoir!

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

SQUEEZE THEM AND WIN.

THERE is one form of the squeeze play that is extremely unusual because one of the adversaries is given the opportunity to make his partner's defense of the contract difficult, if not impossible. This is done through playing winning cards in a suit of which his partner is void, the Declarer meanwhile discarding losers from his own and the Dummy Hand, and not only discarding losers, but, through the operations of the squeeze, establishing cards as winners which otherwise would not have taken tricks. In many cases good players can detect the situation and avert the catastrophe by refusing to take their winning tricks, but human nature is so constituted, particularly the human nature you meet at the Bridge table, that those who can adopt such self-denying tactics are as rare as the great auk.

Today's hand illustrates the manner in which the Declarer shattered the defense of one opponent by means of this unusual play.

South—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.
East and West not vulnerable.

	♠ 2 ♡ Q 10 9 8 5 3 ◇ 6 5 2 ♣ 6 5 4
♠ Q 8 4 3 ♡ K 6 4 ◇ A 9 7 ♣ 9 3 2	N W E S	♠ A 6 5 ♡ A J 7 2 ◇ K 8 4 ♣ A J 8
	♠ K J 10 9 7 ♡ — ◇ Q J 10 3 ♣ K Q 10 7

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	Pass	1NT
Pass	2NT(1)	Pass	3NT(2)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—East's Fourth Hand bid has shown at least one stopper in the spade suit. West has 2 honor-tricks and can contribute a second stopper in the adverse suit. His Raise is therefore justified.

2—East has 3-½ honor-tricks with additional plus values. His bid for game is sound.

In the play, South opened the Knave of spades and West won with the Queen in the Dummy. His second play was to lead the four of hearts, and the Knave in the closed hand was finessed. South was void of hearts and forced to discard and selected for that purpose the seven of clubs. This gave East an opportunity to read South's hand with almost unerring accuracy in view of his Opening vulnerable bid. Unquestionably, South held originally five spades. To have a sound Opening bid his hand must contain the King, Queen and Ten of clubs and not less than the Queen, Knave of diamonds. The probable distribution is 5-4-4 and East proceeded to utilize the information so early obtained to the destruction of his opponent's possible defense. After winning the heart trick, he returned a small heart to the King, then led the last heart from Dummy and captured with the Ace and threw North in the lead with his last heart. South had been forced to make three additional discards. His second discard was the trey of diamonds, followed by two spades. He could not discard any more spades without establishing all the spades for the Declarer. He could not discard another diamond without establishing three diamond tricks for opponents. When North won the fourth heart lead, he remorselessly continued to apply the squeeze to his hopeless partner. Upon the lead of the Queen of hearts, South discarded the Ten of clubs and upon the lead of the last heart he was forced to give up entirely defense in one of the remaining suits. Hoping that his partner might have some kind of protection in the club suit, he discarded the Queen, but whatever card he chose for discard at this time was a matter of little moment. North, noting South's three discards of clubs, now returned a diamond. This trick the Declarer won in his own hand and then cashed three rounds of clubs. Again South was forced to discard and the result was that East lost only 3 heart tricks, scoring an overtrick on his contract. It is, of course, apparent that North's best defense would have been to refuse to cash his two good hearts and to have led a club immediately. East would then have won this trick with the Ace and led the Ace of spades followed by a small spade which South would have been compelled to win. South would then have cashed the King and Queen of clubs and while East would have made his contract, he would not have scored the overtrick.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: State the distributional count for Declarer's hand.

Answer:

Four-card length in trump =1 trick—in suit ½ trick.
Five-card length in trump =2 tricks—in suit 1 trick.
Six-card length in trump =3 tricks—in suit 1½ tricks.

Not counting honor-tricks. Each card over three is worth 1 in trump, ½ in suit.

Not counting honor-tricks. Each card over three is worth 1 in trump, ½ in suit.

Question: Are these values the same for Dummy's hand? Why?

Answer: The plain suit values are the same but the trump values are not, as unless Dummy can ruff, his trumps are of little more value than his plain suits, so are valued the same.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

Always the Suit First.

Question: How would this hand be bid? There have been two passes and all vulnerable. Third Hand holds:

Spades	A K
Hearts	A 9 8 4
Diamonds	A 5 2
Clubs	A Q 10 3

Answer: The proper Opening bid of this hand is two clubs. The hand contains 5-½ honor-tricks, the minimum number of honor-tricks necessary for an Opening Forcing bid with a hand of this distribution. Further bidding, of course, depends upon the nature of partner's response.

Bidding for Slams.

SOUTH (Dealer)
Spades	A
Hearts	A J 10 9
Hearts	K Q
Diamonds	J 10 9 4 2
Clubs	K 4 3

South
2 hearts
4 diamonds (2)
North
6 diamonds (3)

(1) North's hand contains more than 2 honor-tricks. He knows that the hand is near the Slam zone, if not entirely in it. The diamond suit is not quite biddable but as the Dealer has shown 5 honor-tricks by his Opening bid, he must make a strength response with his 2 tricks plus.

(2) South continues to show his three-suited hand, intending on the next round of bidding to complete the picture by bidding clubs.

(3) North sees no occasion to seek further. Whether his partner has four diamonds or five diamonds is immaterial. There can not be more than one diamond loser except with the most freakish distribution and it would not appear that there should be any losing tricks in any other suit inasmuch as the Responding Hand holds K Q of South's Opening bid.

Refuting the Slam Suggestion.

Question: Please correct bidding of the hand below:

North-South game in.
East-West no game.
West is Dealer.

	♠ 5 3 ♡ A Q 10 ◇ J 9 6 2 ♣ Q J 9 8
♠ A 10 9 6 4 2 ♡ — ◇ K 10 7 5 4 ♣ 7 4	N W E S	♠ — ♡ 9 8 7 6 5 2 ◇ Q 8 3 ♣ 6 5 3 2
	♠ K Q J 8 7 ♡ K J 4 3 ◇ A ♣ A K 10

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	2♠
Pass	3NT	Pass	6♠
Dbl.	Pass	Pass	Pass

Answer: The correct bidding is:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	2♠
Pass	3NT	Pass	4♠(1)
Pass	4NT(2)	Pass	Pass(3)
Pass

(1) South shows a strong five-card or longer suit—a rebid which does not close the bidding.

(2) North does not show an additional honor-trick but does show stoppers in all other suits and inability to support a five-card trump suit unless it is solid.

(3) South should pass as an unfavorable distribution of the Spade suit is a certainty. There are not enough honor-tricks to permit a Slam attempt at notrump with no other long suit to play for. To win a Slam at spades South must find not only spade 10 x in North's hand but also a favorable 4-2 split.

Cards Exposed by Remarks.

Question: Contract. Diamonds trump. An adversary revoked, failing to play to a diamond lead. When he discovered his error, he said "Oh, I have a small diamond among my hearts." Did not all cards of the heart suit in his hand become exposed cards?

Answer: Yes. A card mentioned by either adversary as being in his own or in his partner's hand is an exposed card. As the adversary mentioned "hearts," they all became exposed cards; must be left face up on the table, and Declarer may require their owner to lead or play them (or any one of them he may name(when it is the owner's turn to lead or play, unless playing it would cause a renounce.

ATHLETICS FOR ALL.

SEVERAL years ago, but also several years after the end of the World War, a prominent German industrialist had his son spend a year in the United States learning American methods. He had finished his high school education, and instead of going to college, was being prepared for life by training in the business he was to follow. His main objective was to learn the industry in which he was to engage.

Since the young man was something of an athlete, he took occasion to investigate sports in America. He was greatly disappointed to find that so small a proportion of the young people played games and indulged in sports. He went to some football games and saw crowds of as many as 100,000, but the number of players did not equal 50. He saw crowds of 50,000 at baseball games, but only 18 men were playing. He thought the Germans had a better method, although it had not been in operation for many years.

Count Hollander has an article in New Health in which he tells something of the German method. The prewar drilling grounds, of which there were many, have been converted into recreation fields. The number of stadia has been increased from 10 to 125. He tells of 6,000 young men and women engaged in one rowing contest.

Also of 5,000 engaging in one relay race, being divided into 100 teams of 50 each; of a swimming contest in which 45,000 contestants engaged; of a high school athletic contest in which there were 400 contestants on the field at once, these representing choices made at contests in which every pupil in the school had partaken.

In addition to these contests there were the old-style turner exhibitions in which the field would be occupied by 10,000 or more participants. In these exhibitions the men wore slips and shorts, with the skin uncovered above the waistline. The girls wore shorts and brassieres only. Getting the good effects of sunshine on the skin was one purpose of the exercise, almost ranking with muscle building and training.

It is said that a part of the Russian Soviet program is building up the physiques of the young men and women. In the Soviet organization itself there are less than 250,000 members, but in the auxiliary organization for youths there are more than 9,000,000. A part of the educational program of the Russian youth movement relates to health.

PROBABLY TORN LIGAMENT.

An anxious reader writes: Some time ago I slipped on the steps and evidently sprained my ankle, for it has been hurting ever since. It swells and pains, especially after walking. As my daily routine requires a great deal of walking, I am unable to rest during the day. I wonder if you could suggest some relief for it?

REPLY.

There is a fair chance that an X-ray would show a tip of bone broken away or cracked. There is a better chance that you have a torn ligament or tendon. If you must continue to use this foot as much as you do, support the ankle by wearing high shoes or having it strapped. Physiotherapy might help somewhat.

PROBABLY DUE TO INFECTION.

Mrs. J. M. B. writes: What causes my eyes to matter?

REPLY.

You probably have conjunctivitis due to some infection. Ordinary pink-eye is a mild form of conjunctivitis due to an infection and it gets well promptly without treatment. Conjunctivitis due to certain infections is a very grave condition.

CAMPHORATED OIL FOR BREASTS.

Mrs. C. writes: Will massaging the breasts with camporated oil and then steaming them enlarge same permanently?

REPLY.

No. Some people use camphorated oil for just the opposite purpose.

Mothers Welcome New Plan For Better "Control-of-Colds"

Plan Introduced by Makers of Vicks VapoRub to Reduce the Family "Colds-Tax" is Made Possible by a New Preparation.

Local Druggists Offer a Test of the New Product and Plan to Vapo-Rub Users on Unlimited Guarantee of Satisfactory Results.

Mothers are constantly faced with the problem of colds and their costs. It is the mothers, therefore, who especially appreciate the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home—just perfected by the makers of Vicks VapoRub.

The Vick Plan is made possible by a new preparation, Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, based on a new idea in "preventing" colds. It is a companion product to VapoRub, the modern external method of "treating" colds. The two preparations aid and supplement each other. Together, as directed below, they give you the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds:"

1.—Before a Cold Starts

Use Vicks Nose Drops—a few drops up each nostril—whenever you or your children have been exposed to anything which your own experience tells you is apt to bring on a cold—contact with others having fresh colds, crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on the Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold—inhaling smoke, dust, gases—or when you are tired from overwork.

In short, don't wait for that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—Nature's warning that you are actually "catching cold."

2.—After a Cold Starts

At night massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub—now available in "stainless form," if you prefer. Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising may be inhaled freely all night long. During the day use Vicks Nose Drops every few hours—any time, any place. This gives you full 24-hour treatment.

Ideal for Children

Both these Vick Products are external and hence can be used as freely and as often as needed without the risk of too much "dosing." Internal dosing so often disturbs the digestion—especially the delicate digestions of children. This impairs the appetite, which, in turn, reduces body strength at a time when resistance to disease is most needed. Don't "dose" colds—especially children's colds—except on advice of your family physician.

Trial Offer to Vick Users

Proof of this Plan is in its trial—in your own home. Get a bottle of Vicks Drops today. Keep it alongside your trusted Vicks VapoRub. Use them together as directed. Their better "Control-of-Colds" will be noted in fewer colds—colds of less severity and shorter duration. An actual saving to you in money, loss of time and health. Otherwise the test will cost you nothing. For, unless results are more than satisfactory, your druggist will refund in full the price of the new Vicks Nose Drops.

LILY PONS CHARMS CAPITAL AUDIENCE

Mrs. Hoover Leads Applause at Opera Star's Concert Debut Here.

Lily Pons, Metropolitan prima donna with the spirit of the nightingale in her golden voice, held entranced a large audience at Constitution Hall yesterday afternoon in a concert of vocal gems including many operatic arias.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover was in the presidential box with a group of friends and was most generous with her applause. Miss Pons acknowledged personally several times to Mrs. Hoover and sang several encores in response to the ovations.

The concert was given under the management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene and was the debut of Miss Pons in the concert field of Washington.

Throughout a well-balanced, comprehensive program with many difficult selections in it, Miss Pons demonstrated her gift for concert singing as well as grand opera. She has that rare ability of the coloratura soprano, a beautiful legato tone. This feature of her vocal achievements had wide scope in yesterday's numbers. All the pyrotechnics of the coloratura are hers in abounding measure and there is a bird-like quality in her trilling, akin to the Jenny Lind tradition in this regard.

In the first group of songs Sir Henry Bishop's "Lo Here the Gentle Lark," with the clear flute-like tones of the lark here and there in the song, brought the audience to overwhelming applause. This impression was continued in the aria in "The Magic Flute," by Mozart, which followed. Artistry prevailed in her singing of "Caro Nome" aria from "Rigoletto," a test for the soprano voice.

The air from "Le Coq d'Or," by Rimsky-Korsakoff, gave the prima donna opportunity to display her musicianship. "Pourquoi," from "Lakme," was sung with more than passing excellence, a feat not always achieved by coloratura sopranos who possess the ability to sing the rest of this opera, noted for its difficulty and high tones—especially in the Bell Song.

One of the daintiest and most appreciated of her numbers was the air from "Parysatis," by Saint-Saens, sung by this 1931 model prima donna in veritable nightingale tones.

The general charm of the program was maintained in the Mad Scene from "Lucia," with which she closed it—in a real blaze of glory. E. E. P.

Young Woman Treated At Hospital for Poison

A young woman was treated at Emergency Hospital for poisoning last night after she was found in a semiconscious condition on the steps of a residence at 941 M street northwest.

The woman, Miss Emma Cook, 23 years old, 1119 I street northwest, is said to have told police that she swallowed some poison tablets, but refused to give any reason for her act. Her condition is not believed to be serious. Her father, S. E. Cook, of Blacksburg, Va., was notified.

Woodyard for Jobless To Be Opened Saturday

The municipal woodyard, where unemployed transients will be able to earn money enough for "bed and breakfast" by swinging an ax at wages not exceeding 25 cents an hour, will be open Saturday, the District of Columbia committee on unemployment announced last night.

It will be located at Sixth street and Constitution avenue northwest.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

AN IMPRESSIVE incident occurred on the stage of the Belasco Theater last night.

Without preliminary announcement to the audience assembled to frolic for an evening in "The Wonder Bar," Morris Gest, producer of this continental novelty in this country, stepped upon the stage and presented to Al Jolson, his star, the original manuscript of his father-in-law, the late David Belasco's play of "The Return of Peter Grimm."

At the same time he conveyed to the actor, whose name is inseparably linked with musical comedy and revue—with an occasional excursion into motion pictures—the wish expressed by Mr. Belasco before his death that Jolson appear in a revival of his play, portraying the title role, created with such signal success by David Warfield.

It is a probability that this consummation will be achieved during the year 1932.

If so, this will be a distinct departure for Mr. Jolson, although an undertaking which those who have watched his work with discerning eyes feel no hesitancy in predicting he can successfully accomplish with credit to himself, to the play and to the judgment and confidence of Mr. Belasco, the outstanding genius of his day in the American theater.

Jolson at least will have the Warfield precedent to guide him in this new adventure. It will be recalled by veterans of the theater that for years before he became a star under the Belasco management, David Warfield was playing low comedy Jewish parts in the burlesque company of Weber and Fields when those distinguished dialecticians were in their heyday. George Sidney, at the same time, was playing similar roles with the almost forgotten team of Ward and Vokes, vastly popular in their day.

Every comedian, they say, is at heart a tragedian and Jolson, from time to time, has almost proved it. He has frequently betrayed the feeling and the emotional appeal of another Warfield in the making. More power to him.

Not only is Al Jolson a clever funster, swell singer and capable actor, but at times he also demonstrates a peculiarly clairvoyant sense in perceiving the needs of others.

Take Sunday night at the Belasco, for instance. After the last line of "The Wonder Bar" had been spoken and the star had thrown down such remaining bars of conventionality as there were, he decided that perhaps the reviewers sitting in on his gay masquerade might be thirsty, and so himself came down the aisle bearing a heavily laden tray.

I mean to say that at 11:30 p. m., with a review and a column still to go to beat an inexorable deadline, a little dash of ginger ale, like that, is just what the doctor ordered!

And on, Mr. Taylor, you will find my glasses right there under the aisle seat, F-1, directly in front of where I was sitting; the boy must have forgotten to come after them!

And now the Fox Theater is at it again. This time it is some sort of voting contest whereby some employe of the Federal or District Government will be awarded a delightful eighteen-day cruise through the West Indies over the Christmas holidays. The voting will be conducted over a period of two weeks, November 27 to December 10.

Ballots will be given all patrons between the dates mentioned and their voting values will be contingent upon the price of the ticket purchased, the Fox scale ranging from 15 to 60 cents.

The points to be visited on the cruise are Nassau, Bahama, December 22; Kingston, Jamaica, Christmas Day; Panama Canal Zone, December 28 and 29 and Havana, Cuba, New Year's Eve and New Year's Day.

That Havana business alone will be worth all the trouble—take it from one who used to live in those West Indian tropics!

"The Barretts of Wimpole Street," by Rudolf Besier, which stars Katharine Cornell; "Elizabeth, the Queen," by Maxwell Anderson, which featured Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne; "Grand Hotel," by Vicki Baum; "As Husbands Go," by Rachel Crothers, current at the National; "Once in a Lifetime," by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart; "Green Grow the Lilacs," by Lynn Riggs; "Tomorrow and Tomorrow," by Philip Barry; "Overture," by William Boltho; "Five Star Final," by Louis Weitzenkorn, and "Alison's House," by Susan Glaspell, are the ten plays selected by Burns Mantle for his year book for the theatrical season of 1930-31, published by Dodd, Meade & Co., New York.

That nine months brought to Broadway these among other plays is sufficient evidence that the present-day stage is not moribund. Only two of these dramas are by alien authors. In number of performances these two productions were matched by "Once in a Lifetime," than which nothing could be more native.

Afterthoughts on that hour's visit with William Haines, at the Palace, Saturday: His antique shop in Hollywood, established more as a favor to a friend than to make money, was opened in October and in the following January showed a net loss of only $32 and some odd cents. Perceiving that he had something, Mr. Haines kept the place going and the next time the books were cast up they showed a net profit of 20% on the investment—so he sent his partner to Europe to buy Holiday stock, which already is sold out...He abhors cheap publicity stunts and will have none of them on tour...The toughest speech he has in "The New Adventures of Get-Rich-Quick-Wallingford," three and one-half pages long, was delivered to him at 12:30 a. m. one night and played without a hitch at 9 the same morning, without a retake...Lella Hyams, with him in the film at the Palace, is one of his favorite leading women, the two working together perfectly...He bounces around a lot while you're talking to him, like all good troupers, being overcharged with nervous energy.

Speaking of "Get-Rich-Quick" Wallingford," in its newest version, Charles MacArthur deserves more credit than appears to the naked eye for doing such a swell job in adapting the George Randolph Chester stories to the screen.

He wrote the script for this picture while immersed in the details of what started out to be the luckless production of Edward Knoblock's "Lullaby," finally presented under the title of "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," as a starring vehicle for his charming and talented wife, Helen Hayes.

Once or twice the Haines unit was held up on the set for as much as three or four hours at a time, waiting for Charlie to dash off the dialogue for a scene or two.

And I am not sure, at that, that "Wallingford" isn't the better job of the two!

This must seem like "old home week," or something to Freddie Clark, musical director at the Earle. For the first time in many months he finds himself directing a full-sized vaudeville bill of eight acts, just as in the old days when he waved the baton for Roland Robbins up on Fifteenth street at the B. F. Keith house. And at least half of the acts on the Earle bill worked with him up there by the Treasury, which only goes to make it all the more Auld Lang Syne, if you know what I mean.

Wonder if they threw away that straw hat I left up there on the shelf?

Cave-in Buries Laborer; Is Saved by Quick Work

Prompt work by firemen and fellow workers yesterday saved the life of Rubin Moseley, 50 years old, who was buried under 6 feet of earth when a sewer line trench in which he was working at 5421 Kansas avenue northwest, caved in.

Laborers with the Dunigan Construction Co., employers of Mosely, leaped to the rescue with shovels, and firemen from Engine Company No. 11 were called. They soon uncovered Moseley's head and found that he had been partly protected by shorings over the trench. He was taken to Casualty Hospital after his rescue, but was found to be uninjured.

"AS HUSBANDS GO." John Golden presents the second production of the Theater Guild's third Washington season, a comedy in prologue, three acts and four scenes by Rachel Crothers. Settings by Cirker & Robbins; gowns by Myna Wightman. Staged by Miss Crothers.

—The Cast—

Lucile Lingard	Gloria Holden
Ronald Derbyshire	Geoffrey Wardwell
Emmie Sykes	Catharine Doucet
Hippolitus Lomi	Roman Bohnen
Maitre d'Hotel	Francois Steygert
Waiter	Bruno Wick
Charles Lingard	Jay Fassett
Wilbur	Eddie Wragge
Christine	Mary Duryea
Peggy Sykes	Marjorie Lytell
Jake Canon	Robert Foulk
Katie	Jeanne Pierre

Miss Rachel Crothers, one of the more astute of our distaff dramatists, has chosen as the theme of her current fable the susceptibility of wealthy Iowans of the gentler gender to the glamour of Europe's time-mellowed civilization, the sauvities of the rickety relics of a crumbling aristocracy and the purling poesy of a young English writer, littering the cafes of Paris with his gossamer fancies.

To emphasize the manifold virtues of life as it is lived beside simple American hearthstones, Miss Crothers has prolonged her play in an isolated dining nook of a Parisian restaurant at 4 o'clock in the morning, when a rich widow and an attractive young wife are making themselves mildly ridiculous under the influence of too much champagne and the blandishments of one Hippolitus Lomi, a down-at-heel sophisticate, and Ronald Derbyshire, wooing the world with the wizardry of the written word. To Emmie Sykes "Hippy" vows an eternal devotion—or at least as eternal as her ample bank account; from Lucile Lingard, "Ronnie" exacts the promise that immediately upon arriving home, 10 miles from Dubuque, she will tell her husband of her newer and greater love and fly back to his waiting arms.

The remainder of the action—three acts and four scenes—takes place in the Lingard home, still 10 miles from Dubuque.

"Hippy," with no intention of permitting such a luscious prize as the widow Sykes to slip through his fingers, accompanies the ladies to America at their expense. Exasperated by the unseemly delay, when Lucile's half of the bargain gives every indication of going by the board, "Ronnie" follows five weeks later.

The ensuing developments are amusingly complicated by Emmie's pert young daughter, Peggy, and her elephantine fiance, Jake; Charlie Lingard's blind idolatry of his wife and an unsuspected streak of decency in both of the Messrs. Lomi and Derbyshire.

In the weaving of her tale, Miss Crothers had achieved a unique blending of smart, modern comedy and the homely qualities of simple virtue and honest love indigenous to genre drama almost of the "Old Homestead" and and "Shore Acres" type. Last evening's audience deemed the hybrid work sufficiently interesting and novel to engage its eager attention, tickle its risibilities and elicit its hearty applause.

In the early movements of the drama, the cast threatened an unevenness of performance that happily failed to materialize once they got warmed to their work. Perhaps it was the too-flowery cadences of some flagrantly artificial early lines that gave the impression in the first place.

Certainly no more perfect delineation of the typical Mid-Western husband, hopelessly in love with his wife, need be expected this or any other season than is contributed to "As Husbands Go" by Jay Fassett, the only husband in it. If scoresheets were kept at dramatic first nights, The Post's would record no error, either of commission or omission, against this splendidly naturalistic actor.

Almost as much may be said of the excellence of the portrayals offered by Catharine Doucet and Gloria Golden, in the roles of Emmie and Lucile, respectively. Miss Doucet, particularly, as the fluttery, gushing, addle-pated widow who suddenly discovers deep springs of emotion she knew not that she possessed—or had forgotten—is nervously alive to every opportunity the part presents. Miss Holden's more restrained methods afford a pleasant contrast. Geoffrey Wardwell and Roman Bohnen, the Ronnie and the Hippy of the evening, improve as the comedy progresses and Marjorie Lytell is a piquant and meddlesome younger Sykes. Robert Foulk, as Jake Canon, achieves a maximum effect with a minimum of lines.

An evening of agreeable, if not especially aggressive, entertainment that can be safely recommended as always within the elastic bounds of present-day propriety.

GAYETY

"TANGO GIRLS." A new Columbia Burlesque attraction with Irving Selig and Tangara; Jeanie Steele, as guest star. Reviewed Monday night by W. L. Wright.

With the comedy in the capable hands of Irving Selig and his aids, Artie Lloyd and Al Anger, this show can't do anything, but click along at top speed. From start to finish, they put over the laughs in perfect form.

Alluring and charming Tangara heads a feminine contingent that is second to none. Tangara, an attractive brunette, sings well and presents her numbers with that tantalizing abandon that gets over in a big way.

And if you are gentlemen and prefer blondes, you will be pleased with Wanita Cassino and Rose Lee. Nell Cason scored a hit with her song numbers and Buddy Rose shook a mean foot in several scenes. To top it off, is Miss Jeanie Steele, guest star of the attraction. Her snappy numbers left the boys happy and wanting more.

"Home Town Minstrels" presents the entire company in a novelty well liked by all.

Tech Refuses To Oppose Negro

Cancels Grid Contest With Bethlehem Pa., High School.

Cites Precedent Set in 1929; Colored Youth Is Star.

TECH HIGH SCHOOL has cancelled its Thanksgiving Day game with the Bethlehem (Pa.) High School team, because of the Pennsylvania school's refusal to keep Jackie White, colored half back, on the side lines. Tech passively acknowledged the cancellation of the game yesterday when it did not reply within 24 hours, to a communication from the Bethlehem school reiterating its stand on White, and asking for a reply during the day.

Tech's action was based on a precedent established in 1929 when Principal Frank Daniel and Coach Elmer (Hap) Hardell ruled that it was contrary to the school's policy to engage teams with Negroes on the list. The team in question was the Stamford (Conn.) High eleven. Stamford also declined to meet Tech's wishes.

White Star of Team.

The fact that White was a member of the Bethlehem team was disclosed during the week, when final plans were being made for the game. In an exchange of correspondence it was noted, as a matter of information to Tech, that White, who has been out with a fractured rib for some time, would be back in the line-up for the Tech game. White, before his injury, was the outstanding back field man on the team.

As soon as it learned of White's presence, Tech wired the Bethlehem school, outlining Tech's policy and asking that he be removed. The appeal was turned down, and when the two schools had definitely reached loggerheads, the Pennsylvanians gave the District institution 24 hours in which to decide. A special dispatch to The Post last night from Bethlehem stated that the Pennsylvanians would play the Pennsylvania Institute for the Deaf, of Philadelphia, instead of Tech.

Tech to End Season Today.

Tech, Coach Hardell stated last night, probably would not seek another game. The school was offered, unofficially, a game with Ashland (Ky.) High, but Hardell declined. Principal Frank Daniel said last night that Tech doubtless will not attempt to find an opponent to take the place of Bethlehem, since one of the high school athletic ordinances calls for the presentation of each school's complete schedule before the start of the season and provides for no substitutions.

This afternoon's charity game, between Tech and Business, at Central Stadium, therefore, will be the last appearance of the 1931 edition of the Manual Trainers.

Philadelphia Net Star To Make Home Here

Joe Olhausen, one of the Philadelphia district's finest tennis players, will make his residence in Washington for the next year and become a part of the District's tennis colony. Olhausen, who holds decisions over Manuel and Wallace Johnson, will play on the city's indoor team this winter.

His game is mostly built around his service, which is rated one of the hardest in the East. He volleys better than the ordinary player and stands well over 6 feet.

Injury Ends Career Of Hewitt, Lion Ace

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The Columbia Athletic Association announced today that Ralph Hewitt, captain and quarter back of the Lions football eleven, "possibly has played his last game for Columbia." Doubt was expressed he would play against Syracuse this week.

Hewitt, who has been a shining light in Columbia's offense for three years, received a torn cartilage in his chest in Saturday's game with Brown and was not able to show up for practice today.

Hoppe Beats Cochran In Balkline Matches

Large galleries were on hand at the Lewis and Krauss parlors yesterday afternoon and last night to see Willie Hoppe, newly crowned 18.1 king, in a combination match against Welker Cochran, whom he dethroned in New York last week. A match of 250 points at 18.2 balkline and a 25-point three-cushion contest was played at each performance.

Hoppe won both of the balkline matches, winning in the afternoon, 250 to 150, and last night, 250 to 235. Hoppe had high runs of 151 and 68, while Cochran's biggest clusters were 90 and 45. Cochran's only victory of the day was at three-cushion in the afternoon when he gained a close decision, 25 to 23 in 24 innings. He had high run of 5 to Hoppe's 4. In the night match, both played superbilliards, but Hoppe earned the verdict in fourteen innings, 25 to 16. He had runs of 7 and 5, as against two 5s and a 4 for his opponent. An interesting exhibition of trick and fancy shots by Hoppe followed each contest.

LONDOS IN VICTORY.

New York, Nov. 16 (U.P.).—Jim Londos, Greek wrestler and claimant of the world's heavyweight championship, defeated George Calza, of Italy, in 52:49 tonight before a crowd of 17,000 in Madison Square Garden. Londos weighed 201 and Calza 217. Renato Gardini, 200, Italy, defeated Dick Daviscourt, 225, California, in 20 minutes.

Chicago, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Rudy Dusek, Omaha (Nebr.) heavyweight wrestler, defeated Fred Grobmier, of Iowa, in straight falls in the main match at the Rainbo Arena tonight.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

NOTRE DAME spread a convincing eyeful of Rockne football over the greensward of Baltimore Stadium against Navy last Saturday for the skeptics, if any, to gaze upon, and the East's first Notre Dame audience nodded in hearty approval of the latest wonder team from South Bend.

Notre Dame's wealth of power, the remarkable timing and precision of its play, and destructive blocking display and the well-rounded performance in general of the green-jerseyed youths, was not lost in the admiration for the gallant defensive battle of the outclassed and overmatched Midshipmen.

The attacking power of Notre Dame overshadowed its defensive display but the statistics of the game are ample testimony of the bulwarks that form the front-line defense of the Ramblers. Not a single first down was Navy able to register from scrimmage, and the greatest piece of ground-gaining that the Middies made was an 8-yard run in the third period which followed a play on which they had been thrown for a 12-yard loss.

The intimation that Notre Dame coaches, in a charitable gesture to Rip Miller, former Notre Dame star, who is in his first year as head football mentor at the Naval Academy, withheld the Rambler's best efforts against Navy as reported in The Post by Westbrook Pegler, draws the ire of Lynn T. Elliott, right end on the Navy team.

In a letter to this column, Elliott takes Pegler to task with these observations:

"Maybe he does not know the old Navy tradition of fight. He wasn't on the field. No team can lay down against the Navy. The Navy with five regulars out was in there to win. I think the old heads gathered there—the officials—might give an opinion as to whether Notre Dame let down. That stuff about doing right by "Rip" Miller is the worst tripe I have ever heard.

"If Pegler could have seen the blood and fire on both teams, he might think differently about the sweet, friendly feeling. There is no such thing as friendship in a scrimmage, to say nothing about a game. A system learned in a season and done perfectly isn't much of a system. Maybe the 20 pounds per man had something to do with difference in plays. Maybe the years difference in performing those plays made a difference.

"There never was a red-blooded man that let up between the kick-off and final whistle in football or in any other game or business—there is no quarter in a football game—there is a difference in uninspirational and ordinary football. Football is almost entirely enthusiasm. Did Notre Dame blockers lack enthusiasm? Did Notre Dame runners run half heartedly? In other words was there a yellow football team in blue or green on that field? I wonder. If Pegler thinks what it means to a group of fighters to have such articles as his thrown at them?"

This column believes that Notre Dame might have run up a large score on the Naval Academy had the South Bend coaches so willed. But I hold no belief that the Notre Dame teams on the field were not giving their best.

Had Head Coach Anderson not chosen to withdraw Schwartz and several other regulars from the game after the second period which netted them three touchdowns, the score against Navy undoubtedly would have mounted. It was obvious that the Ramblers were far superior.

Godwin Stops Schwartz in 7 Rounds

Referee Stops Uneven Contest at Alexandria Show.

By JACK ESPEY.

FISTIANA'S contribution to the maintenance of the Alexandria Day Nursery went over with a bang last night. In fact, it was accompanied by several bangs, not to mention quite a few biffs, and both fighters and fans came out limping. The scene was the old Portner brewery, made over for the presentation of sports with a kick.

Just as Willie Eschinger knocked out Sailor Oden in the third round of one of the preliminaries, a widely excited crowd of 1,200 heard the ominous crash of a section of the portable stands on the ground floor. Three men and one woman, who were either sitting on the seats that collapsed or were caught in the mass of humanity that tumbled down from the rear of the stand, sustained minor injuries for which they were treated at the Alexandria Hospital.

Good Fight Averts Panic.

But the crowd had been keyed to such a high pitch by the Eschinger-Oden fight that the accident occasioned nothing resembling a panic, which it might have if there had been no competition. In less than five minutes after the crash all persons who had been seated in this section were placed in vacant seats or given standing room elsewhere, while the attendants set about the task of demolishing the stand.

There was no interruption to the program, which was featured by a technical knockout of Billy Schwartz, Alexandria light-heavyweight, by Bob Godwin, of Daytona Beach, Fla., in the main bout. For thrills and chills this battle set a mark at which bouts in this vicinity may shoot for many a month.

Referee Charley Short stopped the bout at the end of the seventh round to save Schwartz from further punishment after the Alexandria pride had been beaten into a gory state with a barrage of blows that stamped Godwin the hardest hitting boxer to appear hereabouts this year.

Schwartz, his face swollen to twice its normal size and with cuts under both eyes, pleaded with Short to let it go on, but all that Billy did in proving his case was to show that he was game.

Godwin, a well-built youth of 21, who looks and acts in the ring a bit like Honeyboy Finnegan, of tender Washington memories, asserted his supremacy in the very first round with a straight-shooting, two-fisted attack. The echo of the opening gong had hardly died away before he caught Schwartz with a right to the chin that sent Billy reeling into the ropes.

Thereafter until the end it was just a case of too much ability on the one hand and too much heart on the other. Many a fighter would have quit under punishment such as Godwin dealt, but Schwartz evidently was determined to finish the scheduled eight rounds if he had to crawl the rest of the way.

Eschinger and Oden threw caution to the winds and lots of dynamite at one another for three rounds until Oden, for the fifth time, went spinning to the canvas finally to be counted out. In the second round Oden came back after a nine count to pound Eschinger almost into unconsciousness.

Charley Gomer, Baltimore, outpointed Sailor McKenna, Washington, in the eight-round semifinal. In other bouts Marino Marini defeated Nevin Barber; K. O. Riley won from Ray Bowen, and Roddy Davis trounced Young Jack Britten.

A. A. U. Redefines Rule, Omitting Word 'Amateur'

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—A new definition of amateur was formulated today by the forty-third annual convention of the Amateur Athletic Union.

"Those who engaged in sport solely for the pleasure, physical, mental or social benefit they derive therefrom, and to whom sport is nothing more than an avocation," was substituted in a section of the union's constitution to replace the word "amateur."

The convention tabled a motion to change the date of the annual meeting from the middle of November, a time conflicting with football, to the first Monday and Tuesday of December.

Cincinnati, Ohio, was chosen as the place for the senior long-distance running championship contests at a date to be decided upon later.

Ed Lindenbaum, director of physical education at the St. Louis Y. M. H. A. and world's rope climb record holder, was appointed delegate to the International Gymnastic federation as chairman of the Olympic games gymnastics committee and manager of the United States gym team. He was delegated to hold regular practices to develop three competitors for the American Olympic rope climb team.

One of 27 swimming records claimed by Miss Helene Madison, America's swimming marvel, were among those disallowed today in the Union's consideration of 144 new marks.

The record in question, 110 yards time of 1:7.1, unrecognized because the distance is not listed as a standard event. The time of 4:24.9 for the 400-yard relay which she helped establish was not recognized because no formal application was in the hands of the records committee.

Yeah, Football in Colleges May Be "Semipro Racket," But Echo Asks "What of It?"

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Fearless journalist that he is, Mr. Reed Harris, editor of the Columbia Spectator, is not intimidated by the threat of several varsity football men to beat him up, and promises to write further essays on his contention that the varsity football teams are composed of semipros. The original article to this effect was given space next to pure reading matter in the adult press; so was the football players' threat and so, doubtless, will Mr. Harris' further discussion, the whole affair constituting a brisk outburst of publicity for the Columbia football team.

The publicity may even do Mr. Harris some good when the time comes for him to send in his card to the boss-editors of the New York papers after his graduation, asking for a job as dramatic critic, sport columnist or book reviewer, although some few are found willing to scale down their preferences and accept appointments as Paris correspondents at $7,500 a year and all expenses.

Pegler Strings Along With Harris.

At the risk of a visit from the captain of the Columbia football team, I am afraid I must string along with Mr. Harris, the editor, in his contentions but not in his conclusion. He thinks this semiprofessionalism, which is accepted as a fact in intercollegiate football, is something that something drastic should be done about. But what for? The game is in a very difficult situation just now, and it has great responsibilities, social as well as financial.

Desemiprofessionalize it and make it once more a simple and comparatively private student festivity and what will there be to supply the want of the football excitement in the fall? The importance of this sport in the social life of the country may not be apparent as long as the game lasts, but my favorite line of poetry is the one from the popular song of ten or fifteen years ago which said, "You never miss the sunshine until the day is done—I said until the ever-loving day is done." Cancel football and the people would be very restless, with nowhere to go on Saturdays and with no reading matter about the double-shuffle wingback and diamond defense formations to occupy them in the meantime.

What would the young journalists suggest as a substitute for this? They must admit that football is socially important, far beyond the school gounds now, and that the schools, having deliberately cultivated this public interest to make money, have a continuing responsibility.

What Would Athletic Associations Use for Money?

And then, what would the journalists suggest that the athletic associations use for money to carry on the great financial programs to which they are committed once the game were desemiprofessionalized and the receipts automatically wiped out? Student interest could not meet the requirements, because students haven't any money. During the great American boom the students were the only class of people who retained a decent respect for the nickel and the dime, and the only reason advertisers appeal to student circulation at all is their hope that they may establish good will for later years.

The financial responsibilities of football are not to be settled by idle jesting or flat denunciations by the young editors. When a college builds a stadium or a field house, the obligation to pay for the same is just as binding as if the Madison Square Garden Corporation were to build a stadium or field house. And it will be hard to disestablish the principle, now accepted everywhere, that the college athlete, when he goes out to run or jump or throw something, must have a special kind of surface to run on, something very

Dean, Penn Hiker, Sets New Record

Breaks Former Mark by 42 Seconds in College Race. Harvard Team Wins.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Setting a pace that lowered the course record by more than 42 seconds, Dan Dean, of the University of Pennsylvania, today led 116 college harriers over the hills and dales of Van Cortlandt Park to win the twenty-third renewal of the intercollegiate cross-country run.

With a long, easy-going stride and a great driving finish, Dean covered the 6-mile course in 29:23 3-5 to break the record of 30:06 established jointly by Francis Lindsey and Harry Richardson, of Maine, two years ago.

Harvard's well-balanced entry carried off team honors for the first time since 1912. The Crimson posted a victorious low total of 44 points. Four other runners also bettered the previous record time.

The leaders:

1—Daniel E. Dean (Pennsylvania), 29:23 3-5. 2—Clark S. Chamberlain (Michigan State), 29:28. 3—George N. Barker (New York U.), 29:30. 4—W. J. McKnight (Pennsylvania), 29:51. 5—J. P. McCluskey (Fordham), 29:52. 6—J. J. Ryan (Manhattan), 30:06. 7—N. F. Hallowell, Jr. (Harvard), 30:07. 8—P. D. Murphy (Harvard), 30:14. 9—J. M. Fox (Harvard), 30:15. 10—F. T. Nordell (New York U.), 30:27. 11—F. A. McKenna (Manhattan), 30:36. 12—G. N. Barrie (Harvard), 30:40. 13—A. Poole (Harvard), 30:41. 14—C. R. King (Pennsylvania State), 30:44. 15—L. J. Sing Sing Varsity Plays Cop Eleven Undergraduate Manager of Athletics Accepts Bid of Policemen.

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 16 (U.P.).—Old Sing Sing's ancient and honorable enemies, the cops, will be its opponents on the gridiron next Sunday. Warden Lewis E. Lawes tonight announced that the varsity had enthusiastically accepted the challenge of the Port Jervis Police Department's football squad.

Police Chief Edward Moorhead telephoned the warden to convey the challenge. Lawes immediately dashed over to a cell block and conferred with Red Hope, undergraduate manager of athletics. Red assured the warden that "the boys" would like nothing better than a game with the cops.

News of the challenge spread rapidly throughout the prison and aroused the wildest excitement among the Sing Sing men.

No member of the Sing Sing varsity matriculated from Port Jervis, hence there will be no personal gridiron clash of a convict with the cop who sponsored his stay in the institution.

Chief Moorhead asked for grandstand reservations for 200 cops and other rooters for the blue-coat team.

G. U. Resumes Practice for Villanova

Mills Rates Pennsylvanians as Strong as Bucknell.

ITS morale considerably bolstered by virtue of the 13-0 victory over West Virginia, Georgetown's eleven resumes practice today in Griffith Stadium with the Villanova game at Villanova, Pa., next Saturday as its objective. A day of rest was ordered by Tommy Mills for the battleworn Hilltoppers yesterday.

Mills is not dwelling on the pleasing triumph of last Saturday as he is seriously concerned with the Villanova contest in which he figures Georgetown will be the underdog, a role that it has filled on a number of occasions this year.

"I believe Villanova will prove every bit as tough as Bucknell," said Mills yesterday, adding "and to me it looks as if this game will require our very highest grade of football. If we were playing at home, I might feel differently, but, honestly, I feel that we have less than an even chance of winning."

Escaped Injuries Against W. Va.

No injuries of a serious nature were incurred in the West Virginia game, so against Villanova Georgetown will be able to pit its strongest line-up. Both Leroy Bordeau and Joe Alenty are slated to return to the starting array following a couple of weeks of comparatively light duty. This pair of dependable backs were beginning to show the strain of hard, steady competition when Johnny Shimmins and Mack Stanley emerged impressively from the reserve squad to enable them to rest.

Georgetown yet may finish its season with more victories than defeats. Having snapped out of a slump with the defeat of West Virginia, the Blue and Gray's future is brighter now compared to what it was three weeks ago. By defeating Villanova and Detroit, which comes here for the season finale on November 28, the Hilltoppers will have five victories to show against four losses and one tie.

McEver, Vol Grid Ace, Hopes to Wed in Spring

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Gene McEver, University of Tennessee football hero, is engaged. Miss Joyce Burnett, Knoxville, school teacher, today confirmed reports of her engagement to McEver, but said the date of the marriage had not been set.

"Sure, it's true," McEver said with a grin as he came from classes at the university.

Pierce, "Irish" Guard, Injured in Practice

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The most strenuous Monday practice since the opening of the Notre Dame season today cost the Irish the services of Bill Pierce, second string right guard. Pierce suffered a severe arm injury and will not play against Southern California Saturday.

Coach Hunk Anderson sent five varsity teams through scrimmage against five freshmen teams which used Southern California plays.

STANFORD COACH ILL.

Tulane Would Accept Rose Bowl Invitation

New Orleans, Nov. 16 (U.P.).—Despite Tulane's refusal of a Rose Bowl bid in 1925, athletic leaders of the university indicated today that if such an invitation were extended this year it would be accepted.

Coach Bernie Bierman told the United Press he believed Tulane would accept if it received a bid, and Dr. Wilbur C. Smith, director of athletics, said he was "happy Tulane is being considered" and believed it would accept.

Refusal of Tulane in 1925 was on the grounds that school officials frowned on post-season games.

Tulane 28 Points Better Than Itself, Figures Show

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16 (U.P.).—The boys who assemble statistics and compare scores brought forth undeniable proof tonight that Tulane University's football team not only has a 21-point advantage over Northwestern and Notre Dame, but is actually so good it can beat itself by 28 points.

The manner in which the comparison is derived, unlike the fallacious example in calculus which proves one equals two, is quite convincing.

Citing scores of this season, it runs something like this:

Tulane, 33; Georgia Tech, 0; Georgia Tech 12; Penn, 13 (making Tulane 32 points better than Penn); Penn, 27; Wisconsin, 13 (which proves by regular addition and sub- Wisconsin); Wisconsin 7, Illinois 6 (Tulane 47 points up on Illinois), and Illinois 6, Northwestern 32 leaving Tulane 21 better than Northwestern and also Notre Dame, which tied Northwestern, 0-0.

Or comparing scores:

Tulane 19, Vanderbilt 0; Vandy 49, Georgia Tech 7 (Tulane 61 better than Georgia Tech). But Tulane played Georgia Tech and made a score of 33 to 0. The extra 28 points represent the difference between how badly Tulane whipped and how badly they should have done so—on paper.

Paris, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The Spanish flyweight champion, Arilla, won on a foul in the seventh round from Frankie Genaro, New York veteran, here tonight.

S. California, Yale Next Obstacles

Contests Features of National Program for Saturday.

Few Other Battles of Importance Are Scheduled.

By DIXON STEWART.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (U.P.).—The once dominant "Big Three" of collegiate football will enjoy a fleeting hour of national prominence on Saturday when Harvard and Yale meet for the fiftieth time in a game which shares top ranking for the week with the Notre Dame-Southern California clash at South Bend.

That the "golden jubilee" of Harvard-Yale football competition—for many years the one big game of the season—is forced to share the headline spot with a series of only six years standing is a commentary of the sad state to which the "Big Three" has been reduced.

And, truth to tell, the Harvard-Yale game enjoys higher ranking this year than at any time in recent seasons. Harvard comes down to its final game unbeaten for the first time in eighteen years and is pointing for rating with the Nation's best.

Harvard Near Title In East.

As the only remaining undefeated team in its sector, Harvard is assured of the mythical Eastern championship if successful against Yale, and although the record contains nothing more impressive than one-point victories over Army and Dartmouth, a single touchdown triumph over Holy Cross and a brilliant 35-to-7 victory over Texas a clean slate for the season will give Harvard a claim for consideration when national honors are discussed.

Harvard, led by Barry Wood, candidate for all-America quarter back, is a heavy favorite to win. Yale, while more successful than the other member of the erstwhile "Big Three"—Princeton, which has beaten successive games—has been defeated by Georgia and tied by Army and Dartmouth.

The Notre Dame-Southern California game provides a test of strength between Midwestern and Pacific Coast leaders. If Notre Dame is to be halted in its march to a third successive national championship, and suffer its first defeat in 26 starts, this is the week when the tumble must occur.

Southern California has rallied strongly after its defeat by St. Mary's on the opening Saturday of the season and on its record since that time is one of the Nation's strongest elevens. Notre Dame, although held to a scoreless tie by Northwestern, looms as one of the best of the many great teams developed at South Bend and is the general favorite for the mythical national championship.

Other Games Show Little Promise.

The balance of the abbreviated list of games for the week, betokening the waning of the 1931 gridiron season, is none too impressive. Navy's badly battered team will meet the unbeaten Southern Methodist eleven in one of the East's best features, with Army vs. Ursinus, Syracuse vs. Columbia and Fordham vs. Bucknell as the supporting card.

The Midwest offers five Big-Ten conference games: Northwestern vs. Iowa, Wisconsin vs. Chicago, Purdue vs. Indiana, Ohio State vs. Illinois and Minnesota vs. Michigan. Nonconference features include Michigan State vs. Detroit, Missouri vs. Kansas and Iowa State vs. Nebraska.

The Pacific Coast has Stanford vs. California as its only major engagement while the South offers Georgia vs. Alabama Poly, Georgia Tech vs. Florida and Baylor vs. Texas Christian.

Donie Bush Considered As Minneapolis Pilot

Chicago, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Unless there is a last minute switch in sentiment, Thomas Jefferson Hickey will defeat the annual campaign to unseat him as president of the American Association at tomorrow's meeting.

As the eight club owners gathered in Chicago for their annual meeting to elect officers, the veteran leader of the class A. A. circuit had at least four votes in his pocket, enough to assure his reelection for another year anyway. George Belden, owner of the Minneapolis Club, was regarded as Hickey's rival for the post and his entry into the race brought the rumor that Mike Kelley, present Miller manager, would succeed him as head of the Millers and Donie Bush, former pilot of the Chicago White Sox, would be named manager of the club. All those rumored changes, naturally, hinged on Belden's chances to win Hickey's job.

PITTSBURGHER TAKES BOWIE INAUGURAL STAKE BY NOSE

Western Colt Wears Down Tred Avon

Repentance Is Third at Long Odds in Prince Georges.

Consummation, 10-1, Scores in Upset in First Race.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Nov. 16.—Shady Brook Farm's Pittsburgher, 3-year-old colt by In Memoriam, won his first race in the East today when he came from behind to overtake S. W. Labrot's filly, Tred Avon, in the stretch and win the Prince Georges Handicap, $10,000 added, by a nose. Mrs. Herbert Pulitzer's Repentance, a length and a half away, was third, and Flagstone fourth.

The Prince Georges, inaugurating the fall racing at Bowie, and the final meeting of the Eastern calendar, drew a crowd of 15,000 to the course, and the summer weather made it pleasant to be out in the open.

Pittsburgher Overlooked In Betting.

The Prince Georges was reduced to twelve starters, a field none too small, with the Trainer Fitzsimmons entry of Tote and Ormesby the favorite. The new Richmond for stake honors, Pittsburgher, was quite overlooked, as another Western horse, Plucky Play, had been in the Riggs at Pimlico, and he paid $14.80.

Tote showed early speed, going to the front at once, but the pace was too much for the Wheatley Stable colt and he soon tired, as did Halcyon, which temporarily flashed the C. V. colors in front. Steffen, on the outside, began challenging Tred Avon as the field swung into the homestretch, and outgamed the gray filly in the closest race of the day. Repentance saved ground and closed fast to get third.

The net value of the stake to the winner was $10,225. The race was only a second and one-fifth slower than the track record for a mile and a sixteenth, run in 1:45 2-5.

Seagram Stable's Khorasan was best in the fifth race, and the victory of the Canadian horse was partly due to a good ride by M. Lewis. Khorasan beat the Glen Riddle Farm's Full Dress by a length and a half. LeMar Stock Farm's Morsel, the early leader, was third. Inception was close to the pace set by Morsel on the back stretch, Khorasan closed fast in the stretch and had no trouble passing the leaders. Full Dress saved ground to get the place. The winner was $5.30.

Sagamore Stable, owned by Mrs. Charles Amory, had a surprise awaiting the large crowd in the first race for maiden two-year-olds in Consummation, bay colt by Sweep, which trounced the favorites, Mueller, which finished second, and Merrily On, which was just nosed out for third by Open Hearth, from the Labrot Stable.

Consummation Hurries To Front.

Bejshak had Consummation out in front all the way after the field had leveled down. He won by a length and paid $21. Time for the five and a half furlongs was 1:07, showing the track at its best. Fourteen juveniles were away to a good start. There was a lot of comeback money on Merrily On, which was backed 6 to 5. F. J. Vollmer's General Court repeated his last race at Pimlico by winning the second number here, coming from behind near the finish, to overhaul Floor Walker, in the field group, which had already passed the favorite, Sultry, the M. L. Schwartz colt, which had set the pace to the stretch, and which had been established favorite. The winner, disqualified at Pimlico, which gave the race to Dark Celt, then winning easily at that track in his next start, looked the best of the field of two-year-old maidens. He lowered the time of the first race by running the five and a half furlongs in 1:06 4-5. The field was at the post ten minutes, and the program is running already a half hour behind the schedule. The mutuels on the winner paid $9.30. The field was $11.80 for place.

Kadiak Returns to Form In Third.

Kadiak returned to good form by winning the third race by two lengths from E. F. Brant's San Presto, with Anchor Light third and Faylin fourth. Sir John Alden opened up a wide margin from Faylin, with San Presto third. Noine went wide at the stretch. Kadiak, carrying the colors of Miss Blanche Watson, came fast on the outside, took the lead in the stretch, D. Meade up, and won going away. M. Lewis, on San Presto, distanced the others.

Kadiak has been favorite in his last several races, and has been doing his best. Again he was made the public choice and made good at $5.90. Time, 1:54 1-5, a mile and a furlong.

The longest odds paid on a winner during the Maryland season came with the last race of Bowie's opening, when D. Meade rode Breckenridge Long's mare, Tinita, to a neck victory, and the throng cheered when $214 was hung out for a $2 ticket. The mare had led the field from the quarter pole.

Skirt, Closing Fast Near Finish.

In the last sixteenth Skirt, which finished second, was gaining fast on the leader, and Skid was third, two lengths away, both coupled in the field. The price on Tinita for place was $91.40, and $51.60 for show. Bowie's reputation for long shots already had been maintained. This made a double for Jockey Meade.

Don Pedro won the sixth race, paying $42.70. He beat Spanish by a half length, in hand, after being held in restraint by Malley in the early running. Third money went to Inferno Lad. A capacity field went to the post in this race. The owner of the winner is L. Strubé, who trains his own horses.

EUCLIDS WOULD PLAY.

The Euclid A. C. is seeking games with football teams in the 135-pound class. Teams interested should call Adams 3982-J after 5 p. m.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CONSUMMATION, $21.00, $8.00, $5.00; MUELLER, $4.20, $3.60; OPEN HEARTH, $6.40.

CONSUMMATION, well handled and going in the thick of contention, displaced MUELLER when straightened into the home stretch, was kept under severe pressure and outstayed MUELLER. Latter began quickly, was hard urged to hold a brief lead, then weakened when the final drive came. OPEN HEARTH, a stout factor and saving ground, finished with good energy. MERRILY ON, well placed, but in tight quarters in the opening furlong, came to the outside to finish gamely. PENN was making up ground through the final stages. WAN HILL showed a good test. SERGEANT D. could not reach the leaders. The others were outrun.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For maiden 2-year-old colts and geldings. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 1:47. Off at 1:56. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GENERAL COURT, $9.30, $4.80, $3.20; FLOOR WALKER (field), $11.80, $5.70; SULTRY, $3.90.

GENERAL COURT, taken to the outside after reaching a forward position, responded willingly for the stretch drive and, finishing gamely, was up in the final sixteenth mile. FLOOR WALKER, hurried along from a good beginning, took a brief lead in the final furlong and continued resolutely until the end. SULTRY, ridden hard from the start, fought it out gamely when the real test came. LAST ATTEMPT, outrun for the first half mile, made up ground steadily in the closing drive. INCESSANT raced evenly throughout. TOM made a determined effort entering the home stretch, but hung badly in the last furlong. HERKIMER was outrun.

THIRD RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:27. Off at 2:30. Winner, Miss B. Two-dollar mutuels paid—KADIAK, $5.90, $3.70, $2.90; SAN PRESTO, $4.40, $3.60; ANCHOR LIGHT, $10.20.

KADIAK worked his way up steadily when reaching the back stretch, swung to the outside of the leaders for the final test, displaced SIR JOHN ALDEN and outstayed SAN PRESTO in the final furlong. Latter, kept well up in the early stages, continued with good energy for the final drive. ANCHOR LIGHT, shuffled back and taken up going to the first turn, circled her field when moving up and held on well to resist FAYLIN. Latter, prominent the entire trip, came again in the final drive. MINA F. finished with good courage. FAIR AVIS saved ground throughout. NOINE lacked speed in the early racing. WORKLESS showed a dull effort. EMERALD went lame and was pulled up.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $10,000 added. The Prince Georges Autumn Handicap. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:03. Off at 3:05. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PITTSBURGHER $14.80, $6.60, $5.40; TRED AVON, $7.30, $5.50; REPENTANCE, $11.30.

PITTSBURGHER reached contention when midway of the back stretch, went to the outside when going into a brief lead, withstood a tedious stretch drive and just lasted long enough to outgame TRED AVON. Latter, going forwardly after losing ground at the first turn, secured racing room next the inside rail during the closing stages and, coming again inside the final furlong, was wearing the winner down at every stride. REPENTANCE, close up throughout, finished in determined fashion. FLAGSTONE, forced to race on the outside, came gamely in the final drive. WATERWAY, in a tangle directly after the break, and a distant trailer for seven furlongs, closed an immense gap and was racing stoutly at the finish. HAPPY SCOT tired under punishment through the home stretch. HIBALA was shuffled back going to the first turn. ORMESBY had no excuses. TOTE was done after six furlongs. HALCYON quit badly.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,800; allowances. The Whitemarsh. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:37. Off at 3:38. Winner, Seagram Stable's ch. c. (3), by Omar Khayyam—Foreign White. Trained by W. H. Bungioc. Value to winner, $1,260; second, $300; third, $200; fourth, $100. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48, 1:13 2-5, 1:39 2-5, 1:44.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—KHORASAN, $5.30, $2.80, $2.20; FULL DRESS, $4.20, $2.80; MORSEL, $2.90.

KHORASAN, taken back off the fast early pace, responded with excellent speed when leaving the back stretch, circled his field to take command in the closing furlong and, kept under mild urging, held FULL DRESS safe. MORSEL, forced wide at the first turn, was kept close up, closed gamely when put to a drive, but could not threaten the winner seriously approaching the finish. MORSEL, rushed hard to assume command, had a lot taken out of him through the back stretch to resist keen contention from INCEPTION and was unable to keep pace when challenged. INCEPTION moved up on the inside of MORSEL to get on even terms, but had too much taken out of him. BLIND LANE and MARTINELLI met with no mishaps.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:12. Off at 4:16. Winner, L. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DON PEDRO, $42.70, $18.40, $8.60; SPANISH, $6.90, $4.40; INFERNO LAD, $8.60.

DON PEDRO, under restraint in the early running, reached the leaders when shaken up, came resolutely for the final drive and, wearing INFERNO LAD down, gradually was up in the final sixteenth mile. SPANISH, outrun for six furlongs, room between the front division and closed with a rush in the final half mile. INFERNO LAD, hustled along from the start, had a lot taken out of him disposing of early opposition and weakened in the final furlong. HONEY GROVE finished fast from a slow beginning. ERIN QUEEN was under strong pressure for the entire trip. ANNIMESSIC raced well. GIGANTIC was made too much use of to reach the front and weakened. TRY IT lacked early speed. DUNROCK quit. LIVE ONE was poorly ridden.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:47. Off at 4:52½. Winner, Breckinridge Long's ch. m. (6), by Hourless—Lac Chananeene. Trained by M. Smart. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:49 2-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:55 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TINITA, $214.00, $91.40, $50.60; SKIRT (field), $8.00, $9.30; SKID (field), $9.30.

TINITA, racing in vastly improved form, assumed a forward position in the early running, took command leaving the back stretch, but had to be vigorously urged through the final stages to stall off SKIRT. Latter improved her position steadily and finished stoutly to be wearing the winner down fast approaching the finish. SKID, hard ridden the entire trip, held on well. OUR PAL finished with good speed. VACATION was unable to menace the leaders at any stage. MONOCLE closed a good gap from a slow beginning. ALL TOLD weakened when the finishing drive came. STRETCHER raced poorly. GOLDEN PLAY stopped badly.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Bowie Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 16.—Featuring the Bowie program tomorrow, the Yarrow Brae, for 3-year-olds, has attracted eight horses. Except in stakes, twelve horses are permitted to start, instead of the limit of fourteen, which the book for the meeting provided, and the reduced size of the fields will make for better racing and eliminate crowding.

PARI-MUTUEL is selected to win the Yarrow Brae. He will have no flash of speed like that of Waterway to overcome, as he had in his last race. The colt was scratched from the Prince Georges Handicap and will run against a less formidable field. MOUTHPIECE, from the M. Lowenstein-Braedalbane entry, should be the contender. He is in top form and only will have to duplicate some of his best Maryland races to make this a close contest. WHIPPER CRACKER, on Pimlico Form, will hold the others safe.

FIRST RACE—MAI DEE, which ran away at Pimlico for a mile from the gate after the field was lined up, should win. She was backed to second choice in that race. The filly has worked fast and suffered no bad results from her mile jaunt before running 6 furlongs. LUCKY RACKET has the edge on the others. MERRY GAL, making her first start in Maryland, has worked fast and is a show probability.

SECOND RACE—FREDERICK should win here. J. F. Schorr's colt ran in a way at other Maryland tracks which suggests he is going below his class in this race. He has much early speed and can hold this distance winging. The ill-fated BLUE DAMSEL, which fell with Nertney Saturday at Pimlico, has speed, but is pounds below FREDERICK. JAMBALAYA may be a sleeper and, on best New York races, will have a chance.

THIRD RACE—SCARLET BRIGADE had his preparation race at Pimlico and should earn brackets in the third. MEEK, although preferring mud, should be the contender. TRICE has been close in his last few starts and should improve. He is a beaten favorite and can do better than in the last race.

FOURTH RACE—VACILLATE, now in winning form, having scored in three recent races, appears much the best. C. V. Whitney's entry of PENNATE and SMEAR will be in the running. PENNATE was 1 to 2 in his last start and can improve on that race. SOLACE may be among the front division.

SIXTH RACE—EAGER PLAY was left at the post in his last Pimlico start, made up a furlong, and finished third. With better luck tomorrow he should never be out of a pull. NOSTAW should get place money. His recent race at Pimlico was his best this fall.

SEVENTH RACE—HOLD was backed by his stable in his last race, but met interference. He is picked in the seventh. HUNTINGTON at 25 to 1 showed a high flight of speed last week, leading most of the way, and finished third to Vacation and The Break, when a blanket would have covered the three. He appears the contender, and TIMON should get the show end.

TEN ENTRIES IN FEATURE 'CHASE

Huge Crowd Expected at Llangollen Races Today.

LEESBURG, Va., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Scratches announced tonight had reduced to ten the field scheduled to go to the post tomorrow in the Llangollen open steeplechase, feature event of the program for the inaugural race meet at Llangollen estate, home of the Whitneys.

Seven thoroughbreds were left for the Piedmont Gold Cup and six for the Ayshire Cup with eight in the Blue Riband. The courses, regarded as the stoutest in America, while hard because of lack of rain, were in fair shape.

Mrs. Whitney's Green Cheese, winner of the Grand National and Manley Memorial this year and one of the top steeplechasers under silks, will not run in the Llangollen, a 3-mile event over brush for a purse of $5,000 and a cup to be presented by Mrs. Hay Whitney.

Richard K. Mellon's Glengesla that finished third in the grand national at Aintree, England, last year and Mrs. Whitney's Coral Reef II, loomed as favorites.

Preparations were made at Llangollen to handle what may set a record for a crowd attending a race meet in the Old Dominion. A Maryland hunt cup crowd of upward of 50,000 people was expected. Special trains were being run into Washington from New York and Saratoga to bring the turf and society folk from those points while Baltimore, Washington and Richmond and points throughout the valley and northern Virginia were sending quotas of steeplechaser enthusiasts.

The entries:

The Llangollen Open Steeplechase—Skyscraper II, George Sloan; Word of Honor, Shelby Tharpison; Outlaw, Rolling Plains Stable; Sun Eclipse, Rolling Plains Stable; Rock of Cashel, Bayard Tuckerman; Coral Reef II, Mrs. John Hay Whitney; Glengesla, Richard K. Mellon; Lunar, A. G. McMillwaine; Caston, N. S. Ludington; Cald, Canterbury Farm.

The Ayshire Cup—Mobiaw, Mrs. Paul Abbott; Rainbow, Mrs. W. O. Langley, and Thornbrack, Mrs John Hay Whitney; Sennacherib, Congreve Johnson; The Albatross, Mrs. Louise Okie; Major Johnson, L. C. Leith.

Piedmont Gold Cup—Hubar, Howard Bruce; Skipper Gray, Old Mills Farms; Ballarello, Mrs John Hay Whitney; Lipan Lad, Maj. C. F. Tilson.

Blue Riband Chase—Bachelor's Drake, Allison Stern; Captor, Bradford Bilton; Skyscraper II, George Sloan; La Guard, Dorwood Stable; Robin Hood, Robert Appleton; Rock of Cashel, Bayard Tuckerman; Gunboat, J. Temple Gwathmey; Grenadier Guard, Mrs. T. H. Somerville.

CASEYS PRACTICE.

The Knights of Columbus unlimited team will drill tonight at 8 o'clock on the home floor. The Caseys looked bad in their practice game with Bolling Field Sunday and Coach Reynolds is anxious to have all players report promptly for a lengthy work-out. Friday the team will engage the Saks Clothiers in a scrimmage at 8 o'clock in the Business High Gymnasium.

FIRST BAPTISTS WIN.

In the feature game of the opening night's play in the B. Y. P. U. Basket Ball League last night at Macfarland, the First Baptists, runner-up to the title last year, trounced Grace Baptist, 21 to 5. Whitesell, with 11 points, was the individual star of the night.

TECH-BUSINESS GAME TODAY FOR CHARITY WILL END SERIES

Hardell Team In Last Test Today

Unbeaten in 17 Series Games, Seeks 4th Straight Title.

Proceeds to Go to Capital Fund for Unemployed.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE curtain will come down on the high school football series this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Central Stadium with a charity game between the defending champion, Tech High, and Business High. All proceeds from the game, which is expected to draw a fullsome attendance, will be given to the District of Columbia committee on employment.

It will be the last appearance of the year here for both teams. The weather man has promised clear weather and a fast track.

Tech, streaking down the ranks of high school series football on the long end of a winning streak, which, if victory comes today, will extend to four undefeated years, should finish up its local season in a blaze of glory today. The huge squad, the second team hardly less effective than the first, and the third team little behind the second, all will see service during the fray.

Sachs Bright Star Of Tech Team.

Led by Capt. George Sachs, a hefty 180-pound half back, the No. 1 Tech Team is expected to give an exhibition of football such as is rarely seen among the schools whose boys have not yet matriculated in college. The big, hard-driving team has everything—speed, brawn, and alertness. It is one of the great blocking teams of local high school history.

The game today will swarm with good high school players, and afford the public the chance to see a fitting climax to the high school series and at the same time aid the needy of the city. Featured in the game will be Bill Foley, one of Tech's quarter backs, whose punts range from 50 sometimes to 65 yards. Meikeljohn and Wohlfarth, Tech ends, give a keen exhibition of all-around play in every game.

Perhaps the most natural player in the series is Bill Flynn, Business full back, whose 180 pounds of brawn, lack of all the attributes of a seasoned football player, and ability to run without recourse to interference have stamped him as one of the sensational players of the high school league. Flynn is aided and abetted behind the line by Huck Cavanaugh, a good passer and kicker, and in the front line by Bobby Cooke, center, and Tony Mastromarino, stocky guard and captain.

Tech will win, virtually as it pleases, but Business' scrappiness should make a game of it. The admission charge has been placed at 15 cents for high school students, if the tickets are purchased at the schools, and 50 cents for all admissions at Central Stadium. The Tech band will be on hand, and the officials, Messrs. Towers, O'Meara and Brewer have donated their services.

When the whistle closes today's game the scholastic football careers of a dozen well-known huskies will have ended. The Tech players are Capt. Sachs, Hatos, Rhodes, Baxter, Wohlfarth, Dye and Esunas. The Stenographers are Capt. Mastromarino, Cook, Flynn, Cavanaugh and Grasser.

Sachs, Rhodes, Baxter and Wohlfarth are members of the 1930 Post all-high team.

But no apparent discrimination was made in favor of Navy. It has been Notre Dame's policy to run up a huge lead with its regulars and substitute the reserves when their total insured victory as was the case Saturday. Against Drake, Indiana, Pitt, Carnegie Tech, against every team but Northwestern, the Notre Dame reserves continued the sensational scoring efforts that had been instituted by Schwartz and his regular teammates. These same reserves were powerless to score against Navy. Anderson was looking to the important game with Southern California next Saturday when he withdrew his regulars. Navy can take credit for its feat in holding the Ramblers to three touchdowns.

MIRACLES OF SPORTS. —By Robert Edgren

TOMORROW: CONNIE MACK'S RECORD.

Hitting the Head Pin

"OLD MAN" LOGAN (named thus because he just keeps rollin' along) hung up the first 400 set recorded in league competition at the King Pin alleys this season when he bowled games of 140, 127 and 134 for a 401 total last night. His effort, however, failed to save the Chestnut Farms Dairy from a 2-1 defeat at the hands of the Lansburgh, No. 1, Team. The defeat cost the Dairymen their position as leaders of the circuit, that coveted position going to the department store boys.

In the other league matches Hecht Annex won an odd-game victory over First Americans, and Hecht Co. won a freak three-game decision from King Pin. Only six pins separated the latter two at the conclusion of hostilities, Hecht having a total of 1,623 and King Pin 1,617. Mike Sugrue was responsible for the Seventh streeters' triumph. Mike's three spares, coming in the final box of each of his three games, provided the winning points.

Over 60 entries have been received for the Greater Washington Handicap event which gets under way Saturday at the Columbia alleys, and officials in charge of the event expect more than 100 before the lists are closed. Fifteen games will be rolled, with each contestant receiving a handicap of two-thirds of the difference between his highest league average and 110. Bowlers with averages better than the latter mark are barred from competition. The second block of five games will be rolled November 28 at Arcadia, and the final set at Convention Hall December 5. An entrance fee of $5, exclusive of the cost of games, is charged.

A league composed of teams whose members work at night will be organized at a meeting to be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at Convention Hall. Charley Bell, who is the guiding spirit behind the venture, has already signed up six teams and expects to have ten in line when the confab is called to order. Two clubs from The Post and one each from the Herald, Occidental Hotel, Pullman Co. and Bond Baking Co. are the early birds. All matches will be rolled in the afternoon at Convention Hall. Teams desiring to secure a franchise in the circuit are invited to have a representative present at the meeting Thursday.

Elsie Romero stole the show in the Ladies' Agricultural League meet at Columbia with her game of 122 and set of 333 last night. The matches resulted in a clean sweep for Accounts over Farm Management, Interdivision gained a 2-1 decision over Cotton, Live Stock dropped the odd game to Information, and Cooperation was extended to beat Extension in the nightcap. Cooperation's set of 1,329 was high for the league.

Kibbey and Swain of Treasury were the big guns in their team's 3-0 win over Navy in the Men's Federal League at Arcadia. The former counted high game with a pinfall of 149, and his partner gained high set honors with 395 bottles to his credit. The team took both game and set laurels with 629 and 1,718 respectively. Internal Revenue bested Shipping Board in the final game, City Postoffice swept its set with Public Parks and Buildings, Navy Yard took the odd one from Commerce, G. P. O. stopped Postoffice, 2-1, and Veterans' Administration breezed through Merchants Fleet for all three in the other matches.

King's Palace bumped off Barnes Auto, 2-1, in a National Capital League match at Lucky Strike last night. The winner's games were 612, 567 and 588. Barnes chalked up scores of 600, 593 and 504. Esterbrook, of King's Palace, counted high set of the evening, 384. His games were 127, 143 and 114. M. King, of Barnes, equaled the high game effort. George Isemann's 358 toppled the losing team's work.

Earl McPhilomy, of Standard Engraving, and Lentz, of M. L. Jones, garnered the honors in the Typothetae League at Lucky Strike last night. McPhilomy turned in a 386 total for high set of the evening, and Lentz walloped the maples for high game of 163. The M. L. Jones Team knocked down high game of the night, 592.

Miss Harrison, of Lebanon, took the leading role in the Eastern Star Ladies League matches at Lucky Strike. Her game of 120 and 315 set by far outdistanced her closest rival. The Mizpah quintet tucked away the team laurels with a game of 490 and set of 1,395.

Limerick, of Simplex, was in rare form last night, and just to prove it he rolled a 134 game, high for the evening, in the Western Union League at Lucky Strike. A teammate, Swindlehurst, piled up a total of 357 for set prize. Simplex led the teams with scores of 551 for game and 1,580 for set.

Grain and Farm Management swept their Agriculture Men's League matches with Horticulture and Crop Estimate, respectively, at Columbia. Dixon, of Grain, played an important role in his team's triumph, collecting high set prize of the night with his 352. Cooperation, aided by Terwisse's 139 effort, trounced Fruits and Vegetables in the odd game, and Economics downed Standard, 2 to 1. To Economics also went the team honors for the evening's work. The boys had a game of 561 and set of 1,556.

Ken Stubbs, of Crew-Levick, smashed a pair of Petroleum League marks at Columbia as his team whitewashed Lord Baltimore, 3 to 0. Stubbs' new marks are 155 for game and 419 for set. His mates shared in the glory when they bagged five-man honors for the night, with a game of 585 and set of 1,675. In the other matches, Texas Oil bested J. Edward Chapman in two out of three, American Oil downed Tidewater, 2 to 1, and Standard swamped Gulf to win all three.

SAINTS TO DRILL.

All members of the St. Stephen's Prep team are requested to report for practice tonight at 8:30 o'clock on the field at Twenty-fifth street and Virginia avenue northwest. A meeting will follow the drill.

PROVIDENCE HAS STAR IN BRADY

All-America Hope to Lead Foes Against C. U. Saturday.

ONE of the finest running backs in New England and vicinity and a player purported to possess all-America qualifications is to show here Saturday when Catholic University plays host to Providence College at Brookland, 2:30 o'clock. John Brady, triple-threat quarter back and mainspring of a pile-driving back field, is the performer in question.

Returning from a visit to Providence where he scouted the Friars in their decisive overthrow of St. John's Saturday, End Coach George Vik yesterday was outspoken in his appraisal of Brady.

Brady Star in Every Department.

"You can never tell where he will strike," Vik declared. "Brady's a beautiful ball runner, kicks splendidly and passes expertly and consistently. He's unquestionably the greatest back to oppose us all season."

That Vik's views are shared by the press and football followers in that section is proved by eulogistic advance notices received from Providence.

Themselves dependent upon a "pony" back field, the Cardinals Saturday will be called upon to stop a starting ball-carrying unit that averages 181 pounds. Possessed of unusual power, this aggregation also features speed, alertness and versatility.

Of greatest concern to Head Coach Dutch Bergman yesterday was receipt of information that Providence utilizes a splendid aerial attack to the best possible advantage. The Brady-to-Foster duo is said to be one of the best in the East, while Brady also spears tosses propelled by Wright, a long distance heaver.

Aerial Attack Expected From Foes.

Aware of Catholic's ineffective defense against the overhead game thus far this season, Providence scouts have their report. Consequently the Friars may be expected to open up this specialty shortly after Saturday's kick-off.

Stimulated by a win streak that has reached six in a row, the same mark boasted by C. U., Providence College's followers openly predict victory over Bergman's men Saturday. Emerging from the St. John's clash in top physical fettle, the athletes are to be sent through a series of special practices within the next several days.

Determined to improve his eleven's defense against forward passing, Coach Bergman yesterday started drilling at Brookland. This afternoon the freshmen, using Providence plays and taking to the air most of the way, are to engage the varsity men in the inaugural of three red-hot scrimmages.

Camp Simms Shoot Honors to Sparrow

Rifle matches on the range at Camp Simms for Company A, 372d Infantry and the First Separate Company, Maryland, according to announcement yesterday by Capt. Arthur C. Newman, colored National Guard, resulted as follows:

COMPANY CHAMPIONSHIP—Sergt. Howard M. Sparrow, 217; Sergt. Leroy Davis, 216; Private Sylvester Fant, 214.

TEAM MATCHES—First place: Sergt. H. M. Sparrow, 217; Sergt. Leroy Davis, 216; Private C. L. Coates, 209; Corpl. Edward Young, 205; Sergt. Monroe Slaughter, 202; Sergt. Oscar Gay, 202; total, first team, 1,251. Second place: Private Sylvester Fant, 214; Lieut. Sylvester Blackwell, 208; Corpl. Merrill Tomlin, 197; Corpl. Walter S. Johnson, 195; Private Leslie R. Coates, 193; Sergt. Frank Myers, 188; total, second team, 1,195. Third place: Private William Johnson, 212; Capt. Albert Holmes, 209; Sergt. James Hairstone, 197; Corpl. William Bryan, 195; Corpl. William Armstead, 183; Lieut. Thomas Chatham, 177; total, first separate company, 1,173.

A gold medal and a silver medal were awarded Company A teams for first and second place, while a bronze medal for third place was awarded the Maryland company.

G. W. SCOUTS WARY OF BUTLER

Bring Back Reports of Stalwart Line and Star Backs.

AFTER scouting Butler against Marquette last Saturday, Coach Jim Pixlee and Len Walsh, his first assistant, both asserted that the Bulldogs will furnish George Washington with the stiffest opposition the locals have encountered in the Griffith Stadium since the Tuesday game. The G. W. coaches are plainly fearful that their visitors might upset the Colonial applecart Friday night.

While Butler was beaten by Marquette, 21 to 0, the later has lost only one game in the last two seasons. Last year Marquette was unbeaten, but this year Detroit slipped over a 7-0 defeat. Both Coach Pixlee and Walsh stated that Marquette earned only two of their three touchdown against the Bulldogs.

The Butler team, according to the G. W. mentors, is a big, scrappy eleven with five outstanding players. At times they are a trifle erratic, but this is due, the local coach believes, to the fact that several sophomores lacking experience are playing regularly and several other players have been shifted to strange positions.

Captain Boos Is Chief Threat.

Capt. Kenneth Booze, triple threat, and Carson Conrad are two backs who will give the Colonials plenty of uneasy moments, Coach Pixlee fears. Both are fine all-around players who largely share the ball-carrying burden and are important cogs in both the offensive and defensive maneuvers of the Bulldogs.

The center of the Butler line composed of Ralph Moore, center, and Lewis Rufli and Charles Sohl, guards, form a stone wall. This trio, none of whom wears a headgear, is a colorful and capable unit. All are about the same size, eighing about 180 pounds, and all are fast, aggressive and highly capable.

Colonials Stress Defense.

After warning his squad of the strength of Butler, Coach Pixlee and his assistants immediately went to work yesterday in setting up a defense. The Colonials probably will hold a lengthy scrimmage today and another shorter one tomorrow in winding up their hard preparations for the game.

G. W. Basket Ballers Start Drills Tonight

Basket ball practice will be started tonight at George Washington University, with Head Coach Pixlee in charge. Between 15 and 20 candidates for the Buff and Blue quintet are expected to report, including Forrest Burgess and Arthur Zahn, letter winners last year. Johnny Fenlon, Wayne Chambers and Fred Mulvey, other veterans, will report after the close of the football season.

George Washington's first game, and the only one before the Christmas holidays, is scheduled with Shenandoah College on December 16.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL "RACKET"—YEAH!

expensive to jump over or something very expensive and, for the best results, brand new, to throw.

To argue that these things are not necessary would be to argue for a reduction in the American standard of living, and here the student editors would come into conflict with the American Federation of Labor.

The semiprofessional football players are only a little bit professional, anyway, and it seems fastidious to demand that they be strictly amateur in a country which does not demand of its public officers that they be strictly honest, but merely honest to all intents and purposes.

Intelligence of Gridmen Not Touched On.

It is reaching for the moon to establish such a standard for the holders of public office, and yet every now and again some one with a long moral reach starts reaching for the moon in football.

The fearless journalist in charge of the Spectator did not go into the general topic of the intelligence of football players, which was downright considerate of him. Special accommodations have been provided to take care of the dumb physical types and keep them eligible by reducing the standard to their level. One of the leading educators of the Western Conference has justified this on the ground that the classical education is not the only type of education required by modern conditions. This being so, it is feasible to establish departments of education which would not be recognized at Harvard, but which nevertheless fit deserving young men for honest careers as gymnasium directors, prize fighters, rubbers and superbarbers without undue intellectual strain. If the young varsity full back does not flunk his examination in the preparation of a blue-jowl beard, 36 hours old, for a quick once-over, or the theory of the hot-and-cold towels for acute hangover, he remains as eligible for the varsity squad in some schools as if he had learned a great deal of obscure material out of books at Harvard.

MERIDIANS BOOKING.

Diffenbaugh's Par 70 Wins Middle Atlantic Pro Golf

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE final tournament of the season staged under the auspices of the Middle Atlantic Professional Golfers Association was played yesterday afternoon on the course of the Kenwood Club, the field being composed entirely of Washington professionals.

George Diffenbaugh, assistant professional at the Indian Spring Club, was the winner with a fine par-golf score of 70, and J. Munro Hunter, the Indian Spring professional, was second with 72. Third money was won by Arthur B. Thorn, Woodmont, whose card totaled 74. Diffenbaugh's card, equalling the par of the course, was as follows:

Out—5 5 4 3 5 3 4 3 4—36
In —3 4 5 4 5 3 3 3 4—34—70

Eleven professionals were in the competition and the scores were as follows:

George Diffenbaugh, Indian Spring, 36, 34—70; J. Monro Hunter, Indian Spring, 37, 35—72; A. B. Thorn, Woodmont, 36, 38—74; Walter Cunningham, Burning Tree, 37, 38—75; Archie Clark, Congressional, 38, 37—75; Gilbert Cunningham, Burning Tree, 39, 37—76; James Powers, unattached, 39, 38—77; Mel Shorey, East Potomac Park, 38, 40—78; Tony Sylvester, Bannockburn, 37, 41—78; A. L. Houghton, Kenwood, 40, 39—79; Alex. Armour, Congressional, 38, 42—80.

The tournament given yesterday on the course of the Chevy Chase Club by the Women's District Golf Association for the unemployment fund proved most successful. No less than 107 women golfers participated in the event, all of whom paid an entrance fee of $1 or more. Mrs. Frank Tomlinson, for instance, declining to turn in her card but asking Mrs. Frank R. Keefer, the president of the association, to accept a $5 bill in lieu of her score.

Tourney Nets $130 for Charity.

Altogether the receipts amounted to $130, all of which will be given to the Central Union Mission or some other charity. All of the prizes were donated and ranged from a box of spaghetti to enormous bunches of yellow chrysanthemums.

Only one player in the entire field was able to break 90, although the course was hard and fast and the weather was ideal. Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Middle Atlantic champion had a card of 44 and 43 for a total of 87, and won low gross prize. Miss Dorothy Hunter, Indian Spring, with 47-44—91, was second and Mrs. Betty P. Meckley, Indian Spring, with 50-42—92, was third. There was a tie for fourth low gross between Mrs. J. W. Beller, Chevy Chase, and Mrs. Harrison Brand, jr., Chevy Chase, with cards of 46-48—94 and 47-47—94, respectively, and Mrs. Beller won in the draw.

Mrs. Parker West, Chevy Chase, won the low net prize with 96-18—78, with Mrs. J. R. DeFarges, Columbia, second with 100-20—80.

Quite a number of the players were fortunate enough to capture birdies, including Mrs. Gross, who chipped her ball into the cup with a mashie niblick for a birdie 3, on the seventh hole, and Mrs. J. T. Powell, Manor, whose birdie 2 on the tenth hole, came within a few inches of being an ace.

The women's team of the Congressional Country Club has won the silver trophy offered by the Women's District Golf Association. In celebration of the event the members of the team invite all the players who have competed on the various club teams during the past summer to meet at the Congressional Club at 10 o'clock next Thursday morning for a get-together day of golf.

The first annual golf championship of the Engineer Department of the District government will be played next Thursday and Friday afternoons on the course of the Beaver Dam Club. Ten prizes will be awarded and handicaps will be decided on the basis of previous scores.

SCRIMMAGE MARKS MD. WORKOUT

Byrd Prepares Team for W.-L. Game Saturday.

FOR the first time since October 6, when Coach Curley Byrd was whipping the Old Liners into a fighting condition which since then carried them over all opponents except Vanderbilt, Maryland University's grid team scrimmaged yesterday afternoon as the first step in prepping for Saturday's game with Washington and Lee.

It will be Maryland's homecoming day at College Park against the Generals, whose stock rose considerably in this section last Saturday, when they ground out a 6-0 victory over Princeton.

Cognizant of the fact that only a Maryland team up on its toes is going to be able to turn back the Virginians, Byrd sent his first and second squads through the hardest half-hour scrimmage of the year yesterday. Both teams, fresh from their extended layoff, weathered the storm without injuries.

Al Woods, quarter back, who has not been in uniform since the first quarter of the Kentucky game, looked good yesterday, but, like the rest of the squad, showed cobwebs in his strenuous play. The first team was able to score but one touchdown against the second during the half hour, which was a source of disappointment to Coach Byrd.

Work will continue at a brisk pace during the remainder of the week.

Playground Quintet Would Enter League

Acting President Vic Gauzza of the newly organized Government Basket Ball League has received an application for a franchise from the Playground Teachers' Department, which has organized a court combination.

The remaining franchises will be awarded tomorrow night at a meeting in the Vic Sport Shop, which is expected to iron out details of beginning the season's play.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

BARRING THE FOOTBALL BROADCASTERS.

"Harvard has barred Ted Husing, famous radio broadcaster, from the Harvard Stadium for alleged unfair criticism of the Crimson eleven, including reference to Barry Wood's playing as 'putrid.'"—News item.)

* * * *

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Graham McNamee, it was announced by the Yale Athletic Association today, has been barred from the Yale Bowl for all time. The charge is that he has repeatedly broadcast the wrong game.

"Certainly," declared an old grad today. "The games we have watched have not been the same ones that Mr. McNamee described over the radio."

It is also alleged that Mr. McNamee on numerous occasions, in the heat of a game, called Albie Booth "Bob Cassiter" and in the Army game referred to him as the fleetest back West Point ever had.

"Something had to be done about Mr. McNamee," said a football official. "When we got home after these football games we had a terrible time squaring our story of the contest with what our wives and children had heard on the air."

* * * *

PRINCETON, N. J.—It is understood that Princeton will welcome as a broadcaster Mr. Husing, who was barred from Harvard for using the adjective "putrid" with reference to the play of a Crimson player. "That adjective is not strong enough to describe the playing of the Tiger team this season," said an old Princeton man today. "You ought to hear the words used by some of the fans."

Mr. Husing, when told of the Princeton rumor, said, "I do not know that there are any words to describe the Princeton Team's performance this season."

* * * *

South Bend—Officials of Notre Dame refused to discuss today a report that Bill Munday would not be allowed to broadcast any future Notre Dame football games on the ground that he repeatedly referred to Jaskwich, Sheeketski and Melinkovitch as "fighting Irish."

It is known, however, that the authorities have repeatedly cautioned Mr. Munday against this. "The first thing you know," said a coach, "people will be getting the idea that Irish boys are allowed on the Notre Dame Teams."

* * * *

WEST POINT—A decision to bar all radio broadcasters from future games here will be announced within a few days, it has just been learned.

"Will there be no exceptions?" a prominent football official was asked.

"None," he replied. "We have tried them all and are satisfied that there isn't a broadcaster who can describe a football game the way it is played. In one of our games the announcer went so far as to describe a touchdown as due to a wild pitch. There is a limit to everything."

FOOTBALL DETERIORATION.

The football players of an Eastern college threaten to beat up the editor of one of the college papers. Such action would bear out the contention that college football players lack the old love of battle.

STOCK PRICES DROP; RAILS LEAD DECLINE

Silver Is Set Back Sharply, With Industrials Joining Wider Losses.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Stocks refused to become excited over the rally in grains today. Rather, the market was influenced by the weak tone of its railroad, copper and electrical equipment issues, and was lower during all but a small part of the quiet session.

Most of the larger net losses occurred in the carrier group, where a few stocks made new lows.

Wheat climbed vigorously, accompanied by corn and rye. Bullish Argentine advices and smaller floating supplies doubtless offered weightier arguments for the advance than did Far Eastern developments, although the latter probably helped the bull cause in view of reports that China and Japan, confronted with smaller rice crops, had imported considerable wheat in recent months.

Silver Is Set Back.

Silver was set back sharply, spot losing 2⅛ cents. London cabled weak quotations for the metal there and futures here were revised downward by the maximum amount allowed for one day. India and China were said to have sold.

Stocks struggled higher before noon, but the reduction in International Nickel's dividend, the continued deadlock among the copper producers and the weakness of silver stimulated selling of the metal issues.

Westinghouse and General Electric, affected by further heaviness in Radio and R-K-O as well as by bearish gossip concerning their industry's current state of health, were soggy on the advance, while the action of rail stocks seemed to clinch the case against a rally and the improvement was of brief duration, some firming occurred in the last hour, but the list lapsed again in the late dealings. Sales totaled 1,520,755 shares.

Southern Pacific Weak.

New York Central sold as low as 39⅞ and closed at 40⅛, off 2 points net. Southern Pacific was particularly weak, dropping to 43 and finishing at the bottom, or 3¾ lower. Atchison gave up a 3-point rise, while Norfolk & Western, Union Pacific, Illinois Central, Pullman and New Haven were off 1 to 2½.

Westinghouse lost more than 4 points and General Electric again eased under 30. Anaconda, Kennecott, Nickel and American Smelting were under pressure, while Radio set a record low of 8¼. American Telephone halved a drop of 3 points.

U. S. Steel, General Motors, American Can and Bethlehem were fairly steady. Case, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck and R. H. Macy firmed.

EARNINGS AND DIVIDENDS.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—International Securities Corporation has omitted the dividend on the Class "A" common stock due at this time. September 1 last the company paid 25 cents, prior to which three quarterly dividends of 30 cents were paid. The company declared the regular quarterly dividends of $1.62½ on the 6½ per cent preferred and $1.50 on the 6 per cent preferred stocks, both payable December 1 to stock of record November 17.

The meeting of Adams Express Co., ordinarily scheduled for today, has been postponed until November 30.

Don, Jones & Co., in a special dispatch from San Francisco, quotes F. E. Williamson, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, as stating directors of the Burlington unquestionably will declare the regular semiannual dividend of 45 at the next meeting.

Mr. Williamson indicated as a "conservative expectancy" that earnings this year will average between 8 and 8½ per cent on the capital stock. The Burlington is in a strong position, and should earnings fall even as low as $8 a share, it would be necessary to call on surplus for only about $3,416,000 for dividend coverage, he added.

BONDS AGAIN LOWER IN $9,022,000 SALES

Argentine Issues Join Drop With Wide Losses; List Decline Is Small.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Bonds receded irregularly today as activity slackened appreciably, but the decline was inclined to flatten out.

Sales of the stock exchange totaled $9,022,000. Trading in the over-the-counter market was dull. Losses in corporate obligations on the whole were smaller than in the foreign loans.

Argentine issues developed group weakness and losses in them ranged upward to 4½ points, the amount of the decline in the 6 per cent issue of May, 1960. With the exception of the series A 6s of 1957 the turnover in them was not heavy. Argentine loans along with other foreign obligations often fluctuate widely.

German bonds eased off moderately, following the week-end news of the Hessian election, although many of them experienced only a few sales. The 5½s of 1965 and the 7s of 1949 were the most active. Gelsenkirchen 6s and German Central Agricultural Bank 7s of 1950 closed 2⅞ and 2⅝ points lower, respectively.

The narrow nature of the downward movement among corporate issues is indicated by the fact that the closing average price of twenty bonds each of public utility, railroad and industrial companies declined only one-tenth of a point to 83.9. A few wide losses were scattered over the list, but the turnover in most such instances was unusually small.

Baltimore & Ohio Toledo & Cincinnati Division 4s, Allis Chalmers 5s, Canada Southern 5s, Chicago, Burlington & Quincy 5s, Crown Cork & Seal 6s and Long Island General 4s sagged 1 point or more on single transactions.

United States Government loans moved downward with the general trend. Activity in them increased somewhat in the afternoon.

An issue of $1,000,000 of 4¼ per cent bonds of Ramsey County, Minn., maturing in 1 to 20 years was awarded today to the National City Co. and the Harris Trust & Savings Bank on a bid of 100.31. The bonds are being reoffered to yield 4.10 per cent.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Cotton was generally lower today under some Southern and local selling combined with liquidation.

January contracts sold off to 6.37, or 9 points net lower, and closed at 6.40 with the general market, closing barely steady at net declines of 4 to 6 points.

The opening was barely steady, 1 to 5 points under liquidation, together with some Southern and foreign selling which appeared to be influenced by the relatively easy Liverpool cables and weakness in silver. The selling appeared to be in considerable volume, but there was a good deal of trade buying or covering on the scale-down and the influence of the decline in silver was probably offset to some extent by the advance of grain.

The demand was gradually filled and the markets worked off slowly during the middle of the day, although buying orders from the trade were encountered on every point down. December sold off to 6.26 and March to 6.54, making net losses of about 7 to 9 points during the early afternoon, but covering became a little more active and later fluctuations were irregular. Closing quotations showed rallies of 2 or 3 points from the lowest.

While there was some Southern hedging here during the earlier trading, pressure of that sort did not seem much in evidence during the day, and the selling was attributed chiefly to liquidation.

Liverpool cables reported hedging and continental liquidation in that market due to the decline in Egyptian and Indian cotton, but said the British home trade in cotton goods was improving. Egyptian cotton futures in Alexandria were 14 to 42 points lower and the Indian spot quotations in Liverpool showed a decline of 10 points.

Brokers supposed to be operating for the cooperative interest were credited with selling here at times during the day, but after the opening activity trading was only moderately active and much of the pressure was attributed to scattering liquidation. Exports today, 58,872, making 2,320,652 so far this season. Port receipts, 66,543. U. S. port stocks, 4,612,036.

HARKER TO TESTIFY TODAY AT TRIAL OF POLICE HE ACCUSES

GOVERNMENT'S FIRST WITNESSES ARE HEARD

Barber Swears Complainant Was Unscarred Before He Was Arrested.

James Henry Harker today will describe to a jury in criminal court No. 1 the third degree tactics allegedly used by four defendant policemen following his arrest on suspicion of housebreaking last August.

United States Attorney Leo Rover said last night that he would call Harker to the stand to testify to the beating which he says he suffered at the hands of the officers who went on trial yesterday morning before Justice James M. Proctor.

The policemen, four of the eighteen who were indicted for assault after the disclosure of the Harker case in The Post brought a Department of Justice investigation, are Precinct Detective James Mostyn and Privates William R. Laflin, W. C. Grooms and William T. Burroughs.

Selection of a jury was completed shortly after noon. The Government used half of its ten possible challenges, while the defense challenged seven prospective jurors.

Rover Outlines His Contention.

Following the completion of the jury, Mr. Rover outlined his case in an opening statement. He said that he would show that the policemen forced Harker to remove his coat and shirt in spite of his refusal to admit any connection with the robbery. "Mostyn took a piece of rubber hose from a desk and struck the boy on his back, arms and neck," Rover declared. "Then they made him sit in a chair. Mostyn then kicked over the chair and struck Harker again with all his force while the boy was lying on the floor," the prosecutor said.

"We will show you," he continued, "that Mostyn, after beating a confession from this boy, went to his superior officer and told him that the mystery of the robbery had been solved. We will show you that Harker was beaten in the First Precinct by Mostyn and Laflin while their two fellow officers stood by and looked on."

After Rover's statement the court was adjourned until afternoon, when James A. O'Shea, defense attorney, outlined the plans of the defense.

He said that the defense would show that the complaining witness, Harker, had served jail sentences, that he was on probation for a three-year "breaking and entering" conviction in Atlantic City, and that his claim of ill treatment at the hands of the officers was merely a subterfuge to escape conviction for the robbery.

Photographs Put In Evidence.

Frank Kelly, other defense attorney, did not make an opening speech.

The first Government witness called to the stand was Walter S. Rice, a photographer from the Bureau of Standards, who identified three pictures of the interior of the First Precinct and one of the rear of the Post-office Lunchroom, as those which he had made for the Department of Justice agents. These photographs were admitted as evidence without defense objections.

Rover then called Capt. William E. Holmes, of the First Precinct. Holmes identified the record of Harker's arrest on the precinct blotter. A photostatic copy of this was admitted as evidence, with the exception of the words "nothing in or out" which appeared on it. These words were objected to by O'Shea and Justice Proctor sustained him. They had reference to the fact that Harker could not be seen except by his lawyer or family while he was confined on charges of investigation.

On cross-examination by O'Shea, Capt. Holmes testified that although Harker's mother came to the station during her son's incarceration, she did not ask to see him.

Bakery Employe Tells Condition.

The next Government witness was John S. Privott, barber. Under questioning by Rover, he said that late one Friday morning Harker came to the shop at 211 Sixth street northwest and was shaved and had haircut. At this time there were no marks, bruises or other evidences of a beating on Harker's face, he said.

Following Harker's arrest and release on bond, Privott said he saw him on either Sunday or Monday. At this time he had a black eye, the barber said. After short cross-examination by O'Shea, he was excused. On Kelly's plea, Justice Proctor enjoined him against discussing the case with any other witnesses.

Philmore E. Sanford, an employe of Sandy's Bakery, where Harker worked, was then called by Rover. Sanford told that Harker came to work on Friday about 3:30 and left at 11 p. m. About 1 o'clock on Saturday morning Policeman Burroughs brought Harker to the bakery to determine if he worked there, Sanford said. On neither occasion were there bruises on Harker's face, he said.

Says Harker Had Been Drinking.

Under cross-examination by O'Shea, Sanford stated that Harker was visibly under the influence of liquor when he came to work. He also said that while he was present, an employe of the robbed lunchroom identified Harker as the person who was seen loitering near on the night of the housebreaking.

The courtroom was filled to capacity throughout the first day. In a front seat was J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Bureau of Investigation, and among the spectators were several of the other policemen who face trial on similar charges.

Mr. Rover said that in continuation of the presentation of the case he would call other employes of the bakery and Harker himself, today.

The jury is composed of the following: Hugh R. Insley, salesman; Stephen R. Caldwell, salesman; H. Stewart Harris, pharmacist; B. P. Davis, store buyer; William B. Davis, bank teller; Burns C. Downey, president of the General Auto Truck Co.; Eugene W. Farlee, auditor; Charles T. Hartley, vulcanizer; George E. Foreman, bank teller; William B. Fowler, contractor; Howard J. Barrett, cashier, and Ward T. Mixsell, engineer.

ONE DEAD, ONE HURT AS HUNTING SEASON IS OFFICIALLY BEGUN

J. M. Miller Is Fatally Shot Through Head Near Freestone Point.

CORONER GIVES VERDICT OF ACCIDENTAL DEATH

E. R. Franklin, Policeman, Sends Charge Into Foot; Toe Is Amputated.

One fatality and one injury for the Washington area were registered yesterday as the hunting season officially opened.

J. Miles Miller, 29 years old, of 1 Sherman Circle, an adjuster connected with the Cafritz Co., was instantly killed when a gun in the hands of Norman Clark, of Cherry Hill, Va., discharged.

A policeman, Elmer R. Franklin, 41 years old, attached to the Third Precinct, of Cherrydale, Va., had part of his foot amputated after he had accidentally shot himself while on a hunting trip in Fairfax County.

With Two Companions.

In company with E. L. Strohecker, of 214 Rosemary street, Chevy Chase, and Capt. George White, also of Chevy Chase, Mr. Miller had gone to the Freestone Point Gun Club in Prince William County on Sunday afternoon to prepare for the opening of the duck season yesterday.

With two companions he occupied a blind yesterday on the Potomac River near Freestone Point. The three men had gotten the bag limit about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and called Clark, the tender, to come and get them.

Accidentally Discharged.

Clark came out in a row boat and as he got to the blind he picked up a single-barreled shotgun which he had in the bottom of the boat. In some manner it discharged, the entire load taking effect in the side of Mr. Miller's head.

An inquest was held over the body by Coroner W. H. Marsteller, of Manassas, Va., who issued a certificate of accidental death.

The body was then removed to the funeral parlors of Hall & Goff, at Occoquan, who transferred it to Washington last night.

Survived by His Widow.

Mr. Miller is survived by his widow, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Miller, of 1727 P street northwest, and two sisters, Mrs. V. E. Spain and Mrs. J. A. Houston, both of Washington. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Pvt. Franklin was injured while hunting in a wood near Wheeling. He was taken to Georgetown Hospital by Jack Kemp, another resident of Cherrydale, where physicians were forced to amputate his big toe and remove buckshot from the rest of his foot.

Extinguisher Routs Fire by Electric Ray

Demonstrations of some of the latest experiments in electricity by Dr. S. M. Kintner, vice president of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., and Dr. Phillips Thomas, research engineer of the company, featured a meeting of the Washington Board of Trade at the Willard last night attended by more than 900 members.

Among the latest inventions displayed was a fire extinguisher operated by electricity. It consists of a ray which releases a stream of water when the light is directed on a flame. The apparatus can be operated so that it plays over any given area and as soon as one portion of the fire is extinguished it turns to another and performs the same function.

Dr. Thomas and Robert J. Cottrell, executive secretary of the board, enacted a modern version of William Tell when the demonstrator shot an apple from the secretary's head with an electric ray. Lights were put on and off by a wireless dial system; lights were ignited with a match and a number of other demonstrations were given.

The board members were entertained with songs by Miss Ina Holbzscheiter, soprano, and Edwin C. Steffe, barytone, District winners in the Atwater Kent audition. Talks were made on the charity football game to be played here December 12, on the Red Cross and the Drama Guild of Washington. George W. Offutt, president of the board, presided.

UTILITIES BODY WINS POWER RATE RULING OF SUPREME COURT

Opinion Upholds Commission's Authority to Discard Consent Decree.

MOTION TO DROP 3-CENT CAR FARE CASE IS LOST

Opinion Gives Public Group Right to Set New Electric Scale, Is View.

The Public Utilities Commission won a significant victory and suffered a slight setback in two opinions handed down yesterday in District Supreme Court.

While both the motion to dismiss the appeal of the Potomac Electric Power Co. and that to dismiss the 3-cent car fare case were overruled, the opinion in the power rate controversy was considered a victory for the District agency as it upheld the authority of the commission to discard the consent decree and establish new electric rates.

This ruling settles an issue that last winter and spring caused a temporary breach between the utilities body and its counsel as well as People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech. Until a short while before issuing the order setting up a new sliding scale, which action is the basis of the power company's appeal, members of the commission believed that the consent decree could not be modified or abandoned without permission of the court.

Decree Held Not Binding.

People's Counsel Keech and William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, were the first to urge the commission to set up new rates without consulting the court on the ground that the consent decree, entered into by a former commission, was not binding on the present body.

Referring to the decree, Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat said: "Neither that decree nor the agreement upon which it was based had, or could have had, under the statute, the effect of settling permanently the question of proper rates to be charged by the plaintiff.

"That question presents a continuing problem to be solved from time to time, as it arises. So is the power of the commission to solve it a continuing power, to be exercised from time to time according to the need. Correspondingly, the duty of the commission is a continuing duty. Neither a court decree nor an agreement can deprive the commission of that power or absolve it from that duty. All this seems plain from a reading of the statute."

Interpretation of Opinion.

This opinion was interpreted as the District Building as giving the utilities body ample authority to establish new electric rates at once without regard to the consent decree, but it is expected that the commission will wait until the arguments are presented and the validity of the sliding scale, which fixes the power company's rate of return, is ruled upon.

Had the commission established a new schedule of rates when it adopted the new sliding scale last spring, these rates would have been sustained in effect by the Chief Justice's opinion, and the burden would have been upon the power company to prove them unreasonable.

Justice Jennings Bailey dismissed without prejudice the joint motion of the people's counsel and Mr. Roberts to dismiss the appeal of the street railways and the Washington Rapid Transit Co. from the 3-cent school fare order.

The District's attorneys were given permission, however, to renew the motion in their answer to the suit, which must be filed within 20 days.

INTENT TO KILL CASE BASED ON CAR CHASE

Two Capital Men Named in Charge Filed in Prince Georges County.

Charges of assault with intent to kill arising from use of a smoke screen in a liquor chase have been placed against two men arrested early Sunday morning by Prince Georges County police.

The men are Charles Butler and Thomas White, both of Washington, who were captured after police bullets had pierced their tires at the end of a 5-mile run. At time of their arrest both were charged with possession of 84 gallons of alleged liquor and operation of a smoke screen.

In addition, Butler was charged with driving while drunk, reckless driving, exceeding 60 miles an hour and having neither registration card nor permit.

Four policemen took part in the chase, which started at Muirkirk, on the Baltimore boulevard. At a speed which is said to have exceeded 85 miles an hour at times, the pursuit led to College Park, where the fleeing car turned off the boulevard.

At this time, police say, the supply of smoke materials in the pursued car gave out, and officers were able to to open fire with their pistols. Both rear tires were reported punctured before the machine halted.

Policemen who made the arrests are Sergt. H. G. Machen, Officer Ralph Brown, and Constables Howard Slater and Kelly Woodell.

Three men have been indicted by the county grand jury for assault with intent to kill for smoke-screen operation, but none of them has ever come to trial. Two of the cases were allowed to lapse, and the third man escaped from jail before date set for his trial.

CONGESTION CITED AT ST. ELIZABETHS

Overcrowded Condition of 33 1-3 Per Cent Shown in White's Report.

Acute overcrowding of insane patients at St. Elizabeths Hospital was complained of yesterday by Dr. William A. White, superintendent of the institution, in his annual report to the Interior Department.

The report charged "an overcrowded condition of 33 1-3 per cent," based on the last survey of the hospital's facilities, made by the Comptroller General five years ago.

The Comptroller General estimated the normal capacity of St. Elizabeths at 3,300 patients. At the close of the last fiscal year there were 4,721 patients at the hospital, Dr. White pointed out.

Only 200 Beds Added.

Only 200 beds, in the new Medical and Surgical Building completed last year, have been added since the Comptroller General's estimate was made, according to the report.

Congress was appealed to in an effort to correct the situation, and remedial steps were taken. Appropriations of $240,000 for a new tuberculosis building, with a capacity of 88 beds; $825,000 for two continuous treatment buildings, each to contain 164 beds, and $1,050,000 for a new male receiving building were made.

"The most significant and outstanding single fact regarding the hospital for the past year has been the increased rapidity with which it has grown in size and the consequent acutely overcrowded condition," the report stated.

Increase Pointed Out.

"The past two years have seen an increase of approximately 200 patients per year in the total population."

Figures submitted to the department showed that 5,354 patients were treated at the hospital last year. The daily average population was 4,602, the figures showed, an increase of 212 over the preceding year.

Legislation providing voluntary commitment for treatment, trial of insane persons only on request, automatic restoration of civil rights of patients on certification of the superintendent, was recommended in the report.

Pageant Chairman Outlines Plans.

Mrs. Marie Moore Forrest, pageant chairman for the National Bicentennial Commission, last night outlined plans for the program of special events to be held in connection with next year's bicentennial celebration, at a meeting of the Delaware State Society at the Thomas Circle Club. J. E. Boudwin entertained the society with popular songs to banjo accompaniment.

Court Decision on Meters Asked by Diamond Cab Co.

Petition for Injunction to Restrain Public Utilities Commission From Enforcing Recent Order Filed in Friendly Action to Test Body's Power.

The Diamond Cab Co. got the drop on its competitors, the zone system instigators, yesterday, when one of its operators, George T. McWhorter, asked the District Supreme Court for an injunction to prevent the Public Utilities Commission from putting into effect its order requiring meters on all taxicabs after January 10.

The application was entirely of a friendly nature and is intended to establish rather than to challenge the commission's authority to require meters. Throughout the recent rate war and during the public hearing, the Diamond Cab Co. was one of the foremost agitators for a return to the meter basis.

By obtaining a ruling at once, Diamond officials and the commission hope to forestall any last-minute effort by one of the independent companies to postpone the effectiveness of the order through litigation. Diamond operators also are adverse to installing the meters so long as there is any uncertainty as to the legality of the order.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech, who has consistently stood with the flat-rate cabs against the meter advocates, was considering yesterday whether he would intervene in the case.

Officials of the Bell and City Cab companies are considering moves to counteract the order, particularly the clause abolishing the rental system of operation. It was chiefly because of these plans that the Diamond company brought the test case.

Through Attorney Alfred D. Smith, McWhorter contended that the commission is without authority to order cabs to install meters. The power, he said, lies wholly with the District Commissioners.

Counsel for the utilities body are confident that the new traffic act gives it clear authority to order meters on all cabs. Some of the other provisions of the order, especially the one directed at the rental system, are considered more open to question.

William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, is understood to be planning a determined drive on all cab operators who are in any way lax in observing regulations of the commission. While the meter does not become effective until January 10, there are numerous other orders which have been constantly ignored by a large number of taxi operators.

After permitting the taxicab industry to run itself for almost two years, the commission is now bent on regulating it as strictly as any public utility in the District.

Fred G. Fraser, commander of the District of Columbia Department of the American Legion, who officiated at the installation, announced last night in behalf of the national headquarters, that a new charter had been granted the local department.

3 Boys Go on Trial In Cabman's Death

Controversy Is Stirred Over Admissibility of Slain Driver's Pictures.

Three colored boys went on trial yesterday on an indictment charging them with first degree murder. They are William C. Robinson, Charles E. Washington and Leonard A. Layton.

The indictment alleges that a taxicab driver, Mannie Soloman, was shot and killed by one of the three when he attempted to frustrate a hold-up July 29, in Southwest Washington. One bullet was fired, penetrated Soloman's neck, and killed him instantly.

A wrangle over the admissibility of pictures of Soloman's body, taken by police photographers, was in progress when court adjourned. Assistant United States Attorney John Sirica, prosecuting the youths, today will file with Justice F. D. Letts, trial justice, authorities supporting his contention that the pictures, being of an official nature, are admissible. E. Russell Kelly, of the defense counsel, opposed showing the pictures to the jury on the theory that they would tend to influence unduly the members.

The chase lasted for ten minutes and at times the cars were going between 45 and 50 miles an hour. Fifteenth street, F street, Fourteenth street and E street were some of the busy thoroughfares thrown into a turmoil by the wild chase.

The chase ended near the White House on East Executive avenue when Miller caught up to Anderson and leveled his gun at him. Anderson was booked at the Traffic Bureau for investigation. He was admitted to Gallinger Hospital for observation.

Taxi Rates Defended Before West End Group

Fairness of the new rates for taxicabs was praised before the West End Citizens Association last night by William A. Roberts, assistant corporation counsel. The new fares are not a return to the old rates but a compromise which will enable the taxi drivers to earn a living and the owners a fair return on their investment, he said.

The association renewed its protests over the condition of Grant School. Members again pointed out that the school had 500 pupils and only two washrooms. A committee was named to present a plea for a new school to the District Commissioners, and members said that the fight would be taken to Congress if possible.

A rookie fireman was seriously injured yesterday afternoon in a routine fire drill at the No. 2 Truck Company. C. A. Beeck, 22 years old, of 2215 Thirty-eighth street northwest, was taken to Emergency Hospital with a fractured bone at the base of the spine.

Beeck came hurtling down, but did not strike the net in the right position, fracturing the bone. He was taken to the hospital by the fire department ambulance. Firemen said last night that life net jumping is something of an art and there is danger in landing out of position or in the wrong spot in the net.

District Building Elevator Drops Load Into Basement

Fifteen District building employes took an unexpected ride and exploration trip shortly after 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

One of the antique elevators, which have several times been condemned by Col. John Oehmann, building inspector, failed to stop at the ground floor, on the Fourteenth street side, and fell with a jerk to the basement.

No one was injured but all were shaken up. As the operator was unable to bring the elevator back up to the ground floor, occupants had to make their exit via dark and devious basement passageways.

Ordinarily, the operator turns off the power, going down, when the elevator reaches the first floor and often the cage is maneuvered up and down several times before it stops at the proper place. The operator yesterday afternoon, however, is said to have waited until he was a few feet above the ground floor before he pulled the lever.

Repair men work daily trying to keep the elevators in shape. Officials are hoping that they will last until the building is abandoned for the Municipal Center.
